A. F. of L. Moves to Cut Building Costs

SEEKS REDUCED SCALES TO SPUR WORK ON HOMES

National Movement Gains Impetus.

Union officials in the Chicago area, in New York City, and in Washington confirmed reports last night that the American Federation of Labor's nation-wide program to lower costs and break the dam which has held back residential building is making steady progress in many cities.

In substance, the A. F. of L. proposal is that lower wage scales be set for home building than for industrial and commercial construction. From New York came word that 19 unions have begun negotiating with contractors for a flat $9 a day scale, urged by John P. Coyne, president of the A. F. of L. building and construction department. The present scale ranges from $11 to $14.

Elgin Bricklayers Act.

Altho Chicago unions admittedly are lagging behind in consideration of the proposals, one union in the suburban area has taken its stand for a change. Elgin local No. 27 of the Bricklayers' union announced yesterday that its home building rate will be $1.37½ an hour and that the old rate of $1.62½ will continue for commercial structures.

In Plainfield, N. J., the Bricklayers' and Common Laborers' union has cut its daily rate, effective April 1, from $8 to $6 for work on houses costing less than $10,000. Coyne announced that building trades councils in Detroit, Mich., and Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Toledo, in Ohio, are discussing seriously the project to encourage home building with lower costs.

The A. F. of L. suggestions are reported to be based on the belief that unemployment can be cut markedly and something like a building boom started if the costs are made attractive. Quotations on building materials like sand, cement, and lime have dropped in recent months, and it is reasoned that with a little slash in hourly wage rates the push that the building industry needs can be had.

C. I. O. Reduction Recalled.

It was recalled also that the Congress of Industrial Organizations, headed by John L. Lewis, has covetous eyes on the building trades and recently announced its plan to offer small home builders a $9 a day scale.

Harry Sandberg, chairman of the Elgin union's arbitration committee, said the home building cut was made "in answer to the A. F. of L. appeal." Heads of other building unions in Elgin said they believed there would be discussion of the matter by their memberships, but that nothing definite was being considered now.

Patrick J. Sullivan, president of the Chicago building trades council, said he had had no official word from A. F. of L. headquarters and that consequently no action of any kind had been taken here.

Await Fuller Information.

Officials of unions in Lake, McHenry, Kane, and Du Page counties said they had heard of the proposals unofficially, but were waiting for fuller information before doing anything toward revamping the home building scales. Usually these unions are swayed by wage rates in Chicago.

The national plan was laid before the New York City building and construction trades council last week by Coyne. After the meeting it was reported that all but two or three of the representatives of the 19 locals had voted approval. Altho the revision of the scale has not been accomplished, it was said no serious opposition was expected.

Thomas A. Murray, the trades council president, asserted that negotiations with the home builders had been started, but indicated no progress toward a definite solution had been made.

Coyne said that if the uniform wage scale for small homes was successfully adopted in other cities it might also be applied in Chicago. It was his belief that the lowered rate would be a big benefit to union labor, particularly since union leaders asserted much labor on such projects now is unorganized.

He emphasized that in all the cities the proposal was still in the discussion stage.

13 Gamblers Indicted, Nine for 2d Time

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

United States Attorney William J. Campbell yesterday put the finishing touches on a gigantic picture of organized gambling in Chicago and made ready to unveil it before a federal court jury.

John Toman, who appeared before jury.

Following the return of the last of a series of indictments by a special federal grand jury investigating the incomes of gamblers, Campbell announced that the government is ready to take the first direct court action against the Chicago gambling syndicate as a whole. He said the dates for arraigning the defendants will be set next week and the cases will be brought to trial as soon as possible.

A Record Indictment.

Yesterday's indictment contained a blanket conspiracy charge against William Johnson, reputed head of the syndicate; William R. Skidmore, allegedly his political go-between, and 11 of their associates, including several gambling resort managers and other lieutenants. It was the largest mass indictment of gamblers ever returned in Chicago.

Nine of the 13 defendants, including Skidmore and Johnson, have been named in previous indictments. But the new charges, according to legal observers, are more powerful because they will enable the government to present the picture as a whole. Without the last indictment, the government would have been forced to try most of the defendants separately and Prosecutor Campbell would have been limited to the presentation of evidence concerning only each specific case.

The Government Plan.

Now, it is contended, the government can show Johnson and Skidmore at the top of the syndicate—the former handling the mass of business details of so intricate an organization and the latter handling protection payoffs to politicians and police officials. From this, under the

LOCKED IN BOX CAR FOR SEVERAL HOURS, GIRL, 15, IS RESCUED

Betty Jane Bass, 15 years old, an eighth grade pupil of the Robert Emmett school, was rescued late yesterday afternoon from a Milwaukee road box car, in which she had been locked for perhaps 20 hours, at Rondout in Lake county. A brakeman and a fuel inspector who heard her cries opened the car door.

JAPAN'S PUPPET REGIME IS SET UP IN NANKING

NANKING, China, March 30, Saturday (AP).—An "all-China" Japanese sponsored régime, headed by former Chinese Premier Wang Ching-Wei, was proclaimed here today at brief ceremonies which proceeded without untoward incident. Derailment of an express train, blamed on Chinese guerrillas, marred the arrival of officials yesterday.

Establishment of the régime was denounced by Lin Sen, president of the National government in Chungking, yesterday. He said he and Chiang Kai-shek, leader of the Chinese forces, would "fight to the end for China's liberty," and appealed to the world to support China, which would "live on despite the Japanese and their puppets."

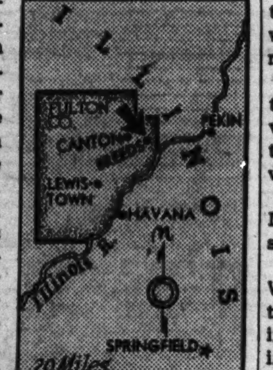
Wilds Hunted for Little Girl; Youth Quizzed

Canton, Ill., March 29 [Special].—An all-night search was pressed thru rough and desolate terrain in eastern Fulton county tonight for some trace of Helen Louise Chenoweth, 3 years old, who has been mysteriously missing from her home at nearby Breeds since early last evening.



Arrow locates Breeds, home of missing child.

Meantime, the child's cousin, William Long, 17, was held in the county jail at Lewistown after he had been questioned for five hours by Sheriff Robert Cook. The sheriff emphasized that the boy was not under arrest. Long, whose home is in Davenport, Ia., had been living at the Chenoweth farm home since Christmas.

Sheriff Cook said the youth was the last person known to have seen the little girl and that he had quarreled with her yesterday and slapped her when she teased him. Long insisted that he had nothing to do with Helen's disappearance and that he had no knowledge of her whereabouts.

Mother Visiting Neighbor.

The little girl vanished during a half hour in which her mother was visiting a neighbor. Long said he saw her crying on the doorstep because she could not accompany her mother. He said he told her to stop crying and that when he looked toward the doorstep a moment later she was gone.

The sheriff said there was some discrepancy between his story and the statement of the child's grandmother, who said she saw Helen some time later out in the barnyard where Long was bringing in a flock of sheep.

300 Searchers Busy.

More than 300 men searched the countryside in a radius of two and a half miles of the child's home thruout the day, but found no trace of her. The posse was comprised of enrollees from CCC camps near Pekin and Havana, volunteers, and county peace officers.

A group of about 125 continued the search thru the night.

MOSCOW WARNS EMPIRES: YOU PLAY WITH FIRE

Molotov Cites Perils in Near East.

MOSCOW, March 29 (AP).—Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov proclaimed tonight soviet Russia's desire to "maintain our neutrality and refrain from any participation in the war" in Europe, but flatly warned Britain and France that they are "playing with fire" with their armies in the near east.

He declared Russia does not intend to wrest her lost province of Bessarabia from Rumania "by war."

In a speech highly critical of Britain and France and with some thrusts at the United States, Molotov told the supreme soviet, Russia's legislature, that the soviet union "will continue our policy whether anybody likes or dislikes it."

Reviews Relations.

High points of his review of foreign policy and international developments included:

THE UNITED STATES—Russian-United States relations "have not improved of late," but they "have not become worse unless we take into consideration the so-called moral embargo against the soviet union which, now that peace with Finland has been concluded, is devoid of any significance."

GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE—"They do not like our policies. They want us to fight Germany in order to further their imperialistic aims. The U. S. S. R. will never be a tool of any country."

GERMANY—"Soviet-German relations were firmly proved in the Polish campaign."

THE NEAR EAST—"In Syria and the near east there is a suspicion of activities of the eastern army of the western powers. . . . We must be vigilant against any attempts to use these troops for a purpose hostile to the soviet union. The danger of playing with fire should be apparent to them. Our relations with Turkey and Iran [Persia] are regulated by non-aggression pacts."

Hits at Japan.

RUMANIA—"We have not recognized the seizure of Bessarabia by Rumania, but we have never demanded its return. The soviet union, however, does not mean to regain this by war and there has been no worsening in our relations with Rumania."

JAPAN—"Japan must realize that the soviet union will not tolerate any violation of her interests. Only if this is understood can our relations with Japan develop satisfactorily."

Turning to the war with Finland, Molotov said the conflict "was not simply a clash with Finnish troops."

"The matter was more complicated. We were fighting not merely Finnish troops but the combined forces of the imperialists of a number of countries, including Britain and France.

"Military aid did not come only from the allies but also from certain other imperialist countries, including Italy and even the United States.

A "Glorious Victory."

"The Finnish war indeed was a welcome opportunity for a number of imperialist states to embark on war against the soviet union. Despite all these efforts the strength and determination of the Red army converted the war into a glorious victory."

Molotov charged there were "numerous cases of exceptionally barbarous atrocities perpetrated by the Finnish whites on wounded Red army men who had fallen into their hands." He said that in "some cases corpses were found tied to trees head down," and that others had been "beheaded and the heads could not be found."

He placed Russian losses in the Finnish war at 48,745 killed and 158,863 wounded and Finland's at not less than 60,000 killed and 250,000 wounded.

[Finnish Field Marshal Baron Mannerheim had estimated the Finnish dead at 15,000 and Russian dead at 200,000.]

After hearing Molotov the supreme soviet adjourned until 6 p. m. Sunday, when it will take up the creation of a "Finnish-Karelian union republic," the 12th soviet republic.

Viewed as Blow to Axis.

LONDON, March 29 (AP).—British observers tonight interpreted the speech of Vyacheslav Molotov, Russian foreign commissar, to the supreme soviet as much a rebuff to Germany as to Britain and France.

Their first reaction was that Molotov's restatement of Russian neutrality "shattered" any Nazi idea of forging a three power axis, Berlin-Rome-Moscow.

OFFICIALS DENY NAZI CHARGE OF U. S. WAR BLAME

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—A series of official denials were made today and tonight in the wake of Germany's publication of asserted documents purporting to show that the United States helped to bring on the European war. The Germans claimed to have found the documents in official Polish archives in Warsaw.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

The alleged documents, as released for publication in Berlin, were represented as referring to pro-empire conversations involving William C. Bullitt, American ambassador to France; Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, and Count Jerzy Potocki, Polish ambassador to the United States.

President Makes Denial.

President Roosevelt in his press conference this afternoon discounted the credibility of the alleged documents by saying "all such propaganda emanating from Europe should be taken with a grain of salt."

He was reluctant at first to discuss these white papers, but in an off the record statement he amended his grain of salt comment to read "rather with two or three grains of salt."

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in his statement, asserted that officials of this government do not give "the slightest credence" to statements in the documents. He said that the "statements alleged have not represented in any way, at any time, the thought or policy of the American government."

"I may say most emphatically that neither I nor any of my associates in the department of state have ever heard of any such conversations as those alleged."

Bullitt Also Voices Denial.

Ambassador Bullitt, who is in Washington, in a denial this evening said "the President has indicated that propaganda of this nature should be taken with several grains of salt and I believe it should be taken with even more salt. I have never made to any one the statements attributed to me."

Ambassador Kennedy was reported in dispatches from London as declining to comment.

Immediately upon publication here of the Berlin dispatches, Count Potocki paid a hurried call to the state department and later said:

"The publication by the German government of pretended documents from the Polish foreign office is obviously for propaganda purposes. I deny the allegations attributed to my reports. I never had any conversations with Ambassador Bullitt on America's participation in war."

Reaction in Congress.

Representative George H. Tinkham [R., Mass.], member of the house foreign affairs committee, said: "This is what I have been trying to talk about. I have raised my voice against foreign entanglements several times."

Chairman Key Pittman [D., Nev.] of the senate foreign relations committee asserted the German government was attempting to "stir up opposition to the President and create fear in the minds of our people."

Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] said that the charges were of so serious a nature that the house foreign affairs committee should investigate, and declared that "if President Roosevelt has entered into secret understandings or commitments with foreign governments to involve us in war he should be impeached."

Sees Little Hope for Peace.

At his press conference the President commented that immediate hopes for peace in Europe are scant. This statement was made after he had received a final report from Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, head of the expedition he sent to Europe to find a "basis for a sound and lasting peace."

The President took occasion to commend Mr. Welles, saying that he had displayed "extraordinary tact and understanding," and had acted "in accordance with the best American diplomatic traditions."

The President also said the information gathered would be helpful in charting this nation's foreign relations course and that it "will undoubtedly be of the greatest value when the time comes for the establishment of . . . peace."

NAZIS CHARGE BULLITT VOWED: 'WE'LL FINISH IT'

Kennedy, Roosevelt Also Accused.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 29.—Adolf Hitler's government today charged that the United States had played a vital part in inciting Poland and the western powers to go to war against Germany. The charge was contained in sixteen documents which the German foreign office said had been taken from the archives of the Polish foreign office in Warsaw after Hitler's legions had swarmed over Poland.

The alleged papers consisted of reports made by Polish diplomats in Washington, D. C.; Paris, and London to Col. Josef Beck, then Polish foreign minister. In them President Roosevelt, William C. Bullitt, ambassador to Paris, and Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to London, were mentioned as American personalities who thru expressions of policy had influenced Poland, France, and England toward armed conflict with Germany.

"Remark" by Bullitt.

One of the supposed documents from the Polish ambassador in Paris to Col. Beck, quoted Bullitt as having said that the United States would not immediately enter a war on the British-French side, but that America would "finish" it.

A Polish representative in London was alleged to have reported to Beck that Kennedy had told him that he [Kennedy] would emphasize to British government leaders the necessity of immediate financial aid to Poland.

The documents, as offered for examination by the Germans in their foreign office, attributed the first expression of anti-Fascist feeling in the United States to Mr. Roosevelt. This, the documents alleged, was to divert the attention of Americans from troublesome domestic issues that were plaguing the administration and to gain support for a vast rearmament program.

One Written in English.

The documents for the most part covered the events leading up to the British-French guarantee of Poland's territorial integrity of March 31, 1939. Of the sixteen papers, all but one of them were typewritten in the Polish language. The exception, in English, was supposed to have been a memorandum by Anthony Eden, British statesman, on a conversation he had had with former President Marshal Josef Pilsudski of Poland.

Official German reaction to the disclosures which the documents supposedly made was that they "threw an interesting light on the part which American policy played in bringing about the present war."

The German press responded with a declaration that Kennedy and Bullitt "had used all their influence to aggravate the atmosphere of hostility in Europe" prior to the outbreak of the war last September.

Comment by Goering Paper.

The National Zeitung, which expresses the thoughts of Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, offered the most elaborate comment on issuance of the papers.

"Germany now is laying on the table proof of the war guilt of the western powers, as well as their open and secret stooges," it said.

The papers were a great sensation, the newspaper continued, because "all those men of prominence and official position who belong to the enemy camp and who can claim for themselves to have involved the world in this war, thru carefully prepared acts, figure in it.

More of Same Kind Coming.

"Especially noteworthy in this connection is the fateful rôle which American diplomats, especially those stationed in the most important posts of Europe, assumed. There can be no doubt, after taking cognizance of these Polish documents, that these American representatives used all their influence, the strength of which they knew ponderously how to underscore, to aggravate the atmosphere in Europe."

There will be more documents of the same kind issued later on, German officials said.

One of the papers was labeled a confidential report by Count Jerzy Potocki, Polish ambassador to Washington. It was dated Nov. 21, 1938.

It said that Bullitt hoped that during the ensuing two years Germany would engage in conflict with Rus-

GERMANS ACCUSE U. S. OF INCITING WAR ON HITLER

"Bullitt's reports to President Roosevelt and the state department are always studied with attention," the alleged report to Col. Beck read.

"Bullitt spoke with the greatest vehemence and strong hatred of Germany and Chancellor Hitler," this alleged report said. "He opined that only strength applied at the close of war could in the future put an end to Germany's mad expansion. To my question how he viewed this coming war, he replied that the United States, France, and Britain must arm up tremendously in order to defy German power.

"To my question whether the United States would participate in such a war he [Bullitt] replied: 'Undoubtedly, yes, but only after England and France bestirred themselves first. The attitude in the United States, he said, was so adverse to Nazilsm and Hitlerism that even today there is a psychosis among Americans similar to that before America's declaration of war on Germany in 1917."

A Twofold Object.

President Roosevelt's alleged attitude and opinions figure for the first time in what was represented as a report by Potocki dated Washington, Jan. 12, 1939. After asserting that hatred in the United States against all forms of Fascism was growing and was being incited by Jewish propaganda which, the document said, controls the radio, press, films, and magazines nearly 100 per cent, the alleged Potocki report continued:

"President Roosevelt was first to give expression to this hatred for Fascism. He thereby pursued a twofold object: First, he wanted to distract the attention of the American public from difficult and complicated domestic problems, especially between capital and labor.

"Second, by conjuring up a war psychosis and conjuring up danger in Europe, he wanted to persuade the American people to accept America's enormous preparedness program, a program which goes beyond defense needs. Roosevelt soon succeeded in creating interest in his foreign policy. The way chosen was quite simple: On the one hand the danger of war hanging over the world on account of Chancellor Hitler had to be set in a scene cleverly.

"On the other hand a ghost had to be invented which would jabber about an attack by totalitarian states on the United States.

"The Munich pact came in very handy for Roosevelt in that connection. He represented it as capitulation by France and England to pugnacious German militarism."

Another Cable to Beck.

Potocki then expressed the opinion that the Jews were using President Roosevelt to bring about a world war.

On Jan. 16, 1939, Potocki again cabled Beck, according to the released documents, this time assuring the foreign minister that the United States, in the eyes of Bullitt, would place itself with all force behind France and England against the totalitarian states.

Recording a purported conversation with Bullitt, the document attributed to Potocki expressed the opinion that Bullitt was charged with returning to Europe to assure France and England of the following four points:

"1. American foreign policy will become active under the leadership of President Roosevelt, who condemns totalitarian states sharply and unequivocally.

"2. War preparations by the United States on sea, on land, and in the air will be carried out with increasing speed and will devour the colossal sum of $1,250,000,000.

"3. The President holds the determined view that France and England must put an end to every policy of compromise with the totalitarian states. They [France and England] are not to enter upon any discussions with them that have the purpose of bringing about any changes in territory.

"4. Moral assurance is given that the United States will abandon its isolationist policy and is ready in the event of war to participate actively on the side of England and France. America is ready to place its entire resources in the way of finances and raw materials at their disposal.

"Bullitt was very emphatic in saying that France must not enter into any sort of an agreement with Mussolini.

Common Gangsterism.

"He [Bullitt] characterized Mussolini's methods as common gangsterism and blackmail."

After Bullitt had returned to Paris the Polish ambassador there, Jules Lukasiewicz, sent a "strictly secret" communication to Beck dated "February, 1939," according to the file made public here today. This communication said Lukasiewicz was able to report on two conversations with the American ambassador.

"He [Bullitt] gave expression to his conviction that the President surely had said he would sell airplanes to France, as the French army constituted the first line of defense for the United States.

"Theoretically the possibility exists that England, together with Berlin, could possibly try to compel France in a moment of some tension to accept a compromise incompatible with her own interests. In this case, however, France could count upon powerful support by Washington. The United States has various and extremely important means for exerting pressure upon England. The mere threat of applying them should suffice to restrain England from a policy of compromise at the expense of France.

"The relation of the ruling American factors toward Italy and Germany is negative chiefly because they opine that new successes by the Rome-Berlin axis which undermined the prestige as well as the authority of France and England as imperial powers constitute an almost direct threat to the real interests of the United States.

"One thing certainly seems clear, namely, that the policy of President Roosevelt in the near future will be directed toward supporting France's resistance, restraining German-Italian pressure and weakening English tendencies toward compromise."

Bullitt's Reaction.

Another "strictly secret" message from Lukasiewicz, dated March 29, 1939, was produced. The document recounted an alleged talk between the Pole and Bullitt on March 24 in which Lukasiewicz expressed his suspicion that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain was pursuing a purely selfish policy in which states like Poland had become mere pawns.

"No state in central or eastern Europe," Lukasiewicz is quoted as telling Bullitt, "could take a single English proposal seriously unless England engaged in actions which proved absolutely and beyond a peradventure of doubt its determination to sever relations with Germany."

The document then quoted the Polish ambassador as observing:

"Ambassador Bullitt took my observations very much to heart and requested me to restate them. I noted that he tried to memorize every paragraph. On the following day, March 25, Ambassador Bullitt informed me that he had adopted my views and, acting under the rights he enjoyed, had ordered the United States ambassador in London, Joseph P. Kennedy, to go to Prime Minister Chamberlain's residence today and repeat all this to him, at the same time categorically emphasizing the responsibility of the English government."

There follows a report ascribed to the Polish ambassador in London, Count Edouard Raczynski, dated March 29, on the British attitude toward Poland and a talk with Kennedy.

It quoted Raczynski thus: "Mr. Kennedy, who made me understand his views were based on a number of talks with the most important persons, declared that he was convinced that in case Poland were to decide in favor of armed resistance to Germany, especially as regards Danzig, it would draw England in its wake."

Tells of Seeing Kennedy.

The documentation went on to state that on June 6, 1939, the Polish commercial attaché, Jan Wszelaki, visited Kennedy at the American ambassador's invitation. The document in question quoted Wszelaki thus on a 45 minute conversation with Kennedy:

"At the beginning the ambassador asked me how Poland regarded Germany's economic position. He himself emphasized that in his opinion, Germany for some time to come could ruin the world with armament expenditures and that really there was no other alternative for her than war.

"In his opinion, Germany's turning away from her policies, including financial and economic, would be tantamount to a lost war.

"On the other hand he gave her at least certain prospects of attaining her demands by force. He spoke with a certain disdain of optimists who thought Germany could be defeated easily or quickly, or who counted on a quick revolution in Germany.

"The ambassador [Kennedy] emphasized that the west was facing bankruptcy if the present status of armaments continued for long. In the course of the conversation the ambassador asked me about the situation in Poland and our needs. That gave an opportunity for a longer exposé.

"The ambassador said we [the Poles] were the only people in eastern Europe on whose armaments, as well as their military value, one could count with total assurance. He asked what we wanted of England in the way of material and finances.

"The ambassador agreed cash was the most important matter and opined that if the English now limited their aid in this respect they later would have to spend 10 times as much to achieve the same effect.

"He added he would see the prime minister and Lord Halifax [British foreign minister] and insist upon the necessity of helping Poland at once with cash.

"In conclusion the ambassador told me his two sons, who recently had traveled all over Europe and had seen and learned much, intended to return to the United States to deliver a series of lectures at Harvard university concerning the situation in Europe and in individual states.

"The ambassador attached much importance to these lectures as an element of forming American opinion. 'You can't imagine,' the ambassador said, 'to what extent my oldest boy, who recently was in Poland, has the ear of the President. I would say the President believes him more than he does me—possibly because Joe presents his case with such conviction and enthusiasm.' Next week I am to see the ambassador again and also to meet his son."

Quotes American Ex-Attaché.

Another of the documents, a purported communication from the Polish general staff to the Polish foreign office, was dated Aug. 8, 1938. It included a copy of a report by the Polish military attaché at Lisbon on the visit of an English military mission to Portugal, and quoted Commander J. A. Gade, former American naval attaché at Lisbon, as follows:

"Ideologically we are completely on the side of the democraries. At present America is studying the possibilities for quick aid to England and France."

The only document in English is a purported copy of a telegram by Sir Howard Kennard [former British ambassador to Poland] to London, April 2, 1935, beginning with the words, "Following from Mr. Eden."

Eden is quoted as reporting on a talk with Marshal Pilsudski, in the course of which "the marshal appeared to wish that Britain should occupy herself with her colonies and not follow Lloyd George's bad example. What, for instance, he asked, was the political situation in Jamaica?

"I [Eden] told him that for our part we wished nothing better than to leave Europe to her own troubles but that our experience was that those troubles had an unhappy knack of involving our own country. The marshal didn't dissent."

Count Edouard Raczynski (right), Polish ambassador in London, and Jules Lukasiewicz, Polish ambassador in Paris, who also were quoted in documents.

REPORT RECORD WAR PLANE ORDER FROM EMPIRES

Los Angeles, Cal., March 29 [Special].—Secrecy today veiled a $200,000,000 war plane order, reported in reliable quarters to have been placed with the Douglas and Lockheed companies here by Great Britain and France. Both concerns declined to comment.

It is known that a British-French purchasing commission has been conferring in New York with representatives of the two companies and the order, if placed, would be the largest of its kind in history. It was reported today that war department sanction was the only obstacle to public announcement.

Interest of the empires' commission, it is said, has been focused on the purchase of 750 Douglas light bombers, with speeds ranging from 350 to 400 miles an hour, and 1,200 Lockheed twin motor pursuit planes.

LONDON, March 29 (AP).—Air Chief Marshal Sir Edgar R. Ludlow-Hewitt, who organized the British airplane raid on the German air base at Sylt Island last week, today was promoted to inspector general of the royal air force. He succeeds Sir Edward Ellington.

BRITISH SET TRAP IN FAR EAST FOR 20 GERMAN SHIPS

Hand Over Two Russian Vessels to French.

LONDON, March 29 (AP).—Relations between Britain and Russia became increasingly shaky tonight as the British handed over to their French ally two confiscated soviet freighters and prepared to round up German ships attempting to dash from the Netherlands East Indies to Vladivostok.

Soviet sources, on the other hand, outlining the Russian position, emphasized two factors:

FIRST—Foremost, "despite the newspapers," Russia has no political or military commitments with Germany and is not her ally.

SECOND—Russia is eager for "increased trade and friendly relations with Great Britain," altho no pact is being formulated.

But it seems evident, the Russian sources added, that Britain and France have embarked on a "treat Russia rough" campaign and that a deliberate attempt is being made to "blacken soviet Russia in the eyes of the British people and the world."

Ships Carrying Vital Metals.

The two Russian merchantmen, disposition of which lay at the heart of the controversy, are the 2,492 ton Selenga and the 3,972 ton Vladimir Mayakovsky, released by the British today to the French navy "for administrative reasons" and expected to be taken from Hongkong to Hanoi or some other French Indo-China port.

The ships, laden with metals such as tin, antimony and wolfram [tungsten], vital in the manufacture of munitions and arms, were intercepted in the far east en route to Vladivostok. The Vladimir Mayakovsky came from the United States and Mexico.

The British said the French navy has "more bases in the Pacific," thus is better able to continue contraband examination of the vessels.

Naval men then took sharp notice of reports that at least 20 German freighters were preparing to try a dash from Netherlands East Indies to Vladivostok with cargoes meant for Germany.

Concerning British-Russian trade, a reliable Russian source here declared: "It is not true that a British-Russian trade pact is being formulated.

Russia 'Eager for Trade.'

"The truth is, when Ivan Maisky, the soviet ambassador, discussed detention of the Russian ships with British Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs R. A. Butler on Feb. 22 and with Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax on March 27, he emphasized on each occasion Russia's eagerness for increased commerce with Britain and her willingness to frame trade agreements with Britain or any nation."

There was bitterness in some soviet sources on what they termed British "evasion" of Maisky's questions on the Selenga and Vladimir Mayakovsky.

Maisky, they said, had told Butler and Halifax that the ships were state-owned and had given his word their cargoes were intended for the soviet government and not for re-export to Germany, via Siveria. Despite this soviet officials said, Britain "evaded the issue and turned the ships over to France."

Furthermore, soviet sources pointed out, Russia has nothing to do with the intentions of German ships preparing to run from the East Indies for Vladivostok thru heavy empire patrols.

BRITISH CONVOY BOMBED; SANK SHIP, NAZIS SAY

BERLIN, March 30, Saturday (AP).—For the second successive night, German planes last night struck at a British convoy near England, sinking one ship and scoring "a number of hits on a cruiser," DNB, the German news agency, said early today. The high command announced yesterday that in Thursday night's attack German planes bombed six large merchant ships off the Shetland islands and sank a patrol boat.

British Battle Raiders.

LONDON, March 29 (AP).—Bombing and machine gunning at sea was heard ashore tonight as British fighter planes sped out over the North sea to repel German planes attacking shipping off eastern England. The British admiralty earlier announced that German war planes had made two unsuccessful attacks on British convoys during the evening.

Reuters news agency reported today from Oslo that owners of the 3,220 ton Norwegian steamer Burgos had been informed that the vessel was sunk yesterday off the English east coast. It said the crew of 32 was saved.

FRENCH SHOOT DOWN GERMAN PLANE AT FRONT

PARIS, March 29 (AP).—The French communique tonight said, "Local encounters between contact units. Fairly lively activity of both air forces. A German bimotored plane was shot down within our lines by our anti-aircraft guns. In addition, during March 28 a German reconnaissance plane fell within our territory."

BELIEVE BRITISH SEEK OLD PLACE IN EUROPE'S SUN

French See New Policy Dooming Isolation.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 29.—In appraising the French-British declaration formulated by the sixth supreme war council meeting of the empire countries in London yesterday, political and diplomatic circles here today appeared to stress two particular aspects of it:

FIRST—Its declaration of an indissoluble bond between the French and British is a response to German diplomacy's aim at a triangular pact among Russia, Italy, and the reich to guarantee the present status in the Balkans.

[England and France, in addition to promising to make no separate peace with Getrmany, pledged to continue their alliance after the war.]

SECOND—It marks a definite return to the European continent by the English, whence they were driven by the French 500 years ago, and the first time that the British have undertaken to pledge their policy with respect to the continent.

Revolution in Diplomatics.

The French contemplate this as a veritble revolution in British diplomatic history and assert that what Premier Paul Reynaud and his ministers signed in London is without precedent in French history.

French political sources, furthermore, assert that the London declaration is closely hooked up with the memorandum which Sumner Welles, American undersecretary of state, handed to former Premier Edouard Daladier of France and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of England during his visit here outlining the Roosevelt government's views on how peace should be organized. Some political circles assert there is an evident attempt to draw in the United States in the postwar reorganization foreshadowed in the London declaration.

See Rebuff to Roosevelt.

The French and British declaration of solidarity also was said by some diplomatic spokesmen to be a rebuff to any ideas President Roosevelt may have had to pitch into European affairs and try to mediate or bring about a compomise or negotiated peace on the basis of what Welles may have told him in Washington, D. C., yesterday.

But in its anxiety to find in the London meeting a strong counterfoil to German diplomacy, the authoritative newspaper Le Temps concluded the declaration was a real turning point in European history, for it means that "England has definitely renounced its traditional policy of isolation from the continent to join up effectively with France."

Soviet Envoy, Ousted by France, Goes to Bucharest

PARIS, March 29 (AP).—Jakob Surits, the soviet ambassador recalled by Moscow at the request of France, left tonight for Bucharest, Rumania. There was no official send-off. Surits incurred French displeasure by filing a telegram to Premier Vyacheslav Molotov of Russia, in which he made critical remarks about Britain and France after Russia's dictated peace with Finland.

BOASTS BRITAIN HAS MORE FOOD THAN BEFORE WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 29.—Great Britain need fear no serious food shortage, no matter what the future may bring, A. T. Lennox-Boyd, parliamentary secretary for the food ministry, announced today.

He said England now has more food than at the beginning of the war. He compared the success of the present rationing system with that of 1918 when food prices soared 84 per cent and people waited in long lines for supplies.

Lennox-Boyd said prices for staples have risen 16 or 17 per cent in this war. The government, he said, is spending between $3,000,000 and $3,500,000 weekly in pegging the prices of flour, meat, and milk.

LYONS, BROOKS GAIN SLIGHTLY IN TRIBUNE POLL

Dewey Holds Advantage; Roosevelt Slips.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

In the results of 8,649 ballots in THE TRIBUNE's straw vote given today some fluctuations are noticeable in the straws taken at street corners. Most of the street corner ballots today are from Republican wards.

It may be explained that this is with an aim of adjusting the tables. In taking the poll, so far as possible, the number of street corner straws from each ward is kept in about the same ratio to the total street corner straws thruout the city as the average election vote in the ward bears to the total average vote in Chicago in the last three elections. Churches and theaters are not included in this yardstick as each of them draws attendants from several wards.

Lyons Picks Up Slightly.

Comparing yesterday's street corner total with today's, Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for governor, picked up a few points in percentages. He has 40.05 per cent of today's corner votes. Dwight H. Green, his opponent for governor, has 59.95 per cent. In 3,272 Republican street ballots today 1,847, or 56.45 per cent, are from wards that went Republican or nearly Republican in recent elections.

Thomas E. Dewey, New York's candidate for the presidency, continues to roll up a remarkable total. Without an opponent, out of 18,615 straws in Chicago he has been given 17,033 votes. Only a score or so have written in the names of Senators Robert Taft of Ohio and Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan.

Wayland Brooks, candidate for United States senator, also gained a trifle in the street corner comparison. He had 69.52 per cent, against 30.48 per cent for Ralph E. Church.

Democratic Balance Changes.

On the Democratic side there were changes also. In today's street corner table are 2,874 Democratic votes, of which 1,564, or 54.42 per cent, came from Republican wards. President Roosevelt dropped a couple of points in today's total, getting 90.99 per cent, compared with 92.64 in yesterday's street corner table. Vice President Garner made a corresponding gain, going from 7.36 per cent to 9.01.

John Stelle, antimachine candidate for governor, dropped off a point, while Harry B. Hershey, who has the backing of the Chicago and Springfield organizations, gained a point.

Senator James M. Slattery picked up a point in this segment of straws over Benjamin S. Adamowski, his opponent for senator. State's Attorney Courtney got 62.15 of today's straws, and John Gutknecht, 37.85, a slight increase for Courtney over Friday's aggregate.

The Results to Date.

In 18,615 Chicago Republican straws at corners, churches, and theaters tabulated and published, including today's, the results are summarized as follows:

BARRETT BLAMES ILLEGAL ILLINOIS TEST ON FARLEY

George F. Barrett, candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, addressing a Republican meeting yesterday at 4220 Lincoln avenue, charged Postmaster General Farley with responsibility for President Roosevelt's name being illegally on the ballot in Illinois. He said Farley is back of a trial balloon sent up by the President which will determine whether he will seek a third term.

"Farley came to Chicago personally and gave the orders that President Roosevelt's name must go on the ballots here in April," Barrett stated. "The question went before the Illinois canvassing board and Farley again defied the state's rights and ordered the board to put Roosevelt's name illegally on the ballot.

"If New Dealer Farley in Washington holds so much power over little New Dealers in Illinois that he could, in this instance, force Illinois officials to violate their own laws, then we can't help but wonder how many other Illinois scandals are traceable to Washington orders."

Expect to Mail Personal Property Schedules Soon

County Assessor John S. Clark announced yesterday he will issue instructions Monday to deputy assessors for making the 1940 personal property assessments. All personal property in the county is assessed as of April 1. Clark said that for the first time since the 1928 property reassessment personal property schedules will be mailed to taxpayers in the county soon after April 1.

Below are additional Chicago tabulations in the Republican and Democratic columns of the straw vote being taken by THE TRIBUNE on the principal candidates in the Illinois primaries of April 9. Besides the presidential preference test the candidacies being canvassed are those for governor, United States senator, and [in Cook county] state's attorney.

WISCONSIN VOTE MAY GIVE CLEW TO NOMINATIONS

Most of Candidates in Primary Race.

BY THORNTON SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., March 29.—The Wisconsin presidential primary next Tuesday is being watched by the nation in the hope it will suggest the answers to three questions.

The result will give the first indication of the relative appeal to the voters of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and Thomas E. Dewey. They also will show how Vice President John N. Garner stacks up as a vote getter in competition with President Roosevelt.

Third, the total Republican and Democratic votes cast, regardless of candidates, will be a yardstick of the prevailing political tendency; the first proof whether the revulsion against radicalism shown in the Wisconsin election of 1938 has gained in strength or whether there has been a swing back to Roosevelt.

Expected to Be Barometer.

The primary will be the first in any large state in which there are competitive presidential candidates. The vote will be a barometer reading expected by politicians to have an influence on future elections and on both national conventions.

Managers of both Vandenberg and Dewey have made earnest campaigns, on the whole without acrimony or reflections on their opponents. The two day tour of the state by Mr. Dewey is expected to have an advertising advantage to him. The Vandenberg people, however, have flooded the state with literature picturing their candidate as a man so devoted to his job that he will not leave Washington now even tho his chance of becoming President of the United States hinges upon it.

No one can guess what the Republican vote will be or how it will be divided. Political seers from the east agree that an outstanding victory for either Republican candidate would place him before the convention in a most advantageous position.

Taft Has Supporters.

There are uninstructed candidates running in several of the congressional districts. It is understood that while they would be free to vote as they chose, if elected, most of them favor the nomination of Senator Robert A. Taft. The uninstructed delegates have not had the machine to campaign for them like the others. If they should reveal unusual strength it would be interpreted as favoring Senator Taft.

The Democratic issue is the third term. Garner candidates have opposed it with vigor and the two rival Roosevelt slates of delegates have fought for it, altho each has challenged the sincerity of the other.

With Roosevelt strength split, there is conceded a chance for Garner to get some Wisconsin delegates. The Garner vote may be coupled with the vote for the two Republican candidates as evidence of the sentiment against a third term.

APPEALS COURT RULES E. A. O'CONNOR MUST REMAIN ON BALLOTS

Another chapter in the tangled litigation of Edward A. O'Connor and Edward T. O'Connor, candidates for state auditor in the Republican primary, was written yesterday when the Illinois Appellate court refused to set aside an order to certify Edward A.'s name on the ballot. The high court upheld Judge John C. Lewe of the Superior court, who last Tuesday dissolved the injunction he had issued two weeks before to restrain County Clerk Michael J. Flynn from certifying Edward A.

Edward A.'s name is now on the ballot in 523 country town precincts under Flynn's jurisdiction and in 15 downstate counties, but is not on the ballot in the 3,848 precincts under the Chicago board of election commissioners. The election board omitted Edward A.'s name on the strength of Judge Lewe's first order and said that a reprinting of the ballots would cost $36,000.

Election law experts said the presence of Edward A.'s name on some ballots and its absence on others will not affect the validity of the primary. Edward A., who is a milkman living at 7818 Langley avenue, sought himself to keep his name off, asserting nominating petitions were filed without his consent. He was joined in the injunction suit by Edward T., who lives in Peoria.

WRIT TO CORRECT INITIAL IN POLL ASKED BY BRAUDE

Judge J. M. Braude of the Municipal court, who is a candidate for renomination in the Democratic primary, filed a petition for a writ of mandamus in Circuit court yesterday to compel the board of election commissioners to correct the error in the ballot sheets which gives his middle initial as "N."

Judge Braude's petition, drawn by Attorney Arthur A. Sullivan, asked that the board reprint all the ballots with the correct initial. In the event that this is not done, because of the cost, Braude requested that all votes cast for J. N. Braude be credited to him.

JUSTUS JOHNSON INDORSED BY TWO STATE LEADERS

Two personal endorsements of the candidacy of Justus L. Johnson of Aurora for the Republican nomination for secretary of state, were announced yesterday by Johnson's headquarters.

Mart G. Sandburg of Galesburg, brother of Carl Sandburg, author and poet, and listed as a prominent Knox county leader long associated with the John Ericsson Republican league.

"Justice L. Johnson is one of the outstanding men in the Republican party. His promotion and the successful conclusion of the Grass Roots convention in 1935, when the Republican party was at low ebb, was the most potent contribution to the revitalization of the party in Illinois and the midwest. He has made a splendid record as clerk of the Appellate court for the northern district of Illinois."

CHAS. S. DEWEY TELLS NEED FOR GIVING AID TO REFUGEES OF WAR

Charles S. Dewey, Republican candidate for congress in the 9th district, addressed the Chicago Woman's Aid organization at 185 North Wabash avenue yesterday on the subject of "After the War—What?"

Dewey discussed the possibility of developing some sort of international financial institution to assist in the resettlement of war refugees and to give employment to youth whose lives have been upset by the war.

Previously, in other forums, Dewey has proposed that European powers resume payment of war debts to the United States and that this money be put into an international colonization bank for Jewish refugees. He proposed a widening of this plan yesterday.

LYONS' MANAGER EXPECTS VICTORY DESPITE STRAWS

Charges Machine Votes, Switches Ignored.

In an analysis of the straw votes taken by THE TRIBUNE and other agencies, William Busse, manager of the Lyons-Brooks campaign, said last night the vote indicated Richard J. Lyons would be nominated for governor. In the Tribune straws to date Dwight H. Green has had a comfortable lead over Lyons.

Busse, a member of the county board for 38 years, said the straw polls do not forecast what will happen at the primaries. First, he says, the polls do not take into account the Republicans who voted in the Democratic primaries last spring who cannot vote next month in the Republican primaries. More than 150,000 Republicans are said to have voted for State's Attorney Courtney [Democrat] in the 1939 mayoral primaries.

Second, Busse says, the straw polls do not take into account the vote mustering power of organization support, which he says is sufficient to overcome Green's lead in the straws.

Doesn't Fear Portents.

"I am not disturbed by straw votes," says Busse, "because in 48 years of political activities I've seen too many last minute storms blow them apart. The Literary Digest vote on Landon in 1936 is too recent to forget.

"The Illinois primary law will challenge these straw votes because it prohibits any one who votes in one primary from changing his party for two years thereafter. The total Democratic vote in the 1939 mayoral primary was 921,240. The total Republican vote was 274,551. The ratio is more than 3⅓ to 1 Democratic and that proportion cannot change materially April 9. The ratio between the Democratic and Republican straw votes is obviously inaccurate because it is less than 1⅓ to 1 Democratic.

"On the west side of Chicago, the Republicans and Democrats are running neck and neck in the straw vote, but the actual vote cast last primary was 8 to 1 Democratic. And that is the reasonable statutory proportion for the coming primary, unless the law is violated.

Charges Democratic Meddling.

"There is only one answer to this inflated straw vote. Thousands of Democrats are meddling in our Republican primary to influence the selection of the weaker candidate for them to beat in the election.

"Straw votes do not account for organization strength, which approximates 8 to 10 per cent of the votes and which is more than enough to overcome the Green lead. Lyons has 85 per cent of the trained organizations in Cook county and more than 60 per cent of the downstate organizations, including the thickly populated Republican counties.

"I am positive Lyons will be nominated because Green has been sailing under a false banner. He represented to downstate voters he is certain of carrying Cook county in the primaries by reason of the 618,000 votes he received in the mayoral election. The fact is Green only received 212,011 in the mayoral primary against the weakest kind of an opponent, with the entire organization strength behind him.

"Lyons will carry downstate overwhelmingly because he is a downstater, because in his sensational 1938 campaign for the senate he carried downstate by 108,000 votes and will do much better next November."

HERSHEY ENDS HIS STATE TOUR; CHICAGO IS NEXT

Jacksonville, Ill., March 29 [Special].—Confident of "an overwhelming state-wide victory," Harry B. Hershey, Democratic candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, ended his downstate campaign here tonight.

Accompanied by State Treasurer Louie E. Louis, candidate for lieutenant governor, Hershey left for Chicago, for an intensive final drive for votes. Hershey will speak tomorrow at a luncheon of Democratic women at the Stevens hotel.

Hershey told his Jacksonville audience that "we are going into Cook county with the firm conviction that our margin of victory in the 101 downstate counties will compare very favorably with the majorities assured us in the metropolitan area."

SLATTERY CASH CAMPAIGN FUND, ASSERTS STELLE

Strong Box Money Gift of Utilities, He Says.

BY LLOYD WENDT.

Lieut. Gov. John Stelle, rebel Democratic candidate for governor, charged last night that the $25,000 in currency which Senator James M. Slattery, former chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, kept in his strong box came from Illinois public utilities as campaign contributions.

Stelle declared that the truth of his charge could be proved from the "little black book" of F. Lynden Smith, former Horner campaign manager, who died in Springfield March 9 under mysterious circumstances.

Cites 1938 Collections.

"Isn't it a fact," he challenged Slattery, "that can be verified from Lyn Smith's black book, this [the $25,000] is a part of the money which you, while chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission, collected from public utilities in Illinois for the campaign of Senator Scott W. Lucas in 1938? I was well acquainted with Lyn Smith and I know what I'm talking about."

Slattery, in a speech Thursday night, gave his own explanation of the strong box incident, which came to light soon after his appointment to the United States senate by Gov. Horner in April, 1939.

The senator said that in 1938, while he was chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission, members of his family took money set aside for the personal use of his children and bought for themselves shares of Commonwealth-Edison stock which later were sold. He said the money consisted of $25,000 in currency which he kept in his safe deposit box. "Not one solitary dishonest dollar ever found its way into that deposit box," the senator said.

"Confession," Says Stelle.

Stelle called this explanation "more like a confession."

"What he [Slattery] did not explain," he said, "was where he got the money and why he kept it in a strong box instead of a bank. I would like to say to him:

"You have made two conflicting statements as to the source of this money. In May, 1939, on the floor of the United States senate, you said the money came from a settlement of your wife's estate. Thursday night you said it came from money set aside for the use of your children."

Stelle's attack on Slattery was preceded by a radio blast which Stelle leveled at the entire regular Democratic leadership. He charged the enemy camp with offenses ranging from dictatorship to jury bribing and extortion of money from civil service jobholders. He accused his opponent, Harry B. Hershey, the machine candidate for governor, of taking orders from political bosses.

"My opponent is playing in a haunted house with the ghosts of the bosses—Kelly and Nash—that Henry Horner twice slew," Stelle said.

Cites Horner Stand.

"My opponent wants harmony, but he doesn't seem to hear the voices that arise from the past. He wants to follow the footsteps of Gov. Horner, but he doesn't remember that March 11, 1938, Gov. Horner said on a political platform in Rock Island: 'We'll never tolerate bossism in Illinois. It shall never again get into the saddle in Fighting Old Illinois.'

"He forgets that Gov. Horner in Springfield said: 'We are fighting for the ideals of honest, decent government. We are going to smash that political octupus which is seeking to fasten its tentacles on the democracy of Illinois—the Kelly-Nash machine.'"

Benjamin S. Adamowski, candidate for the United States senate on the rebel ticket, accused Senator Slattery of causing the aged of Illinois to lose $10 a month in pension increases by giving misinformation to Horner.

"The aged of Illinois can thank my opponent for the loss of this increase," Adamowski said.

State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, candidate for reëlection and third candidate on the insurgent ticket, told the voters he expects to be nominated on the basis of his record in office.

The rebel candidates appeared later at a rally in Prudential hall, 758 North avenue, and then visited a smoker of the Piano, Organ, and Musical Instrument union at 3350 Jackson boulevard.

Belated spring was whipped into Chicago yesterday by southwest winds of gale force. The maximum temperature was 65 degrees at 3:15 p. m., the highest mark touched since Oct. 27 and two degrees above the previous 1940 high registered on March 17.

The most blustery gust of wind, 54 miles an hour, was recorded at the University of Chicago observatory at 12:45 p. m. The extreme high for a minute of sustained velocity [the figure taken by the weather bureau for the day's high reading] was 43 miles at 9:54 a. m., and the high for a full five minutes was 36 miles beginning at 11:36 a. m.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel said the average wind force for the day would be between 20 and 22 miles an hour, compared with a normal of 13 miles. The day was the windiest since March 15, 1939, when the average was 23.9 miles, with a gust rising to 57 miles.

The forecast indicated that today and tomorrow would be partly cloudy with mild temperatures.

Denies Horner Acted on His Advice.

James M. Slattery, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator, a post he now holds by appointment, shifted attention in his campaign speeches last night from the $25,000 safe deposit box to Illinois old age pensions.

Except for his introductory and closing remarks he devoted the greater part of his radio time to an emphatic denial that it was he who advised Gov. Horner to veto the old age pension bill passed by the general assembly last year.

On Thursday Slattery began a discussion of the disclosure that $25,000 in currency was taken from what he said was a family strongbox and invested in the stock of a utility company while he was chairman of the state utility commission. Politicians believed he might continue with that subject the next time he went on the air. But in his second talk he dismissed it after a brief mention.

Calls Charge Moth Eaten.

"Last Friday," he said on this topic, "THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in an editorial tried to resurrect moth eaten, discredited, disproved insinuations against me.

"The following Monday John Stelle repeated THE TRIBUNE'S old reputed strong box political campaign canard from the platform, which was discussed by me over the radio last night.

[In his radio speech Thursday Slattery charged that a representative of The Tribune "approached" Senator Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.] in reference to the Slattery charges. Slattery said he had seen a copy of McKellar's letter replying "to the Tribune representative's letter." McKellar was one of several senators the Washington bureau of The Tribune asked orally for interviews on the Slattery charges. McKellar wanted time to read the charges and then wrote saying that he did not plan to take any action.]

Assails Adamowski.

"Last night it was Adamowski's turn. He took his cue, too, from THE TRIBUNE editorial, and over the radio he tried to rehash a false story designed to mislead and delude the aged people of Illinois.

"That was the story, first printed Aug. 4, 1939, that Gov. Horner had decided to veto a bill increasing old age assistance in Illinois because I had informed the governor from Washington Aug. 3 that necessary federal legislation would not be passed. I was not even in Washington that night, had no communication with the governor or any of his representatives, nor had he tried to consult me.

"Yet from the day when congress subsequently did pass the legislation involved THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has repeatedly printed the false assertion that I was responsible for the veto of that legislation."

Came from Governor.

[Last September Gov. Horner was living in Highland Park. On the night of Aug. 3 a member of his cabinet, who was with him there, announced that the old age pension bill would be vetoed because Slattery had telephoned there was no chance that the federal bill on the same subject would be passed. The Horner spokesman said that Slattery quoted Congressman Robert L. Doughton (D., N. C.), chairman of the house committee handling the federal bill.]

Slattery read from the manuscript of a Horner speech that was read on Governor's day at the state fair last fall by Harry B. Hershey, Slattery's present running mate. In the statement Horner denied that he vetoed the old age bill on Slattery's advice.

Horner Slush Threats Will Be Told in New Affidavits

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 29 [Special].—Six affidavits describing the operations of the Horner 2 per cent slush fund are to be filed in the Sangamon county Circuit court here tomorrow by Attorney Arthur M. Fitzgerald. He is counsel for State Policeman Sylvester Steskal in a suit against nine high appointees of Gov. Henry Horner in which an accounting of the slush fund is demanded.

The lawyer was asked whether he would seek to attach a $17,381 indebtedness to the Democratic party found by Attorney General John E. Cassidy on the books of F. Lynden Smith's Pontiac Lumber company. Smith, whose death on March 9 was not solved by an inquest verdict of suicide, was one of the defendants in the law suit that has tied up an estimated $200,000 of Horner campaign money.

"I believe that the present temporary injunction effectively enjoins any disbursement of 2 per cent money that may be found in the estate," said Fitzgerald.

Affidavits from Collectors.

Attorney Walter Day, associate of Fitzgerald, said the accounting sought in the law suit will search for all uses of the campaign money that might have been made by the defendants. Smith, director of public works and former Horner campaign manager, originated in Illinois the system of assessing salaries of state employés but last year was superseded as master of the checkbook.

Fitzgerald said that two of the affidavits he is to file tomorrow will be from former collectors. The purpose of these sworn statements, according to the lawyer, is to show the court that the Illinois Iroquois league, and later the Illinoisans club, were not voluntary associations but were collecting agencies that enforced their assessments against the salaries of state employés.

"The collectors," said the attorney, "will tell of their orders from their bosses to collect 2 per cent from all of the pay rollers assigned to them."

Three former state employés, according to Fitzgerald, will swear that they made their payments to the slush fund against their free will for fear of losing their jobs.

Will Describe Pay Roll.

Fitzgerald said that the sixth affidavit will describe an annual state pay roll of $20,000,000 that bore the 2 per cent assessment. Simple arithmetic would indicate $400,000 a year of tax money voted for salaries was diverted to a slush fund to promote the Democratic party. This does not include contributions from highway contractors and others doing business with the state.

Cassidy, in an interview, said he did not know the source of the $17,381 item carried on the books of the Pontiac Lumber company as owed to "Democratic party, F. L. Smith." He said his only concern with this item was as collector of the state inheritance tax. The indebtedness detracted that much from the value of the estate.

Cassidy Denies Knowing Details.

Because of his limited official interest, Cassidy said he did not know whether records of Smith's campaign activities were found in the vaults of the lumber company. Also he said he did not know about insurance policies that might be affected by a court determination of the cause of Smith's mysterious death. He said there was no policy payable to the estate and that was his only interest as far as insurance was concerned.

In a press conference the attorney general did, however, elaborate on his announcement of last night about the entries concerning campaign money found the lumber company's ledger. Cassidy said that the books showed "five or six" deposits of campaign money in Smith's lumber company in 1936 for a total of approximately $22,000. All but $17,381 had been paid back. In 1936, Smith was head of the Iroquois league, the 2 per cent club. Cassidy said the records did not show to whom approximately $5,000 had been refunded by the lumber company.

ROBS LANDLADY OF $130.

EXPERT CALLS SMITH SUICIDE VERDICT ABSURD

Dr. Edwin F. Hirsch, noted pathologist of St. Luke's hospital and one of four physicians present at the second autopsy on the body of F. Lynden Smith, Democratic leader whose death is still regarded as a mystery, was asked yesterday his opinion on the finding of a Sangamon county coroner's jury that Smith was a suicide.

"I think this," said Dr. Hirsch: "It is absurd for a lay group to make a finding of the cause of death, particularly when they know nothing of the facts."

Dr. F. W. Light of Springfield, present at both autopsies, refused to comment on the verdict.

NEW DEAL SOLD FARMERS OUT, DEWEY CHARGES

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., March 29.—Climaxing a strenuous day of campaigning thru the rich dairy regions of eastern Wisconsin, Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, tonight accused the Roosevelt administration of "selling the American farmer down the river."

Dewey spoke in Milwaukee's municipal auditorium before an enthusiastic crowd estimated at 5,000 persons. He branded as false the President's boasts that the reciprocal trade treaties had helped American farm markets, pointing to the huge increase in competitive imports and to the dearth of agricultural exports as evidence that the reverse was true.

Home Industries Affected.

Hammering his points home to the front door of the Wisconsin dairy and cattle industries, Dewey pointed out that last year 12 million dollars' worth of cheese and foreign live cattle valued at 17½ million dollars were imported into the United States.

The New York district attorney said he favored reciprocal lowering of trade barriers but his quarrel was with the methods employed under the New Deal. One of the things that must end, Dewey declared, was the taking over of treaty making powers by the Chief Executive from congress.

Turning to the current European war, Dewey reaffirmed his conviction that the United States should stay completely clear of the struggle and should refrain from any kind of "meddling" that might lead again to the sending of Americans to die on foreign battlefields.

Warns of a Temptation.

Dewey warned that there was a temptation among high officials "to play up foreign issues to divert attention from domestic failures." The duty of the American people lies at home, he asserted. That duty, he said, is to "resume the forward march of progress."

Tomorrow Dewey will turn to the western and southern sections of the Badger state in his quest for delegates to the Republican national convention to be selected at the primary next Tuesday. In this contest he is pitted against Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg. The makeup of the 24 in the Wisconsin delegation may well foreshadow the convention's choice.

Speaks from Train.

Crowds turned out all along the way to hear a few remarks from the candidate and to take a look at Mrs. Dewey as the two would step out on the back platform of the train at the various cities visited from Green Bay down to Milwaukee.

Dewey arrived at Green Bay early this morning. He came on a late night train from Chicago, where last night he spoke before the huge rally of Illinois Republicans at the Chicago Stadium.

Dewey fans came bearing gifts wherever he appeared. At Green Bay, where he attended a "get acquainted" breakfast with party leaders and business men, the New York district attorney was presented with a box of iced smelts. At Kaukauna he was given a jar of cheese, a local product. In Oshkosh the Deweys received two pairs of blue overalls, also local products, for their two small sons, Thomas Edmund Jr. and John Martin.

More than 1,000 persons scrambled over the tracks and splattered thru mud puddles to hear the candidate at Appleton. There were also brief stops at Depere, Neenah, Menasha, Fond du Lac, Campbellsport, Kewaskum, and West Bend.

EXCERPTS FROM SPEECH

Excerpts from Mr. Dewey's speech follow:

"The people of Wisconsin, like those of every other state, are rightly concerned about the failure of this country to regain its accustomed prosperity. You have suffered too much under government policies that have prolonged this depression.

"Next Tuesday the people of Wisconsin will make some very important decisions. The country is watching to see what you will do. By voting in the Republican primaries next Tuesday you in Wisconsin can give courage and leadership to the entire nation.

"The country looks to you for leadership in its fight to win its way out of this New Deal depression.

"For it is just that—a New Deal depression.

"Compare our recovery from the world-wide depression of 1929 with that of 20 other nations. What happened to them? According to the latest figures available, last summer, just before the war broke out, all but one of those 20 nations reported a greater recovery than the United States!

First Time in History.

"Never before have we been at the bottom of any list. Never before have we had 10 years of depression. But, never before have we had a New Deal to hold us back after the rest of the world had recovered. And we shall never submit to this again.

"Why should the United States lag behind less favored countries? We have no lack of natural resources. We have no lack of workers. We have no lack of capital. Surely our organizing and technical ability is sufficient. Yet investment has dwindled almost to the vanishing point. One-fifth of our workers are idle.

"And what does the President of the United States say at the end of six years of unlimited power? On May 16, 1939, he wrote to a congressional committee asking them to find a way to bring idle men, idle machines, and idle money together. After six years the President still had no answer. But at last he was beginning to ask the right questions.

The Wrong Answers.

"Why did it take the President six years to get around to asking the right question? Why is it that even now the New Deal does not have the right answer?

"It is because the New Deal has no faith in the future of this country. It has no faith in the system of private enterprise that has made this country great. It believes that system has broken down. It believes our economy has gone to seed. In place of free enterprise the New Deal believes in government domination of business. It relies upon unlimited government spending in place of private enterprise that makes jobs.

"The first step toward recovery is to take the government out of the hands of those who do not want recovery. Put it in the hands of those who believe in the future of the country and who want recovery. That is one reason why the New Deal must go.

Concerning the Budget.

"Now we come to the question of the budget. The remedy of the New Deal for all our economic ills is to spend and spend, borrow and borrow, and spend again.

"The New Deal came to office on a pledge to reduce the cost of government by 25 per cent. Instead it has doubled the cost of government.

"The administration is spending at the rate of $17,500 a minute. We are going into debt at the rate of $8,000 a minute. Four billion dollars a year that has to be added to the debt we are handing down to our children. That debt has already reached the staggering total of more than 42 billion dollars. It is now twice as large as it was when the New Deal took office seven years ago. If we are to double our national debt every seven years we shall run up against inevitable disaster.

"The New Dealers, however, tell us they cannot stop spending. They tell us they cannot balance their budget. They would have us believe that the American people have lost control of their own destiny.

"Balancing the budget is a matter of sound and competent administration. Spending for the sake of spending and spending for the buying of votes can be stopped.

Agriculture and Industry.

"An equally important problem is the balancing of agriculture and industry. We must see to it that the farmer gets a fair exchange of the goods he needs for the goods he produces.

"One way to achieve this is by raising agricultural prices. Another is by reducing industrial prices. The practical ideal is a combination of both.

"An essential part of our program must be preservation of the American market for American agriculture.

"This administration takes great pride in its trade treaty program, and the announced objectives of that program were praiseworthy. The objectives were to expand the flow of international trade by a reciprocal lowering of trade barriers.

"But in seeking to achieve expansion of our foreign trade the administration resorted to a typical New Deal device. It induced congress to delegate its treaty making powers to the executive.

"What of the results?

"It has been shown beyond a doubt that the program has subjected agriculture to the unfair competition of foreign imports. And yet the administration seeks to defend its program by claiming that the trade treaties have helped the farmer.

"Let's see just what they have done to the farmer.

"Our foreign trade has increased as was to be expected in a period of world recovery. It is still far below the level of the 1920s. Exports of industrial goods have increased 167 per cent from 1933. But exports of agricultural produce have increased only 16 per cent. In other words, industry received relatively 10 times as much benefit as agriculture.

Industry Gets Edge.

"When industry gets 10 times as much as agriculture, that is what I call selling agriculture down the river!

"But this is only half the story. What about imports?

"Agricultural exports increased 16 per cent. Against that trifling increase our farmers saw an increase of 63 per cent in agricultural imports. But it is actually even worse than that. The increase in imports which compete with American agriculture was 72 per cent!

"A relative increase in imports four times as great as the increase in exports! That's what the President calls, and I quote, 'Better markets for our farm goods . . . mathematically proved.' That is typical New Deal mathematics. But that is what I call selling American agriculture down the river.

"The facts on the public record show a shocking erosion of character in this administration. It willfully breaks its promises to the people; it shows its contempt for its oath to defend the constitution; it flagrantly abuses the powers of government to punish those who dare to disagree with it. The administration will stop at nothing to maintain itself in office. Its use of WPA funds to buy elections is a public scandal.

"That attack upon the freedom of election is the final challenge to our national sense of honor. We shall meet that challenge, and the New Dealers will learn the toughness of the fiber of American democracy.

"This brings us to the most important problem of all—the problem of assuring peace to this country in the midst of a war torn world.

"The people who made America what it is were strong, courageous, independent men and women. They risked their lives to give us our inheritance of freedom. That heritage is not ours to dissipate.

"Have we the strength and courage and honesty to preserve that heritage for those who come after us? It is not enough to say that no American shall be sent to die on the battlefields of Europe. It is imperative that we shall not become involved directly or indirectly in foreign wars.

"Our duty is at home. Our task is here. That task will call for all our energies. It is to resume the forward march of American progress. It is to hold high the torch of freedom, that it may light the world."

Mustache Race Is On

Fifty seniors at the University of Chicago started off clean shaven yesterday in the annual mustache race sponsored by Blackfriars, the men's musical comedy organization on the campus. No razor will touch their upper lips until April 12.

Then, the fellow with the most luxuriant labial appendage will be selected by William Bradford, the campus barber. And this fellow's reward will be a ducking in the pond outside the Botany building.

The Blackfiars' show, "Patients, Please," will be given on the nights of April 12 and 13 and 19 and 20.

CHURCH INDORSED BY 228 ATTORNEYS IN CITY AND STATE

Headquarters of Congressman Ralph E. Church, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, announced yesterday that he had been indorsed by a committee of 228 Illinois attorneys, representing Chicago and 54 other communities. One of the reasons for the indorsement, said Joseph G. Gorman, committee secretary, is that of the four candidates for major offices, Church is the only one now in office and the only one who ever has held an elective post in Washington.

The headquarters announced also Church has been indorsed by the Niles Township Progressive Republican club, the Evanston Young Republican club, the Independent Women's club of River Forest, and the North Shore Woman's Political club.

HONOR ART INSTITUTE OFFICIALS FOR WORK ON ITALIAN EXHIBIT

Officers of the Art institute were honored by the Dante Alighieri society last night for their efforts in making possible the exhibition of Italian art masterpieces at the institute last winter.

Award of honorary memberships was announced by President Horatio Tocco to Potter Palmer, president of the institute; Chauncey McCormick, vice president, and Daniel Catton Rich, director. McCormick was out of the city. Palmer and Rich responded with praise for the society's work.

TRIBUNE Color Studio reproductions of the masterpieces, which appeared in this newspaper, were displayed at the meeting and brought back in vivid detail the glories of the exhibit.

The meeting, attended by more than 500 persons, was held in the Palmer House. Edgardo Simone, sculptor, gave a demonstration of his art.

IT'S MAPLE SIRUP TIME ON FAMOUS MILLBROOK FARM

Workers on the George M. Hollenback farm near Millbrook, in Kendall county, have been busy for the last two weeks tapping the farm maple trees for sap and boiling it down to maple sirup. The Hollenback brothers, George and Jerome, operate one of the largest maple timber tracts in the middle west.

The tract was begun 40 years ago by their father. The brothers still use the Vermont system of boiling the sap in open pans on the farm. It takes from 50 to 60 gallons of sap to produce one gallon of sirup.

GREEN PLEADS FOR UNITY TO SMASH MACHINE

Urges G. O. P. Put Party Above Individuals.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Dwight H. Green, Republican candidate for the nomination for governor, sought last night in a series of ward meetings to bring the primary campaign back to its original goal—the defeat of the Kelly-Nash machine in Illinois.

The Republican primary must not become a party fight, he said, but must remain a testing ground whereby the majority of the people place their stamp of approval upon a constructive program and upon the candidate who enunciates that program.

Addresses Ward Groups.

Green spoke in the 29th, 43d, 44th, and 47th wards, ending the day's activity in the Ravenswood Masonic temple. Today he will tour Will county, with massmeetings at Joliet and Elmhurst this evening.

"In the fury of the last minute campaigning," said Green, "we must not overlook the fact that our common enemy in Illinois is the Kelly-Nash machine and its twin, the statehouse gang at Springfield.

"We must not overlook the fact that this is a campaign to clean out the un-American ideas and methods of the New Deal as they have spread thru our local, state, and national governments. That is an aim higher than the ambitions or aspirations of any one candidate for office, no matter how high the public position he seeks. It is more important than who shall govern our state or represent our people in Washington or Springfield.

Must Choose Able Men.

"The time has come when the Republican party must choose able and qualified men of the highest character for every office, from minor party leaders to major public positions of trust.

"The people of the Republican party must get out the largest vote a Republican primary has ever seen, so that we may tell the nation that Illinois will go Republican this fall. Our victory will come in November, but we must prepare the way by a rousing turnout on April 9."

LEADERS TO MEET MONDAY IN FIGHT FOR WATERWAY

A meeting of civic, business, and political leaders interested in protecting the Illinois waterway from hostile interests, was called yesterday by State Representative Robert M. Woodward [R., 29th], chairman of the Illinois assembly waterway committee.

The meeting will be held in the county building Monday. Invitations were sent to committee members; officials of chambers of commerce in the Chicago area; mayors of cities on the waterway, and representatives of civic organizations.

CAST OFF YOKE OF NEW DEALERS, PLEA OF LYONS

Warns Government Must Serve, Not Be Served.

The time has come at last for America to decide whether government shall be the servant of the people or whether the people shall exist for the benefit of the government, Richard J. Lyons declared last night in his campaign for the Republican nomination for governor.

To continue the present Democratic rule will be to abandon the lessons and experience of 150 years of freedom, Lyons asserted in a radio address. He repeated this warning in a series of speeches that took him to the 44th and 48th wards, to Des Plaines, and to Chicago's west side.

Assails Usurpation of Power.

"The New Deal is committed to the idea that the government shall run everything," Lyons declared. "The New Dealers want to run the medical profession, regiment it and socialize it, so that the government can tell you what doctor to have when you are sick.

"They want to tell the farmer what land he can plow, what he shall plant, how much of it, and what he can do with it after the harvest. They want to tell the business man what he can buy or sell, how much or how many, at what price, and to whom.

"The New Dealers want to tell the worker what kind of a job he can have, for whom he can work, and what labor union he can join. Their aim appears to be to keep industry dependent upon government support and labor dependent upon government relief."

Cites Fallacy of Theories.

Those in control, the candidate continued, are trying to make the people believe that America has reached the end of its industrial expansion and that despite great natural resources, adequate capital, labor, and materials they are incapable of taking care of themselves and must forever be tied to the paternalism of a bureaucratic government.

"The truth is," Lyons said, "that altho our American system of free enterprise may not have always distributed justly the relative abundance it has created, the politically dominated New Deal program has failed to create any abundance to be distributed.

"Perhaps the greatest opportunity that will ever come to any of us to serve our country will be that afforded by the Republican party to all voters who may unite as a majority of the American people in support of our American form of government and a constructive program for peace and prosperity."

BROOKS URGES NATION TO SHAKE OFF ITS FEAR AND RETURN TO SANITY

Wayland Brooks, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, declared yesterday that the nation must shake off the fears and uncertainties that have seized it during seven years of Democratic domination.

Speaking before five audiences during the afternoon and night, Brooks asserted the Republican party has a date with destiny in 1940. He appeared before an all-day meeting of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's clubs and at gatherings in Des Plaines and Franklin Park and in the 44th and 48th wards.

"Americans today are discouraged, frightened, and tired," the candidate asserted. "America must look to the Republican party for wise and unselfish leadership back to sanity."

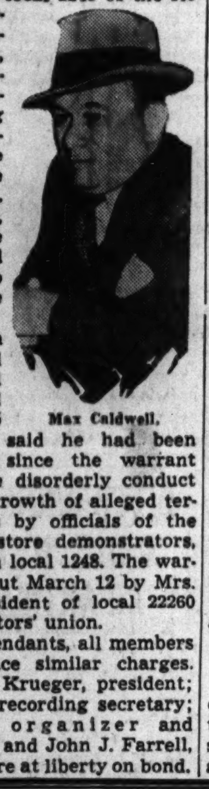
Brooks' headquarters announced that his candidacy had been indorsed by the Young Republican club of Sangamon county [Springfield] and the Young Republicans' organization of the 49th ward in Chicago.

SUBWAY FIRE EXTINGUISHED.

Subway workers extinguished a small fire yesterday in the subway tunnel at Lake and La Salle streets. One worker, Peter Forte, 3012 Arthington street, was overcome by smoke but was revived and returned to work.

CALDWELL, HEAD OF CLERKS' UNION, IS FREED ON BOND

Max Caldwell, business manager and organizer of local 1248 of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, surrendered yesterday on a warrant charging him with disorderly conduct. He appeared at the office of Sergt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, and then was taken to the South State Street court.



Max Caldwell.

Judge William V. Daly continued the case to April 16 and released Caldwell in $25 bond. Caldwell said he had been out of the city since the warrant was issued. The disorderly conduct charge is an outgrowth of alleged terroristic practices by officials of the union to enroll store demonstrators, mostly women, in local 1248. The warrant was taken out March 12 by Mrs. Mae Gleich, president of local 22260 of the Demonstrators' union.

Four other defendants, all members of local 1248, face similar charges. They are Robert Krueger, president; Michael Pollack, recording secretary; Morton Schaps, organizer and sergeant at arms, and John J. Farrell, organizer. They are at liberty on bond.

GEN. CLINNIN URGES PUTTING STATE POLICE UNDER CIVIL SERVICE

All state and county police should be under civil service, Gen. oJhn V. Clinnin, a candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, asserted yesterday. Gen. Clinnin, who is a member of the state civil service commission, charged that these policemen are playing politics instead of devoting themselves to public service.

"If elected," Gen. Clinnin declared, "I promise to do my best to obtain laws placing state and county police under civil service and thus, once and for all, ending the abuse and alliance between crime and politics in all departments of county and state governments.

"Inquiry into acts of the highway police shows that much of their time, for which the public pays, is spent soliciting votes. They canvass from door to door in cities and on the farms, begging, entreating, cajoling, and brow-beating the voter into supporting the machine handpicked tickets."

PRINTING: 1440-1940

By CALEB

ASSUME that Civilization began faintly to bestir itself some five thousand years ago. Then compare that stretch of time with the years that Printing has been in existence and you have the analogy of a man of seventy who has been literate only since he was sixty-three years old!

Yet Printing, in that brief span, has been the one beneficence that brought literacy into the world to stay. The labors of far-scattered scholars with quills, or of a few hundred indefatigable monks wielding their illuminating brushes on vellum, could not spread it beyond a few microscopic areas of men. The world had to wait till Johannes Gutenberg, conceiving and executing his dream of Typography, gave finality to thought, and preservative immortality to the world's speech and action, in the year 1440.

Five centuries have elapsed since that happening hurled the race forward—with an impetus greater than any other event save humanity's discovery of fire, its shaping of the wheel, or its invention of the art of writing.

And in those five centuries the ghost of Gutenberg must have alternately shivered with exaltation and cowered in dismay to see what potentials for beauty, power, wonder and progress he had released to his fellows—along with what instrumenting of superstition, treachery, animalism and evil! For to both exercises of that miracle-force, practitioners in his name have devoted its resources.

On the whole, however, the beauty and power of Printing have won out over all its by-products of chicanery and ignominy. Respect for its grandeur has been born of the grandeur itself—and the quality and quantity of man's literature and education alone tell how far, in the past five hundred years, that grandeur has carried him. "There is that which makes for righteousness" in the essence and expression of any achievement so stupendous. . . .

Seen from our own time's vantage-point, the printed page appears as commonplace as atmosphere or the seasons—a good that has been with us always. But set against the racial record of fifty centuries, it is still new. And as to what shall become its destiny and dominance in another five hundred years, no words put into Gutenberg's modern-day medium can even approximate! The Printer may some day be disclosed to the world as the one man whose craft, out of a countless category of crafts, was the sole means of saving it from annihilation!

PROSECUTOR JOB IS ONE HE KNOWS, SAYS DITCHBURNE

Points to 7 Year Record on Legal Staff.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Harry S. Ditchburne.

Harry S. Ditchburne, Republican candidate for state's attorney, spent seven years in the state's attorney's office. He occupied every position in it except that of the boss. He is now making his second try for the job of the first lawyer of Cook county.

Ditchburne has no illusions about the job. He knows from the seven years of experience that it means hard work and late hours. He adds that he knows it may mean making enemies out of former friends when he lives up to his pledge of a campaign of law and order no matter whose "toes are stepped on."

Pledges War on Goons.

Divorcement of the police from politics and uncompromising war against labor goons, election corruptionists, racketeers, and hoodlums are the things he says he will accomplish if elected. It is his aim, he asserts, to match the high priced criminal court lawyers hired by the racketeers with assistant state's attorneys of the same degree of experience and competence.

Ditchburne says that his desire is quality and not quantity in the selection of employés of the state's attorney's staff.

"I would rather have a small, experienced staff of well paid prosecutors than a large staff of inexperienced youngsters with small salaries appointed only because of political expediency," is his declaration of policy on this point.

Ditchburne served from 1926 to 1933 as an assistant state's attorney under Robert E. Crowe and John Swanson. Candidate Ditchburne was many times commended for his ability and energy by Frank J. Loesch, veteran crime fighter who is now president emeritus of the Chicago Crime commission.

Fought Public Enemies.

For a time after Ditchburne was appointed to the prosecuting staff, he handled routine court calls during which he tried as many as four jury cases a day. Later he was assigned to investigate and prosecute many of the more important cases in the office. He conducted the drive against the public enemies listed by the crime commission.

Ditchburne's success as a trial lawyer was attributable, his associates said, to painstaking preparation and investigation. As an assistant state's attorney, he was the favorite trial lawyer and adviser of the police department. He was selected repeatedly to prosecute police killers and well known hoodlums and racketeers.

Ditchburne was born on the west side of Chicago. His twin sister died in 1929. His father, now 79 years old, was a union shoe cutter. His wife, Bernice, is prominent in civic and club work in the Englewood district where Ditchburne has spent his adult life. His home is at 317 West Marquette road. His only child, a son, was killed in an automobile accident in 1926.

Started in Politics at 10.

Ditchburne, now 53 years old, is a medium sized, bespectacled man with thinning gray hair. He is an ardent Republican and declares he has never participated in any bipartisan deals. Neither is he a factionalist. He started in politics, he says, when he was 10 years old, carrying a torch in 1896 in a parade for President William McKinley. He was the organizer of the 1940 club, a group of Republicans pledged to elect Republican candidates this year.

Ditchburne has prosecuted hundreds of criminals; he has never represented any of them as a defense lawyer. As a result, he says, he is beset by no strings or entanglements which might prevent him from getting results as a prosecutor.

Nominated 4 Years Ago.

The candidate has aspired twice before to public office. Four years ago he was the party nominee for state's attorney. In June, 1939, he was a candidate for judge of the Circuit court. He led the ticket opposed to coalition and beat eight of the sitting judges in the Chicago Bar association primary. The bar association report said of him:

"He is courteous, able, and upright. He is a lawyer of experience and possesses judicial temperament. His service as an assistant state's attorney has been repeatedly commended."

Ditchburne is a member of the Illinois and Chicago bar associations, the Hamilton club, and the Midlothian country club. His legal education was obtained at John Marshall law school. He was admitted to practice law in 1910. His hobbies are fishing and golfing.

VANDALS SMASH 11TH WARD STELLE OFFICE WINDOWS

The windows of the Stelle-Adamowski-Barrett 11th ward headquarters at 1160 West 31st street were smashed with bricks yesterday for the second time in 10 days, Frank Kaminski, candidate on the Stelle ticket, reported to the Deering street police.

The first vandalism occurred a week ago Tuesday, Kaminski said. In both instances the plate glass store window of the headquarters was shattered.

Kaminski also charged that hoodlums have torn down Stelle-Adamowski-Barrett signs posted thruout the ward. Kaminski is opposing Ald. Hugh B. Connelly for the committeeman job.

WOMEN VOTERS HAVE LAST WORD, CANDIDATES FIND

Aspirants in Primary Pass in Review.

Members of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's organizations saved themselves yesterday from having to scurry from meeting to meeting between now and the primary to learn about the various candidates. They invited the candidates to visit them.

Mrs. Henry W. Hartough, president, laid down only one rule. There would be no question period.

"In the past," she said, "people have managed to creep in and heckle, and it leads to quite a bit of trouble. We've asked you candidates here as our guests and we're not going to have you made uncomfortable."

They Come, Talk, and Leave.

About 30 speakers appeared during the morning and afternoon in the headquarters at 209 South State street to speak briefly, then yield to another. The candidates came, spoke, and left as smoothly as tho they were on a conveyor belt.

A note of self-deprecation was heard from time to time, but from no candidate so clearly as from John J. Griffin, seeking the Democratic nomination as Municipal court judge. Mr. Griffin, in concluding his, the opening talk, said:

"You're certainly brave if you're going to sit and listen to this kind of jargon until 5 o'clock. If I could do anything to alleviate your situation I'd be happy to do so. I hope the other talks are more enjoyable than mine."

Robert McKinlay, Democratic candidate [drafted by his friends] for governor, made a hit with his response to Mrs. Hartough's statement that he had talked his full five minutes.

"In that case," McKinlay said "I'll quit right where I'm at." And he was on his way to the elevator.

Samuel Heller, candidate for Republican nomination as Municipal court judge, gave what was considered the best explanation of the psychology of campaign speeches. He said:

"The instinct of self-preservation works as well in the heart of a candidate as in that of any one else. So if I talk of myself, do not attribute it to my conceit—altho I have that as well as you—but to my desire to conquer."

Attorney Raymond A. Kinzie, Republican candidate for the Municipal court nomination, declared that among his qualifications were the number of jobs he had held: baker, ice cream manufacturers' helper, farmer, fruit grower, machinist, foundry hand, traveling salesman, insurance man, and railroad worker.

Edgar Jonas, seeking election to the Municipal bench as a Republican, said:

"I don't want to start my speech like Ed Casey did the other night and say: 'I'm very glad to be back here and see so many old faces.'"

Judge Matthew Hartigan, a Democratic candidate for reëlection for Municipal judge modestly stated:

"I've done, in my own individual way, an excellent job."

Others Pass in Review.

Other speakers included Harry S. Ditchburne and Judge Oscar Nelson, Republican candidates for nomination as state's attorney; Judge John Gutknecht, a Democrat who is seeking the same job; Richard Lyons, Republican candidate for nomination for governor; C. Wayland Brooks, Republican, and Benjamin Adamowski, Democrat, candidates for nomination as United States senator; A. L. Brodie, Democratic candidate for reëlection as coroner; Edward Hayes, seeking the Republican nomination as attorney general, Stephen A. Day, Republican candidate for nomination as congressman at large.

It is barely possible, in view of two things, that each candidate might have made just as good an impression just by dressing his prettiest and pivoting, like a fashion model, in front of the group.

[1.] One woman was heard to tell a neighbor that she certainly wouldn't vote for THAT man: "He needed a shoe shine," she said.

[2.] Mrs. Hartough, in addressing her fellow delegates late in the afternoon, said:

"And after listening to all this, you'll probably go out and vote as your husband tells you to." There were no denials.

DITCHBURNE BELABORS JUDGE NELSON FOR BIPARTISAN CAREER

Harry S. Ditchburne, a Republican candidate for state's attorney, assailed the political record of his opponent, Judge Oscar F. Nelson, in three speeches last night, altho he did not mention Nelson by name. The party can be successful this fall, Ditchburne said, only if its candidates are above suspicion.

"My opponent is a man with a political past," Ditchburne charged. "His candidacy shows him to be more concerned with personal vengeance on State's Attorney Courtney than the success of his party.

"My opponent cannot dodge the issue of his past bipartisan deals with the Democratic party. He started his political career as a Democrat. His present judicial office is a gift from the Democratic party. There is no basis on which the public could even hazard a guess as to his ability to fill the office of state's attorney."

FLYING BOATS LEARN TO ECONOMIZE; TAXI 12 MILES TO SAVE FUEL

New York, March 29 [Special].—The Atlantic and Dixie Clippers, giants of the Pan American Airways trans-Atlantic fleet, today proved their right to the name "flying boats." To save time and money, paradoxically, they shunned flying 10 miles to taxi 12 miles on Long Island sound from Port Washington to their New La Guardia field base at North Beach, Queens. Service from the new base will be inaugurated Sunday with special ceremonies.

Hitting a 50 mile an hour clip with its four 1,500 horse power motors, the Atlantic Clipper skimmed over the water in 14 minutes. The Dixie, using only its two outboard motors, required slightly longer. It burned something over 30 gallons of high test gasoline, while the Atlantic used 50 gallons.

Pan American officials said the trip by air would have required more time and gasoline. Also, the clippers might have been forced to circle the airport, waiting for an all-clear signal before being permitted to land.

Circuit Court Judges Set Recess for July 4 to Sept. 4

The summer recess of the Circuit court will be from July 4 to Sept. 4, the judges decided yesterday at their monthly meeting. Lots will be drawn to determine which judges will hear emergency cases during the vacation period.

SHUN POLITICAL ACTIVITY, CENSUS TAKERS WARNED

George W. Schreech, supervisor of the census in the Chicago area, issued a printed warning yesterday against any political activity by the 2,500 census takers who will begin their work next Tuesday.

The printed sheet called attention to certain provisions of the Hatch act barring federal employés from politics and listed specific acts that could be construed as violations. It was also pointed out that violators might have to go to jail for a year or pay a fine as high as $1,000.

H. L. Austin, director of the census, with headquarters in Washington, drew up the warning, which is being sent to census takers all over the country.

WOMEN'S CLUB BACKS LEWIS FOR TREASURER POST

A. C. Lewis, a candidate for the Republican nomination for state treasurer, was indorsed yesterday by the Independent Women's Republican Club of River Forest at a meeting in the home of Miss Mary Kerr, 734 Keystone avenue, River Forest.

"We have thoroly investigated Mr. Lewis' record," said Mrs. Stanley D. Whitford, president of the club. "His integrity and character are such that he is well qualified for the office and as a candidate he will add strength to the ticket in November."

Lewis also was indorsed during the week by the New Trier Republican Women's club and the Evanston Republican Women's club.

A TAXI DRIVER BEATS UP FARE; ENDS BANDITRY

Thomas Murphy, 32 years old, a muscular 180 pound cab driver with sharp eyes, put an end yesterday to a series of taxicab holdups by two bandits.

A prospective customer entered Murphy's cab at Clark street and Drummond place. Something about the man's appearance caused Murphy to scrutinize him closely. He recognized his fare as a bandit from descriptions given by fellow drivers. Murphy leaped from his seat, yanked the passenger out of the cab and was pummeling him to a pulp when Sergt. Frank Raia of the Sheffield avenue police drove up.

The suspect said he was Jack Baker, 2416 North Racine avenue. A pistol was fastened to his leg, under his trousers, with a shoestring. Police later picked up Albert Ball, 1516 Wieland street, as Baker's companion in half a dozen taxi holdups, and obtained confessions from both men.

2 Young Burglars Seized Breaking Into Apartment

Two young burglars were captured last night as they were breaking into the third floor apartment of Herbert Stein at 4815 Roscoe street. They are Eugene Tatkiewicz, 17 years old, of 1025 North California avenue, and Robert Agerone, 16, of 817 North Mozart street. Jefferson Park police said the two had admitted four other recent burglaries. Agerone carried a revolver and Tatkiewicz was armed with a hunting knife.

Skidmore and Johnson Again Indicted.

They assert they can show the vast chain of gambling places, which employ thousands of persons and take in millions of dollars a year, thruout the city and extending outside the boundaries of Cook county.

Added highlights and shadings in the picture include a complete account of how the syndicate avoided doing business with banks because of their fear of the permanency of bank records. Instead of using banks they set up a dummy currency exchange, said to have cleared $1,200,000 in gambling checks alone within 14 months. How the currency exchange records were destroyed soon after the gambling investigation started is said to be another detail in the district attorney's possession.

Operates Network of Wires.

The investigation is said to have disclosed how the organization maintained a vast network of direct telephone wires to all its gambling places from "headquarters" in the old Portage Park Bank building, 4715 Irving Park boulevard.

The other details, and there are many of them, are closely guarded secrets of Prosecutor Campbell and his staff. They will be revealed only when the jury gets its first glimpse of the now completed picture. Already there are reports that the defendants, to keep these details from being made public, may plead guilty. The maximum punishment for each defendant named in the conspiracy is 22 years in prison and a fine of $50,000.

The indictment, which was 36 pages long, contained five counts. In the first four Johnson was charged with evading income taxes of $1,877,664 for the years 1936 thru 1939 and the others were charged with plotting to aid and abet him in the alleged evasion. The fifth count charges all with the conspiracy to evade tax payments.

Indict a Woman.

Four of the defendants named yesterday were projected into the gambling picture for the first time. One is a woman, Miss Bernice Downey, 1308 North Mayfield avenue. She was a co-partner in the syndicate's currency exchange which was located at 3424 Lawrence avenue, and has been a fugitive from a grand jury subpena since last summer. She was sought particularly for important records with which she is said to have absconded.

The other new defendants in addition to Miss Downey are:

REGINALD E. MACKAY, 1071 Eggleston avenue, Elmhurst.

The latter two are reputed managers of several of the most pretentious resorts in the syndicate's chain. Alexander divided his time between his duties at the junk yard, according to federal agents, and keeping his eye on the till in a number of the key gambling places.

Hit a Second Time.

Those beside Johnson and Skidmore who were named in earlier indictments and who were renamed yesterday are:

Andrew J. Creighton, 4921 Jackson boulevard; Jack Sommers, 6144 North Rockwell street; James A. Hartigan, 2825 South Maple avenue, Berwyn; John M. Flanagan, 6608 South Fairfield avenue; William P. Kelly, 621 Washington boulevard, Oak Park; Attorney William Goldstein, 415 West Aldine avenue, and Stuart S. Brown, 4200 North Hazel avenue.

All except Goldstein and Brown are said to be managers of gambling houses owned by the syndicate and were indicted previously for income tax evasion. Goldstein, personal attorney for Johnson and Skidmore, previously was indicted for perjury as a result of his efforts to protect the syndicate in his testimony before the grand jury. Brown was Miss Downey's partner in the currency exchange and was indicted before on charges of helping the other gamblers to defraud the government of taxes.

Claim New Tax Evasion.

Johnson previously was indicted for an alleged $1,389,920 income tax evasion for the years 1936, 1937, and 1938.

Internal revenue agents began studying his 1939 return soon after the deadline for filing two weeks ago and obtained figures to support an additional charge yesterday that he had evaded $497,744 taxes for last year, making the grand total $1,887,664.

The new indictment charges that the actual conspiracy consisted of attempts by individual gambling house owners to claim ownership of Johnson clubs in order to reduce the government's estimate of Johnson's income, hence the amount of taxes which are claimed. Clearance of the gambling checks thru the currency exchange and the destruction of the exchange's records was another part of the conspiracy, the government charges.

A list of twenty-six of the biggest and most important gambling resorts in the chain is included in the indictment.

Bonds Set at $100,000.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward issued bench warrants for all 13 of the defendants and set total bonds of $100,000. Each of the new defendants will be required to post a $10,000 he ruled. In the old cases the earlier bonds will be allowed to stand.

Alexander surrendered yesterday and posted bond. Wait, Mackay, and Miss Downey are expected to surrender and arrange for bail this morning.

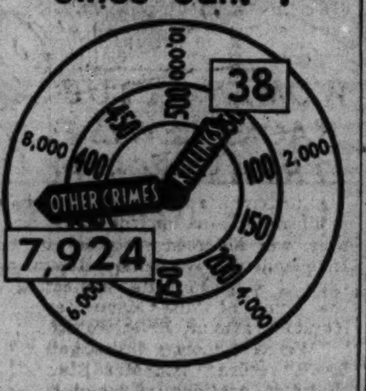
THE CRIME CLOCK
Chicago's Record Since Jan. 1



"Half of all the crimes in Cook county are committed by repeaters."—The Chicago Crime commission.

The action yesterday was the last for the income tax grand jury which has been in session since Dec. 19 and had reached the legal limit of the time it could sit.

The jurors sat about 50 days and heard more than 275 witnesses. Total expenses, including jurors' and witnesses' fees and mileage payments, were between $5,000 and $10,000. In contrast, eight indictments were returned charging income tax evasions aggregating $8,630,310 on the part of 10 gamblers, aiding in the frauds by four others, and perjury by Attorney Goldstein.

Inquiry to Continue.

District Attorney Campbell announced yesterday that the inquiry will be continued before other grand juries, probably by the group which has been looking into the bootlegging of horse race results to handbooks over interstate wires.

It has been reported that the district attorney, who has been in office only since the latter part of 1938, is seeking to link Chicago's politicians and police officials with the racket. This is the phase on which the government is now expected to enter upon.

Sheriff Thomas O'Brien and County Treasurer John Toman, former sheriff, appeared yesterday before the jury during the closing minutes of its session. The jury's interest in them lies in the fact that they are respectively the present and former boss of Chief Lester J. Laird, who was forced to testify before the jury under threat of a contempt citation. Laird is reported to have told of his personal association with Johnson and Skidmore, which was uncovered by agents thru motion pictures of various persons visiting the junkyard.

Subway Open to Public for Inspection Today

The first public inspection of a completed section of the Chicago subway will be held today from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. The completed tunnel portion, lined with concrete, runs for half a mile under Milwaukee avenue.

The inspection tour starts at Milwaukee avenue and Peoria street, where visitors will enter the tunnel 42 feet below the street.

12 MARCH OFF FOR JAIL; ONLY 11 REACH THERE

When the policemen started down the long dark corridor in the basement of the Criminal court building yesterday they were escorting 12 prisoners, bound from Felony court to the Bridewell. They duly counted all 12 before the trip started.

But when the column reached the stairs leading to the side entrance, there were only 11 prisoners. No. 12 had slipped his handcuffs, and when the policemen found it out, the little man wasn't there.

Records showed the missing man to be Frank Anderson, 1812 Chase avenue, with a previous Bridewell record. He had just been sentenced by Judge Jay A. Schiller to 90 days for stealing four blouses from a loop department store.

The perplexed policemen said they couldn't understand how he escaped.

DIES AT CARD PARTY.

Miss Martha Vollmer, 43 years old, 644 Diversey parkway, died of a heart attack last night while at a card party with her sister, Miss Elizabeth Vollmer, in the Masonic temple at 912 North La Salle street.

DR. HUTCHINS' REVOLUTION.

The spring term graduates at the University of Chicago went out into the world with some strange advice from President Robert Maynard Hutchins. Having completed their courses in halls largely provided by successful business men out of their profits, the seniors heard Dr. Hutchins in a convocation sermon denounce private enterprise for being materialistic and propose what he called a revolution. The ceremonies were broadcast by station W-G-N, and a number of those who heard the sermon over the radio have urged that we discuss it in these columns.

Dr. Hutchins simplified the problems of the world. They are, he said, due largely to "a pervasive materialism, a devastating desire for material goods which sweeps everything before it." This results "in all activity being judged by the profit it brings," he said, and "the test of an education is whether the graduates succeed in life. Even those who argue for intellectual development as the aim of education are constrained to add that a man with a developed intellect will make more money than the man with an undeveloped one." If we may interrupt for a question, what's wrong here?

Prexy called upon the graduates to join with him in bringing about a revolution in which economic, social, and political life would be reconstructed. In the new order "immoral means of acquiring goods are excluded." This is innuendo. A high degree of immorality in business is suggested. In politics the practice is called "smearing." In a similar view an unidentified spokesman for the university was recently quoted as saying that football was abolished at the university because "you can't play Big Ten football without being crooked." The Big Ten athletic directors have taken offense, and have called upon the university to prove its charge or suffer punishment. Was the football episode the first step in the Hutchins revolution?

As to immorality in business—there is some. But that is also true in other walks of life. A university president is now in a state penitentiary, important figures in educational and charitable organizations have misapplied funds, and a high ranking clergyman was only recently sent to prison. But this is no indictment of university presidents, charity officers, hospital treasurers, and ministers as groups. Similarly, dishonesty in business is the rare exception. Business is chiefly done on credit, for which high honor is a prime requisite.

It won't be necessary for Dr. Hutchins to have his revolution to clean up business. It is already clean, with the exceptions which honest executives are seeking to eliminate. Nor will it be necessary to do anything revolutionary to meet one of Dr. Hutchins' other objectives, the subordinating of the economic order to the political order, in other words, giving government control over business.

Enterprise has been subjected to so many restraints during the last eight years that one wonders what further ones our revolutionary leader has in mind. During the last eight years initiative of the individual has been severely curbed. Costs of his raw materials have been controled. Under NRA his selling price was regulated. Wages and hours of work have been fixed. Hiring and firing is regulated. Access to new capital is subject to government approval. Nor is this all.

And if, despite all these restraints, profits are earned, the government taxes them at previously unheard of rates. We are suffering from a depression, by which is meant that under existing conditions sufficient profits cannot be made to bring about a larger employment of private capital. Any new restraints upon the economic order by the political order, which Dr. Hutchins can think of, and the New Dealers haven't, would not make it even more difficult to employ capital advantageously. This problem is personalized for the members of the March 1940 class at the university, who are now seeking jobs. What is needed to help them is a counter-revolution.

A further element in the Hutchins revolution is that "one who acquires property beyond the needs of himself and his family must dedicate it to social purposes." When a university president promotes a new setup under which all private means above an exempted minimum must be dedicated to social purposes, does he have in mind that his own organization will prosper under such an arrangement? And if so, is his outlook then wholly selfless and unbiased?

And again, if all estate over a minimum must be given over to social purposes, who is to determine the distribution among many social agencies? The federal or state government? Rockefeller is doing a better job of assigning his fortune to the uses of mankind than the New Dealers are in using the fortunes of other people. And the fortune accumulated by Julius Rosenwald is doing more good because he made the distribution of it than if that were left to Lyn Smith and the statehouse gang. It is not too much to say that the University of Chicago was made by the old system which President Hutchins deprecates, and the present financial difficulties of the university have resulted from national policies he has supported.

The university serves a social purpose, but so do those who make and distribute automobiles, clothes, food, and all of the other things which satisfy our wants. What if Henry Ford's estate should be dismantled, converted into cash, and given to the university? The university could enrich our lives with more courses, but there would be no more Fords. And besides Dr. Hutchins, who will believe that a course in Aristotle's philosophy will carry him as far as a Ford [even a model T] toward "his real goal, which is the fullest development of his specific powers?"

Dr. Hutchins has encouraged others to read the classics. May we reciprocate by recommending two recent books on economics which he probably has not read, and indicating something of their contents? A reviewer of "Capitalism the Creator," refers to it as one of the greatest books of all times. The author, Dr. Carl Snyder, is a scientist of high order, one of the few economists ever to address the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Dr. Snyder says: "No principally agricultural or pastoral nation we know of has ever grown rich, powerful, and civilized. These are the fruits of wealth and enterprise; and these in turn of organized industry and trade. As true today as in the most distant times . . . all this represents the will to live, to gain, to discover, to conquer; and . . . whenever these begin to wane and weaken, and a nation is given over to visionaries, doctrinaires and novices in 'social experimentation its decadence has begun."

The other recommended volume is "Business and Capitalism," by Dr. N. S. B. Gras, Straus Professor of Business History at Harvard university. Here is one of the pertinent statements to be found there:

"For those who have no undertakings and no major responsibilities, it is easy to be virtuous and critical. The yellow dog barks at the heels of the work horse without being able to drag the plow."

MR. DEWEY AND NEW DEAL ADVISERS.

Mr. Roosevelt and his New Dealers still think that the Republicans should not nominate Thomas E. Dewey. Every time Mr. Dewey makes a speech they become the more convinced that the Republican convention should turn a cold shoulder on this candidate to whom they refer as the "young man."

It would appear that the New Dealers think the Republicans could not elect Mr. Dewey if they made the mistake of nominating him, and, further, that the Dealers want the Republicans to put up a winning ticket. They might be even willing to write the ticket and the platform. Good natured and generous opponents could go no further. In a true sporting spirit these friends, but not members, of the Republican party do not want the G. O. P. to take a licking with the New York prosecutor who has put some of their New York friends and supporters in jail.

They have not followed up their advice by picking a candidate for the Republicans, but no doubt they would be willing to do so, and the choice would fall on none of the men who are now announced candidates or who are being considered.

Every time Mr. Dewey goes to the people on one of his trips and talks about the performance of Mr. Roosevelt and the two terms of the New Deal, the idea of his political unavailability grows in the White House and among the New Dealers who frequent it. Every time the hard hitting campaigner lands another blow upon the record of the two terms the New Dealers advise the Republicans that this young man will not do. It has become a way of saying "Ouch!"

Mr. Dewey hasn't pulled a punch since he started campaigning. In St. Louis and in Chicago he devoted himself to the corrupt political practices of the New Deal in carrying elections by the use of federal money and the abuse of the voters on relief. This record is a shabby one, fully exposed, as Mr. Dewey said, by the Sheppard committee, the investigators of which followed the fresh tracks of the New Deal politicos in state after state where the livelihood and subsistence of people on relief were made dependent upon the way they cast their votes.

These are records of contemptible actions, found every two years when the New Deal undertook to maintain its control of the government. Mr. Dewey's presentation of the scandal of subsidy, coercion, and extortion dealing with the most dependent of the country's citizens was vivid and convincing. It will add to the conviction of the New Dealers that he should not be nominated.

The moral pretensions and ethical hypocrisies of the New Deal have never been more vigorously attacked and exposed. No one has made a more damning disclosure of the broken promises, monumental failures, scandalous practices, cynical pretensions, and satisfied complacency of the two terms than the Republican candidate the New Dealers think should not be nominated by the Republican party.

WE'RE [HIC] MUDDLED.

[Detroit News.]

To get hopelessly befuddled one need only try to umpire that debate between Gov. Dickinson and Dr. David L. McBride, superintendent of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league, about swearing in teachers for teaching temperance. To be strictly judicial at the start, let's grant that both parties to the controversy, which may become state-wide, are thoroly conscientious. Only good people would get into such a discussion.

Says the governor: "Teachers of temperance should be in sympathy with the program. They are guilty of hypocrisy if they frequent wine rooms." McBride takes issue, contending that even "moist" teachers might do a good job teaching temperance.

First, and without dragging in more premises, logic seems headed for a morass. A state in the wholesale liquor business and dependent on it for a big part of its revenue, is headed by a governor who is an Anti-Saloon league champion and wouldn't tolerate "hypocrisy" in teachers who buy state goods, get spifilicated and teach children that it is naughty to follow their example in patronizing a profitable state agency.

We get punctured on the other horn of the dilemma when we hear the superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league baffle the Anti-Saloon league governor with the theory that temperance teaching in the schools must not be propaganda against the liquor interests of the state and that teachers who imbibe to a degree testing as "moist" may effectively explain the theory that alcohol may be deleterious to the human system while it is profitable to the political and economic system. Elaborating this pedagogical principle, one might contend that the "moist" teacher by intensifying his moisture to practical inebriation might demonstrate before his classes as a living example of the truth of the state prescribed temperance instruction.

COLONEL PEPYS OF KENTUCKY.

30th March—Did go to dine the other night with Major Guy Hardy of the 8th street hussars at the inn called Kentucky Serves a Meal, which is an old mansion, spacious and quiet, with the atmosphere of our grandfathers' days. There we feasted on chicken, of course, and found that the management doth encourage its guests to take the legs and wings of the fowl in hand when eating, and also to sop biscuits in the gravy, according to the country style. Therefore the major and I did gnaw the bones right merrily, and soon we were discoursing with a southern accent.

And I did regale my companion with tales of my extensive travels thru the commonwealth of Kentucky last summer, seeking the seats and gravestones of my ancestors; and he, being a fellow who never goes anywhere except to New York, did listen open-eyed. I told him about the cave where Cousin Floyd Collins perished, and how I had been down in it; and about the house where Cousin Stephen Collins Foster composed "My Old Kentucky Home"; and about the palisado at Harrodsburg where Cousin Daniel Collins Boone fought with Indians; and about the fine city of Lexington, with its fair women and fast horses; and about many other things, true and false.

I told him, too, that Kentucky folk did not eat chicken all the time, according to the common belief, but that they often dined on jowl and greens; and that wherever they went in the world they often yearned for this dish, which is a pig's jaw cooked in kale greens. For pot likker, I declared, you can get nothing better than jowl and greens.

"All this is most int'restin', suh," said Major Hardy, "and next week I hope you will do me the honor of dining with me at that restaurant across the street, which is named the Kungsholm. There, no doubt, I will hear stories about your cousins in Sweden."

The Career of an Unknown Playwright.

He told me he was a native of Denmark [Copenhagen, I believe], and that his real name was Aage Sophus von Schutte; that he came of a noble and wealthy family; and that in youth he became an actor with Danish provincial companies. He claimed to have had several plays produced in Denmark. In his twenties he came to New York, where he worked, at first, as a stevedore, porter, and bartender, and slept in flop houses.

He became a vaudeville actor under the name of Harry Sophus Sheldon, acting in sketches of his authorship on the cheaper circuits; and then a stock company player. His first wife was a stock company actress; his second, a Miss Arnold, was a daughter or niece of a Chicago meat packer.

In 1911, when he was on Easy street from royalties on "The Havoc," he had a summer home near McHenry, Ill, I drew a contract for him for the production of his "A House Divided." This was staged at the Central [now the Sonotone] theater in February, 1912, with Milton Sills and his first wife, Gwladys Wynne, niece of Edith Wynne Matthison, in the leading rôles. It had only 12 performances. I never saw Sheldon or heard from him afterward.

BIRD CRY AT NIGHT.

I heard a killdeer's cry tonight,
High above earth, in northern flight;

As thru the air his shrill notes ring
We hail a harbinger of spring.

In darkened sky he makes his flight,
And seeks his home, nor waits for light.

Brave heart, sure instinct, swift of wing,
He brings the world his note of spring.

The contributors are falling down right and left on Al Baude's riddle [March 27]: "What thorofare in Chicago has neither jog nor break, yet bears three names?" So we will put them out of their misery: It is Halsted street, Broadway, and Clarendon avenue. This straight line carries the name, Broadway, for only one block, between Grace street and Sheridan road.

The poets of Evanston are now writing odes to the southwest wind that brings all the loose scrap paper in Chicago into their back yards and vacant lots.

HYSTERICAL LOSS OF VOICE.

INABILITY to speak above a whisper may accompany swelling [edema] of the vocal cords. But total or partial loss of the voice may be a hysterical phenomenon. Because of some mental shock—which may be weeks or months in coming on—the patient's personality may be so altered that physical symptoms will ensue. Not always will there be complete failure of the power of utterance and many of these individuals will exhibit "frogginess" that is characteristic. Often, however, no conversation whatever will be essayed.

When we think of hysteria we may remind ourselves of the time when—as children—we hid from some fancied danger. So it is with the victim of this derangement. He drifts from stern reality into disease. As a rule, the urge to escape is unsuccessful, but to the sufferer anything seems more desirable than the situation which he is facing. In our attempt to understand symptoms, therefore, we must hunt for the origin and some disappointment or fear will usually be disclosed.

A woman of 42 was studied in one of our clinics. Poorly nourished, she was obviously struggling for a livelihood. Her case was diagnosed as a typical hysteria, because a thoro examination of the voice box [the larynx] showed no abnormality. She resisted efforts to probe beneath the surface of her daily life to uncover the cause of her trouble. It was finally decided to place her under an anesthetic. During the excitement stage she talked and sang loudly, whereupon the ether was discontinued. Emerging from the dream state she heard the reverberations of her own chatter. On recovering consciousness she burst into tears and revealed her conflict. A drunken husband had so worn upon her nervous reserve that she could stand it no longer. Her retreat into aphonia [voice loss] brought considerable solicitude on his part and she persevered because it meant greater kindness. Fortunately the physician was able to interview the husband—who responded manfully to his "laying down of the law." No relapse has occurred.

A young school teacher came to the nose and throat department of a hospital, complaining that—try as she would—she could not utter an audible sound in class. Here again the larynx was in good condition and she was persuaded to confide in the doctor in charge.

She was an instructor in a grade school in a small community. Her parents had separated and—on more than one occasion—their quarrels had been aired in court. Brooding over the matter she became convinced that every one knew about her family and, in consequence, scorned her. She felt, too, that her matrimonial chances had been ruined and she was ashamed to attend popular gatherings because she felt herself the object of gossip. Gradually she drew more and more within herself and—subsequent to a sleepless night—was unable to speak to her pupils the next day.

The very recital of her worries to her medical adviser, his understanding and sympathy, worked a quick cure. After a half hour of hoarseness her tones began to clear and—within the space of another hour—she was talking in her natural voice. She was discharged with the assurance that she could well afford to think of her own life rather than that of her parents. Eventually she was able to develop a type of indifference to family squabbles that transformed her into a resourceful, well rounded personality.

About the worst thing that can be said to these victims is: "There is nothing wrong with you. You are faking. Your larynx is quite all right."

Such an attitude can do little but inculcate resentment and render the problem more difficult of solution. First of all, the patient must be made to relate his or her story. It may then be suggested that inasmuch as organic disturbances do not lie at the basis of the symptom, all will be well if dwelling intensively on some personal hurt will cease. Psychoanalysis is of no value. What the person needs is an honest, sympathetic physician who has some wisdom as well as a fair amount of technical knowledge. We may look upon hysterical aphonia as readily curable if the right counselor can be found.

DIFFERENT DISEASES.

J. D. writes: Are pulmonary tuberculosis and bronchitis the same thing?

REPLY.

No. Bronchitis signifies inflammation of the bronchial tubes. The organisms responsible do not include tubercle bacilli. Pulmonary tuberculosis means inflammation of the lungs and the culprit in this condition is the tubercle bacillus. Coughing is a rather constant symptom of bronchitis—which may not be present in lung tuberculosis.

DRYNESS AT NIGHT.

E. K. writes: My throat is parched whenever I wake up during the night. What is the reason for this?

REPLY.

No doubt you are a mouth breather. The use of a support for the lower jaw should relieve the symptom entirely. If a sinus infection is present the parts may have become infected. Treatment is then in order.

NOSE PEELING.

Miss R. writes: For three or four weeks my face—especially the nose—has been peeling. Is this serious? How can it be cured?

REPLY.

No doubt due to excessive drying. Stop using soap and lotions containing alcohol. Apply a bland ointment. Any good cold cream should suffice.

NEWCOMERS ON RELIEF.

Chicago, March 26.—Sometime ago I knew of two families that came to Chicago from the hills of Kentucky. Shortly after they arrived here they were on relief, feeding graciously from our public trough at the expense of our overburdened taxpayers.

A gentleman, who is a fellow employé and friend of mine, told me that he knew of cases where families came here from the southern states and shortly after their arrival were on our ever-increasing relief rolls, while many of our own unemployed were going hungry.

I understand there is a law which requires that all people who apply for relief must be residents of this state for at least three years. I believe that if the relief administration and law enforcing agencies were to enforce this law and make an example of people falsifying their residence here we would have fewer people on the relief rolls.

Live and let live is O. K., but charity begins at home. Let the other states take care of their own unemployed as well as their paupers. F. M.

AMONG STOKOWSKI'S COMRADES.

Chicago, March 27.—Leopold Stokowski, according to John Taber, one of New York's Republican congressmen, is a communist. He gives as his authority for the accusation, "The Red Network," by Elizabeth Dilling. If Mr. Taber will do his own looking thru this delightful volume—or, at least, look a little longer than it took to find Mr. Stokowski's name—he will find some more distinguished names. Names, for example, of such notables as Glenn Frank, the one-man G. O. P. brain trust; H. L. Mencken, whose hatred of even the mildest sort of liberal is as vehement as his way of writing about them is magnificent, and the late Senator Borah. For all I know, the learned Republican from New York might even find his own name there.

SLOW MAIL SERVICE.

Cairo, Ill., March 25.—Isn't it about time for a drastic change in transportation of United States mail? The present mail deliveries by railroads are awfully inadequate. I mailed a card to a small town near Springfield, Ill., Sunday night. I was anxious that the card should reach its destination today, Monday. I was informed that it would not leave Cairo before 10:30 a. m. today and would probably arrive tomorrow morning. A card mailed Sunday night would take 24 hours to deliver over a distance of 250 miles.

For such local deliveries should not trucks be used instead of railroads? There is small chance for the railroads to increase their mail carrying facilities.

JAMES S. WALKER.

THE JOB WENT ELSEWHERE.

Elgin, Ill., March 27.—I was one of the many people in Elgin who hoped to get a job taking the census. I sent my application in ahead of time. The deadline was supposed to be March 10. My neighbor informed me that she was sending in an application. I said, "Why, you're too late." She said: "O, no I'm not. My Democratic committeeman has O. K.'d mine."

She now has the job. She is also going to work at the polls on April 9.

I certainly don't think this is fair. If she gets the one job, certainly there are other people just as capable of working at the polls. MRS. CARL WARNER.

REFLECTION ON SLUSH.

Chicago, March 27.—I am living at 61st street and Kimbark avenue, sitting in my window watching the cars swish thru the slush and water. I donned my galoshes a little while ago and waded across the street to the grocery. I shall be so glad when the sun comes out, as that is the only way the street has been dried up in the past. We have one advantage, however, our skirts are shorter than they were way back when we didn't have paved streets.

LITTLE GIRL GROWS UP.

Wauwatosa, Wis., March 26.—Once upon a time, a number of years ago, a little girl with a big imagination and an overanxious love of reading lived on a stump farm in central Wisconsin. Her home was a cheap shack and the view, therefore, was not conducive to a desire to paint the scene.

Needless to say, her parents were poor, but they had known city life and had managed to retain a few of the civilizing factors in the home, such as an old piano, many books, subscriptions to the best magazines, and—joys of joys—two daily papers. Among the latter was THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Our little friend devoured it all. She could have rattled off all the names of the plays on the boards and also of the actors and actresses. No one knows what her longings were—to get away from those drab surroundings and live in the big city.

Well, the advent of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE was especially enjoyable, because in addition to the blessed paper a copy of a song and a picture suitable for [passe partout] framing were included. How that old piano was thumped and in imagination she was down in the bright lights.

Why all this harangue? O, only to tell you how very much this old lady enjoys playing your perfectly grand swing versions of the old favorites. Bless you, and more power to you. GRATEFUL.

AUTO LICENSES IN WISCONSIN.

Libertyville, Ill., March 26.—I read Hal Faust's interesting report in the March 24 TRIBUNE on 1939 auto plates. If Hal is really interested in seeing 1939 plates he should make a trip to Wisconsin where they have a Republican governor. If what I saw in Kenosha last week is an average for the state my guess would be that at least 60 per cent of the cars are still wearing their 1939s.

March 30, 1867.

Alaska, approximately one-fifth the size of the entire United States and rich in resources, purchased from Russia for $7,200,000, or about 2 cents an acre. Alaska was discovered in 1741, one of the last countries in the world to be explored. For years Sitka was the principal seaport on the west coast of North America and was a fur trading center. The name Alaska was taken from a native word meaning "great peninsula."

PROPERTY CONVEYANCE.

Chicago, March 29 [Legal Friend of the People].—A friend of mine married a widower several years ago who had three children, all minors. Shortly after his first wife's death he executed a trust agreement, placing the property in the children's names, appointing himself as trustee.

After his second marriage [1] he had this agreement dissolved by conveying the property as trustee to a friend, who in turn conveyed it back to him and his second wife in joint tenancy.

2. Was this transfer legal and do the children have any claim in the property in the event of their father's death? Previous to this second marriage my friend and her first husband were in financial difficulties and at that time she signed a note with him.

The creditor, upon learning of her improved financial standing [3], attempted to collect from her second husband and threatened suit. In order to save the property from a claim which she contracted in her previous marriage and which she felt her first husband should pay [4], she gave a quitclaim deed to her second husband.

5. In the event of her second husband's death, what interest, if any, would she have in this property?

Also [6] what steps should be taken to reëstablish her status in the property before she signed to the quit claim deed?

F. B.

1. His power to dissolve it in this way would depend on the wording of the original trust arrangement.
2. See 1.
3. In general, her second husband would not be liable for her previous debts.
4. Such a conveyance would be subject to being set aside as a fraud on creditors.
5. If it appeared that the conveyance was a fraud on creditors then the court might leave the parties in the position in which it finds them.
6. Depends upon whether the parties are willing to coöperate and on other facts that are not before us. If she wishes to exhaust the possibilities, the first step would be to have a personal interview with an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SEPARATION AND REMARRIAGE.

Chicago, March 28 [Legal Friend of the People].—After seven years' separation [1] can the wife or husband remarry without first getting a divorce?

2. Is there such a law that when a man or wife are unheard from for seven years they can be declared legally dead?

T. R.

1. No.
2. Seven years' unexplained absence creates a legal presumption of death, but it is not advisable to contract another marriage in reliance on such a mere presumption.

INDICT 102 MORE IN GOVERNMENT'S ANTI-TRUST DRIVE

Plumbing Industry New Justice Office Target.

Walter J. Kohler [top] and Charles B. Nolte.

Cleveland, O., March 29 (AP).—The Justice department today struck at the nation-wide plumbing industry in an indictment charging 102 defendants—manufacturers, jobbers, and unions—conspired to restrain trade in violation of antitrust laws.

An end of "unnecessary and costly steps" described by the indictment would mean a 20 to 25 per cent saving to consumers, the government contended.

It was the most far reaching indictment so far returned in the antitrust division's drive to rid the building industries of allegedly monopolistic practices.

"Big Three" Indicted.

Among the 12 manufacturers indicted were the "big three" of the industry — Crane company, Kohler company, and American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation.

Walter J. Kohler, chairman of the Kohler company, and former governor of Wisconsin, was among the 53 individuals indicted and subject, in event of conviction, to fines of $5,000 each, a year's imprisonment, or both.

Charles B. Nolte of Chicago, president of Crane company, and Henry M. Reed, Ben Avon, Pa., president and chairman of American Radiator, likewise were named.

Also indicted were the National Association of Master Plumbers in the United States, encompassing 7,000 employers of journeymen plumbers, and the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Steam Fitters, an American Federation of Labor affiliate having 800 local unions thruout the country.

Restricted Sales Alleged.

The grand jury said the defendants conspired to effect a "restricted system of distribution" under which "plumbing supplies are sold by the manufacturer to the jobber, resold by the jobber to the master plumber, and resold by the master plumber to the consumer."

Under this system, the indictment declared, "both the jobber and the master plumber exact a charge in connection with the sale and distribution of plumbing supplies, the master plumber being engaged in both the sale and the installation of the said supplies and exacting a charge on each operation altho he performs no services in connection with the sale."

The following Chicago organizations also were indicted: Chicago Credit Bureau, Hallenscheid & McDonald, Imperial Brass Manufacturing company, Ehman Sprayshield company, Revere Copper and Brass, Inc., John Wood Manufacturing Company, Inc., Weil-McLain company, Brunswick-Balke-Collender company, and Chicago Faucet company.

NO SURPRISE HERE.

Charles B. Nolte, president of Crane company, Chicago, could not be reached for comment last night on the Cleveland indictment.

It was indicated in the plumbing trade here that the Cleveland indictment was not a surprise to the industry. As far back as four years ago initial action by the government in Chicago suggested a growing inquiry.

In 1936 the government began an investigation of alleged price grouping in plumbing in Chicago, particularly in connection with federal housing projects. Two years later, on June 15, 1938, a federal grand jury indicted four plumbing contractors, a plumbers' union business agent, and a former plumbers' association administrator. In August, 1939, the indictments were dismissed on orders from Washington. No explanation was given.

Kohler Denies Charge.

Kohler, Wis., March 29 (AP).—The Kohler company, plumbing equipment firm which was indicted with others at Cleveland today on charges of violating the Sherman antitrust act, issued a statement tonight denying that it ever had participated in any conspiracy. The statement said:

"The policies of the Kohler company are and always have been independently determined, and it has never had any part in or connection with a conspiracy of any sort. The present Kohler company marketing policy has been in effect for half a century."

More Californians Indicted.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 29 (AP).—A special federal grand jury investigating southern California's $100,000,000 building industry returned two blanket indictments today against four corporations, two trade associations, two labor unions, and 39 individuals in the electrical business here and in Santa Barbara.

Eight business trade associations, four labor unions, 38 corporations, and 171 individuals were indicted Wednesday, the jury alleging antitrust violations.

Four Union Officials Cleared.

St. Louis, Mo., March 29 (AP).—Federal District Judge C. B. Davis sustained demurrers today to antitrust indictments and dropped charges against four officials of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

The federal government, Judge Davis held, failed to show a conspiracy to restrain interstate commerce in a jurisdictional dispute between two A. F. of L. unions at the brewing plant of Anheuser-Busch, Inc.

ACQUIT ACCUSED STRIKE TERRORIST IN ST. CHARLES

Others Await Hearing Before Court.

The first trial in connection with violence by strikers at the St. Charles Manufacturing company was held yesterday before Police Magistrate Harry Olson at St. Charles. The defendant, with three others, had obtained four continuances in as many weeks. He was acquitted.

One of the other defendants was dismissed at the request of attorneys for the company. Separate trials, set for April 8, were granted the remaining two.

State's Attorney Charles A. O'Connor of Kane county announced that before this date arrives he will file informations against the last pair in the county court and will prosecute them personally.

Charged with Assault.

The four arraigned yesterday are Philip Neu and Harry Minard of Aurora, and Louis Greviskis and Walter Vander Pluym of Batavia. They were charged with assaulting Robert Stern of St. Charles, an employé, as he walked to work at the plant on Feb. 14. Minard is the striker who was dismissed.

Stern testified that the four had beaten him to the ground after intercepting him in a field. Minard and Pluym said from the witness stand that the four had heard Stern was carrying a gun and had merely stopped him in fear he might shoot some one. The six man jury voted acquittal after 15 minutes' deliberation.

Pair Seized Several Times.

Greviskis and Pluym have been arrested in almost every instance of violence that has occured since Feb. 8 when the strike was called by the International Association of Machinists and the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers, and Helpers, both affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Greviskis and Pluym will face Justice of the Peace W. H. Johnson of Wheaton Monday on charges of assault. With them will be eight other men who are charged with attacking and beating Walter MacNeille, secretary of the sheet metal concern, and three employés, in DuPage county on March 21.

Also on Monday two groups of strikers, numbering 14 and 18, will face Circuit Judge Frank Shepherd at Geneva on contempt citations.

THE COUNT TURNS ON CHARM AGAIN, BUT IT BACKFIRES

Arthur Potocki, who has been nicknamed the Count because of his suave and charming ways, was only a dejected felon last night. Give him a jury of women he was wont to brag, and they would set him free in any case.

Arthur Potocki.

Twice mixed juries acquitted him, once on an automobile theft charge and again on a burglary charge. Two weeks ago he was tried for breaking into a notions store at 8411 Stony Island avenue. He turned on the charm and the jury, on which were seven women, was unable to agree.

This week, the Count, a short, slim fellow of 25 was brought to retrial in the last case. There were nine women on the jury, and his defense was that the police had framed him. Yesterday the jury retired and in nine minutes brought back a verdict of guilty. Judge Joseph [illegible] Graber immediately sentenced him to one year to life in prison. The Count decided his charm has failed.

SUSPECT QUIZZED IN PENNSYLVANIA CO-ED'S SLAYING

State College, Pa., March 29 (AP).—A suspect, taken into custody on information given by a Negro porter, was questioned tonight by police seeking the sex-maniac slayer of Rachel Taylor, 17 year old co-ed at Pennsylvania State college.

The porter in Philadelphia noticed the suspect's clothing was stained and notified police after hearing him say he had arrived in Philadelphia yesterday from State college. The suspect was described as a youthful appect was described as a youthful heating contractor, who moved to State college two years ago.

Philadelphia detectives questioned the contractor for hours and then turned him over to state police for more questioning. It was not revealed whether stains on his clothing had been analyzed. No charge was filed against him. State police also took into custody an assistant of the contractor.

Miss Taylor, shy, brown haired freshman in the home economics department at Pennsylvania State college, was beaten and mutilated by her assailant. Her body was found yesterday morning in a driveway three miles east of the campus.

WOMAN GUILTY OF NUDE SLAYING OF A SALESMAN

Lake Charles, La., March 29 (AP).—Mrs. Annie Beatrice Henry, 24 years old, wife of a convicted Texas murderer, was herself convicted of murder tonight in the slaying of a salesman who knelt nude in a rice field and prayed in vain for his life. The jury's verdict carries an automatic penalty of hanging. Only one white woman has been hanged in Louisiana.

Mrs. Henry admitted that she and a companion hitch-hiked a ride with Joseph P. Calloway, 42, Houston, Tex., salesman last Valentine's day, then robbed him, stripped him of his clothes, and shot him to death while he pleaded for his life.

She testified, however, that her companion, not yet tried, fired the shot. Their purpose, she said, in stealing Calloway's car was to use it in robberies for raising money to aid her husband, Claud Henry, serving 50 years in the Texas penitentiary for slaying a policeman.

M'GARRY ARRIVES TOO LATE TO PLEAD CAUSE AT JUDGES' MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of Municipal court judges, at which Judge Eugene L. McGarry planned to plead his case for reassignment to active duty, was adjourned yesterday before McGarry arrived.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby found only two judges, Cecil Smith and Charles S. Dougherty, on hand when he called the meeting to order at 3:30 p. m. The justice adjourned the meeting for lack of a quorum of 19 of the 36 judges. McGarry arrived 10 minutes later, after Sonsteby had left. Last night Sonsteby said he had received no notice that McGarry intended to be present.

Judges McGarry and Eugene J. Holland were relieved of duty last Dec. 5 pending the outcome of an investigation by the Chicago Bar association of charges against them. McGarry has brought suit in Circuit court for an order to compel Sonsteby to assign work to him.

ROBBED OF $300 RING.

Leo Siegel, a tavern owner, was robbed of a $300 diamond ring yesterday by a robber who followed him into the Belvidere Apartment hotel at 4655 Lake Park avenue and forced him into an elevator.

4 WOMEN SEIZED IN STRIKE TERROR AT TOY FACTORY

Four women strikers at the Chicago Metallic Manufacturing company, 3711 South Ashland avenue, were arrested yesterday on warrants obtained by other women, loyal employés, who accused the strikers of intimidating them and threatening them with violence.

The women were booked at the detective bureau on charges of disorderly conduct. They were released on $25 bonds supplied by Attorney Francis Heisler of the International Labor Defense, and are to be arraigned in Racket court Tuesday.

Strike Called Wednesday.

Those arrested were Mrs. Anna Bijenke, 37 years old, 3333 May street; Miss Helen Lubas, 25, of 3811 South Spaulding avenue; Miss Florence Plecki, 20, of 5720 Justine street, and Miss Alice Bozynski, 20, of 4512 Marshfield avenue.

The strike was called Wednesday by the Playthings and Novelty Workers of America, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, which has been seeking to organize the company's 165 employés. The concern manufactures toys, novelties, and metal stampings.

Louis H. Debs, president, said about 35 employés are on strike. He denied a statement by Bernard Shaw, union organizer, that two union members were discharged and six union officials demoted because of organizing activities.

Workers Satisfied, He Says.

"Many of my employés have been with me for 20 years," Debs said. "They are perfectly satisfied. I kept the plant going during the depression, even tho I lost money, because I felt I owed it to the employés."

Sergt. George Barnes of the labor squad, who made the arrests, said the strike vote was taken Tuesday at a meeting attended by 50 union members. The vote was 28 to 7 to strike, with 15 not voting.

The complaints on which warrants were issued by Judge William V. Daly were made by Annabelle Vopinek, 3407 South Hermitage avenue; Stelle Czapla, 5141 May street; Helen Callas, 1839 South Ashland avenue, and Bernice Wasik, 4527 South Marshfield avenue.

TIEUPS BLAMED ON OUT OF TOWN TRUCK DRIVERS

A city council subcommittee was told yesterday that small merchants and out of town truckers are responsible for most of the congestion on heavily traveled streets. The subcommittee is headed by Ald. William J. Cowhey [41st]. John J. Broderick, representing the Chicago Cartage Exchange, an association of truckers, said Chicago truckers have an agreement with the city to stay off heavily traveled streets but that out of town operators do not know of this.

Beautiful Skin Within Reach of Everyone

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The things that matter in a woman's appearance are, besides bone structure, things that can be conquered if they are not already owned.

The good skin, for example. In our experience we have seen, times without number, the most amazing recoveries of skin beauty, where formerly even acne inroads had set in.

A good skin, as we interpret it in the beauty world, is a clean, blemish free skin with not a sign of a blackhead on it. You get that skin cleanliness from skin cleansing. With soap and water, too! The aid of a complexion brush is invaluable for the stimulation the brush furnishes and as a pore cleansing factor. Use cleansing cream to remove dirt and makeup. It's a good formula to follow because you see actually how dirty your face can get. Then do your real face cleaning job after the cream is removed. After you have used soap and water and brush, rinse the face well in clear warm and then cold water.

At South Seas Party in Desert Resort

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

From the notebook:

One of the best ideas we've ever heard of for the problem of gifts-for-the-bridesmaids that pops up every spring was developed in a local wedding bureau: It's perfume, with the original bottle monogrammed and dated.

Brides and bridesmaids are daffy about it; the conventional gift of evening bag, costume jewelry, or cigaret case is considered on the unoriginal side nowadays and this inspiration is like a gift from heaven.

For one thing, the girl can be given a perfume you know she likes, but the gift is taken right out of the ordinary class by having the bottle [and most original bottles of good perfume lend themselves well] etched with her initials and the date. She'll probably want to keep the bottle forever, refilling it from time to time.

Or, some brides choose an exquisite perfume bottle, have it monogrammed and filled with some scent they know the recipient would like to own.

June brides, please note.

And bridesmaids might make a note of the sachet situation. Never have they been so beautifully fashioned, so exquisitely scented or so well planned for practical purposes. If you do your sachet shopping early you can order any number of things: Clothes hangers; covers for hot water bags; flat pockets to tuck beneath the mattress and hang beside the bed [for a book, handkerchiefs, cigarets] and all shapes and sizes of cases for lingerie, hosiery, handkerchiefs and gloves. All or any one of these can be ordered in a variety of fabric and color.

Spring Is Really Here; News Is All of Romance

BY JUDITH CASS.

AT her home, Alden Park Manor, in Germantown, Pa., Mrs. Paul Wyman today is announcing the engagement of her daughter, Pauline Dorothea, to Edward Foss Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Wilson of Chicago.

The romantic news is of especial interest here, for Mr. Wilson is one of Chicago's most attractive and eligible bachelors. His pretty fiancée, with whom he often has been seen, has been doing personnel work at Northwestern university since her graduation from Vassar.

Mr. Wilson was graduated from Princeton university in 1926. He is associated in business with his father and is president of the packing company that bears the family name. No plans for the wedding have been announced.

Further interesting romantic news comes from El Dorado, Ark., where Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haywood Murphy have announced the engagement of their daughter, Caroline Prentice, to Christoph Keller Jr., son of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Christoph Keller of Highland Park. The Rev. Mr. Keller is rector of Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park. Miss Murphy is completing her second year at Mary Baldwin college. Mr. Keller was graduated from Lake Forest academy and Washington and Lee university and is engaged in business in Staunton, Va. The wedding will take place in the early summer.

Saturday Retains Place as Favored Wedding Day.

The first Saturday after Easter always has been a favorite spring wedding day. Of the three weddings of greatest interest to Chicagoans planned for today only one is taking place here. That is the ceremony at 4:30 o'clock in Christ church, Winnetka, that will unite in marriage Miss Sally Jane Crowder, daughter of the Gilbert Crowders, and Richard V. Wakeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Wiley Wakeman of Quincy, Mass.

Miss Judy Butler, who is to be able to walk without the aid of crutches today for the first time since a train accident this winter, is to be one of Miss Crowder's bridesmaids. The others are to be Miss Janet Musselman, Miss Virginia Creigh, and Miss Katherine Baird. Mary Hooker, the John P. Hookers' sub-deb daughter, will be the junior bridesmaid. Mr. Wakeman's sister, Mrs. Donald Spencer of Worcester, Mass., is the matron of honor.

Samuel Wakeman will be best man

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Who's Afraid?

Dayton, O., March 29.—Your reporter turned actor here today on the stage of the R-K-O Colonial theater, and altho he has played quite a lot of vaudeville he confesses that his stomach was tied up in agitated knots while Marjorie Weaver and Helen Parrish were introducing him to the good people of this charming city.

Once you get in action, the nervousness disappears, outside of knees that have a tendency to give off a castanet effect, but waiting for that "go" signal is concentrated nervous tension. . . . It communicates itself to the best of them. . . . Bela Lugosi, Arthur Treacher, the Misses Weaver and Parrish, Doug MacPhail, Betty Jaynes, Peg-Leg Bates, Vivian Fay, all were a bit jittery before the first show; relaxed immediately they walked into the spotlight and heard the theater applauding them.

Nervousness, despite its unpleasantness, is a good thing for a performer, or even an athlete: nervousness makes a player alert, gives him a sparkle that is effective.

Acting as master of ceremonies at the various harvest moon balls at Madison Square Garden, I've seen most of the great names of the movies and the theater under nervous pressure and they all yield to it. . . . At the last ball, when I introduced Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, the two kids came within two feet of me and never even realized it.

The roar of the crowd had paralyzed them to everything but the motions of walking, talking, and singing. . . . They looked, the two of them, like a fighter who has regained his feet after getting flattened by a haymaker. . . . Norma Shearer, Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, Alice Faye, Claudette Colbert—I've introduced all of them and each of them obviously was nervous enough to let out a Comanche yell.

It's the same in Hollywood, even in pictures. . . . The other night, when Victor Fleming and Frank Capra were to be filmed for the academy award short, both of these famous directors "blew" their lines and otherwise proved that it's one thing to stand behind a camera and quite another thing to stand in front of a camera and read lines.

Clark Gable is champing at the bit to get started on "Boom Town" because he's all pent up about that opening shot. He says he has never been a normal human being in all his acting career from the time he gets up in the morning of that first day until the opening scene has been shot.

Even such veterans as Lionel Barrymore, Fay Bainter, and George Bancroft attest to that same nervousness. The two did a scene together as the first shot in "Young Tom Edison." Bancroft perspired like a stevedore in the noonday sun and kept mopping his face until after that first shot.

Spencer Tracy reveals that the only time he was not nervous was, strangely enough, when he made his debut on Broadway—his very first professional play. He says he's one actor in a million that way, but it was purely because he couldn't be nervous. He played a robot in "R. U. R." at $15 a week and he had no lines.

Jeanette Macdonald will always insist on doing any crying scenes, if they are in a script, the very first thing. She says she's nervous enough to cry anyway, so why not make the weeps realistic? Ilona Massey had to do her opening scenes in both of her pictures to date sitting on a bed. William Powell invariably does his first scenes walking away from the camera, only his back showing.

An odd first scene experience was that of Helen Gilbert, the former studio orchestra cellist, who was taken from that orchestra to be in "Andy Hardy Gets Spring Fever." When she did her first scene Lewis Stone was amazed. He said he'd never seen a beginner so calm before a camera. The truth was she had worked up so much nerves she was numb. After the scene she went to her dressing room and keeled over.

John Barrymore tells a strange one. His first scene in "Romeo and Juliet" was a long speech. He rehearsed for days and that morning raved that he could never do it. His Pal, Reginald Denny, in the scene with him, tried to calm and reassure him. When the scene started Barrymore felt his throat.

The next instant he felt Denny's hand squeeze around his forearm. Barrymore found himself and went thru the scene without a flaw. He said later he could feel Denny's strength pouring into his own body. But the arm was black and blue. Robert Montgomery and Edward Arnold both insist they can't sleep for an entire week before that first day, but the night following the first day of work how they knock off slumber. Frank Morgan titters and says, "How could anyone know whether or not I'm nervous? I have to stutter my lines anyway."

A television broadcast was brought to a capacity audience at the South Shore Country club last night in the guise of the club's annual Follies. From the opening chorus, "Everything Begins with Rhythm," to the closing red-white-and-blue costumed drill routine, the "broadcast" was a fast moving, laughter provoking success.

Fred Herendeen, club member who is a moving spirit behind the show, wrote the words to "Song of the Sirens," which was sung by Warren McCaffery as a group of "gay ladies" of the past trooped by. The music was written by Dave Stamper, author of the hits "Tulip Time" and "Shine On, Harvest Moon."

Mrs. Paul Flagg, chairman of the Follies committee, and her husband; the Dennett Bells, and other married couples familiar to Follies' audiences were as good as ever in dramatic scenes and skits.

Last night's performance was an informal one, but tonight's audience will wear evening clothes, as there will be supper and dancing following the show.

Gun Bought Grant

By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Framed by his enemy, Santee Bales, Sam Teacher, outlaw cowboy, shoots the bank robber dressed to resemble him. The governor agrees to give Sam $25,000 in addition to full pardon for all the crimes accredited to him if he will persuade obstinate Matt Drury to sell the railroad the right of way thru one of Drury's canyons. Sam gets a job on Drury's ranch and has a run-in with his worthless son Steve and his pretty but spoiled daughter Celia. Instead of firing Sam, Drury takes his advice and gives Steve a small stake and sends him out on his own; and he tells Celia she has to run the house. Both Drury's children leave home in a huff, Celia getting a job in a restaurant. Steve gets into a crooked poker game with Bales and ends up the big loser, having to go into partnership with Bales. Bales persuades Steve to get the grant of the canyon property so he can make the governor pay them. Sam investigating the canyon, is captured by Bales and his men. They steal his gun, tie him up, and leave him. Sam manages to break loose, and when he reaches town he is arrested for the murder of Steve. The gun with Sam's initials is found near the murdered man. Matt is determined to hang Sam, but Pearly, Matt's foreman, convinced of Sam's innocence, resigns from his job. He buys a stable next door to the jail and digs Sam out. Pearly and Sam flee to the hills, but not before Sam locks the sheriff in jail. Sam and Pearly work out a scheme to outwit Bales. Sam daringly returns to town and locks the sheriff in jail the second time. While a posse is chasing Sam, Pearly gets some dynamite and tools and heads for the canyon. Bales takes the railroad man to the canyon to complete the right of way contract and finds the river's course has been changed. And the sale isn't made.

INSTALMENT XXIV.

ALL WET.

Santee thought of the legal end of it. If it could be proven in court that the old stream bed, wet or dry, was the Rio Medio, then he was safe. But what if the stream had changed its course? What if there was a Rio Medio that didn't flow thru this canyon? Then he'd have to find the water that should be flowing down this canyon.

He cut back to the stream, and started his curious journey up it. Early afternoon passed into late, and he was still following the ghost of a river. It hadn't happened long ago, this change, he could see, for the clay banks were still wet where they were shaded. He went on and on, his puzzlement growing stronger. It gave him an uneasy feeling, one that he could not satisfactorily explain. It was as if he had revisited a town he was familiar with, only to find a green prairie where the hotel had stood; and the ashes of a tiny campfire and rusty tomato can the only clews that there had once been a single soul there.

It was dusk and the canyon was in deep shadow when he rounded a bend where the canyon shouldered into the mountain range. He pulled up his horse with a yank that hurt its mouth and looked ahead of him.

There was a wall there, a solid wall of rubble and clay and stone that cut across the breadth of the canyon and dammed it. He considered this for a full minute. Yes, it was a dam all right, but water piles up behind a dam until it spills over. He dismounted, his face scowling, and scaled the rubble face. On top, he could see that the dam was thick. He walked the hundred feet of its loose dirt top until he came to its other edge.

And then everything was explained. This dam was diverting the water to the right, thru a raw cut in the ridge that divided the old stream bed from its new one, a canyon that angled off toward the east. Santee stood there looking at it in amazement.

"Dynamite did it, Santee," a voice drawled from behind him. Santee whirled to see Sam Teacher on the embankment behind him. Even while he was looking a second man climbed the embankment and stood beside Sam.

"O," Santee said in a weak voice.

"O."

"Like it, Santee?" Sam jibed.

Santee tried to laugh. "I can fix that, Sam. I can get dynamite, too."

Sam laughed now, clear and soft in the twilight. "There's just three reasons why you won't do that, Santee. First one is, this ain't your land. The second is, I've already warned Drury to send guards up here tonight to see you don't. The third is—you won't live to fix anything." He paused. "Your'e a dead bushwhacker, Santee."

Santee judged the distance to Sam. It was about thirty yards. Sam didn't have a gun in his hand, and neither did his companion. But Sam could get a gun in his hand quicker than a man could wink. At Santee's back was the stream. Here, crowded into this narrow canyon, it was swift and deep and boiling. All this he saw and thought of it in a split second, and he felt the hair on the back of his neck rise. This was it—and he was afraid.

"Wait a minute, Sam," Santee pleaded.

"Only till you go for your gun."

"We can——"

"Talk, sure. Only I don't want any. This was a promise, Santee. Remember? The only reason you didn't gulch me when you had me there in the rincon was because you needed somebody to lay that murder on. I don't need you to saddle a murder on, fella'. Now cut loose your dogs, or I'll do it myself."

Santee, knowing that the first move he made for his gun would be suicide, took the only way out. He pushed himself backwards toward the stream. Even as he was falling—and it seemed to him like the slow, slanting cruise thru the air of a falling leaf—he saw Sam's hand whip down, up, and saw it explode hip-high. He was parallel with the top of the water as he felt something claw across his chest, and then he hit the water. He turned, diving, and felt his gun slip out of its holster. The water was hurling him along, and he put out his hands to keep his head from being bashed to pieces.

When he thought his lungs were going to burst, he came to the surface, gulped, and dived again. The current had taken him far down stream now. But he stayed under a second time, and a third and fourth and fifth. When it was fully dark, miles down the stream, he pulled into the bank and clung to a piñon branch. He was shivering now, but not with cold, for the night was warm. He knew as well as he knew that the sun would rise tomorrow that Sam Teacher would be on his trail at daylight.

He pulled himself out of the stream and then examined his wound. Sam's aim, as always, was faultless. What had saved Santee was that he was falling backwards, and was almost parallel with the trajectory of Sam's bullet when it hit him. It had hit his lowest rib and been deflected up thru the skin of his chest. It smarted a little, but that was all. He wrung out his clothes, threw his coat and shell-belt into the stream and then crawled up the bank. He would have to travel all night, and cloud his back trail like he had never done before.

All thru that night he kept on walking, working his way toward Trabajo. When the sun came up he was far west along the Rim. In bare feet that were not yet bleeding he had traveled miles and miles of rock. He picked out a thick cedar, climbed into the highest branch that would hold him—which was only a few feet off the ground—and waited. He did not sleep that whole day. When darkness came again, he found a trail down the Rim, and kept on to Trabajo.

At daylight he walked into the town, footsore and exhausted."

Of the clerk at the hotel desk, he asked: "Is Colver gone?"

The clerk said yes and stared at Santee, who smiled sardonically and bitterly, too tired to curse.

Santee dragged himself up the stairs to his room and sat on the bed. He was exhausted and wanted to sleep, but he was so hungry that his stomach, 36 hours without food, sawed and coiled and ached. He washed and dressed and went downstairs again.

"Where can I eat at this hour?" he asked.

Santee went out and turned down the side street that ran off the northwest corner of the plaza. His gaze roved the street constantly, for even if he was fairly certain that Sam Teacher wouldn't have the nerve to follow him into town, he couldn't be sure.

Only when he stepped into the empty Gem Café did he relax a little. He took a stool at the counter, and Celia came up to him for his order. Without looking at her he ordered steak and coffee and pie and when it came he wolfed it down while he waited for the second order of the same.

Celia, who by now was used to a cowpuncher's appetite, watched him covertly and with amazement. When he was finished, Santee pulled out a cigar and lighted it and only then looked about him. Since there was a pretty girl within sight, Celia was the first thing he saw. He had his mouth open to speak to her when his brow wrinkled and he stared at her.

"Haven't I seen you somewhere before, Miss?" he asked.

Celia was used to this approach. She said, "Sure, I'm the girl of your dreams," and went right on clearing away the dishes. Santee, however, did not laugh, and he kept staring at her in a way that made her uncomfortable.

Double-Jack came out of the kitchen, wiping his hands on his apron. Without having to ask any questions, he paused in front of Santee and put both hands on the counter. "Mister, she won't go out with you. She don't like jewels and she don't want to see St. Louis. Her name is Celia Drury and she don't give a damn what yours is, so pay your bill and have the damn kindness to peddle that whiskey-drummer talk somewhere else."

Santee smiled. "Celia Drury. That's it. I wasn't talking for nothing, and I knew it."

Teachers College Students Outrank 39 Other Schools

Students at the Chicago Teachers college, which trains instructors for the city public schools, ranked higher in tests than those at 39 other similar institutions thruout the country, according to a survey made public yesterday by the Teachers College Personnel association.

The tests were given in two sets—one dealing with science, social science, and English, and the other measuring intelligence and learning ability by psychological methods. The students at the Chicago Teachers college led in both classifications.

Of the freshmen who entered the college last September, 85 per cent were found to be more capable than the average prospective teacher in the United States.

* On the House *

We've come quite a way since we put shutters on our houses so we could close them against attack by night! . . . Or since we painted them with the heads of kings, like a certain artist, John Watson, who came to New Jersey from Scotland about 1715 and bedecked his shutters in lively fashion. . . . But we continue to make our shutters the logical spot on which to apply color for contrast. . . . And bright green is still one of the most popular colors, with dark green, red, and blue green close on its heels.

A luncheon and bridge party will be held today at the Chicago College club. Playing will start at 2 o'clock.

NEW DELICACIES ON THE MARKET:

1. Ready-to-bake cookie dough. We tested the six varieties of this product some time ago, but had to wait to pass on the good news that it's now available in Chicago and Evanston. You buy the dough in handy packages, keep it in the refrigerator, and slice it off to bake whenever you need cookies.

These cookies have real buttery, homemade flavor, too. There is a plain butter cookie dough which may be sliced or rolled out for sugar cookies. And there are chocolate, nut, and other doughs equally good.

2. A liquid meat extract to make quick consommés and flavor soups and gravies. This is an excellent product and has many uses in the average kitchen.

3. Tiny drops of semi-sweet chocolate. These make such good nibbling that you may forget to use them in those chocolate "chunk" cookies, cakes, puddings, and ice creams. They save the bother of cutting up chocolate for use in recipes.

4. Whole pheasant in aspic. The three pound can costs you $4. Heating is the only requirement, altho you may stuff the bird with wild rice or another dressing, if you like. Definitely in the luxury class, this fancy product is available in a loop store.

ON THE SUBJECT OF SMELTS: These tiny silver fish are available now, but will be more abundant after April 10 when the season really gets under way. Smelts are easy to prepare and have a delicious flavor.

Some folks like them fried crisp and eat bones and all. It takes three or four to make a good serving.

Here's how to cook them: Roll them in a mixture of flour and cornmeal and fry in a mixture of butter and vegetable shortening until golden brown and crisp. Season with salt and pepper. Or roll in flour and cornmeal, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and bake in a shallow pan covered with strips of bacon.

TRY THESE VEGETABLE COMBINATIONS: Spinach with corn; peas and onions; asparagus and tomatoes; tomatoes and corn; creamed broccoli and celery; cucumbers or summer squash with tomatoes.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

The rule of eight is a valuable aid in the bidding of a hand. By its use a player can sometimes determine, by the bidding of the opponents, that his partner's hand is an absolute Yarborough.

Had West applied that rule in today's hand he would not have been so anxious to double for penalties and thus destroy his chance of defeating the contract.

SOUTH
♠ A Q 9 8 2

♣ 8 7 3

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass

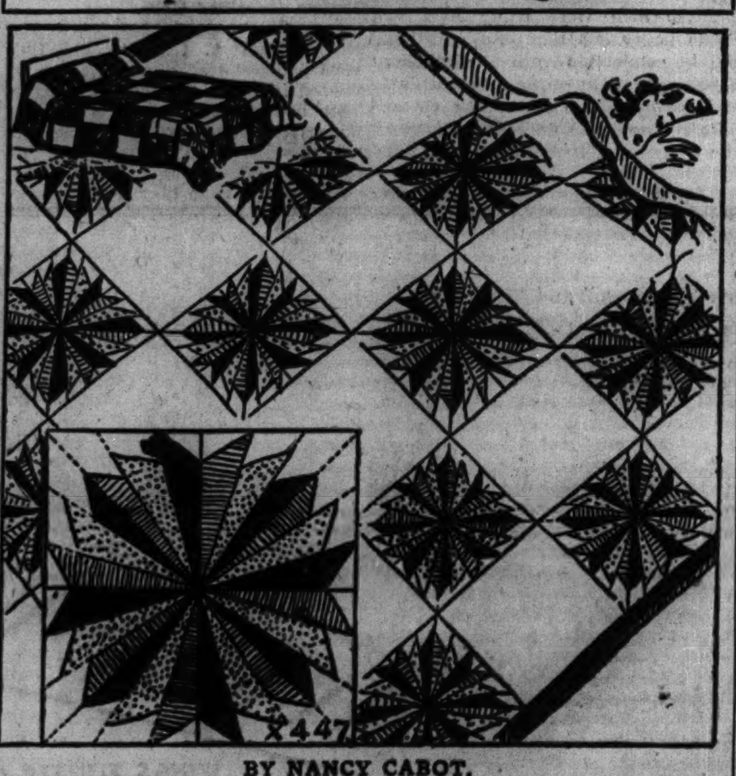
From the beginning West's policy in the bidding was to lie low until the opponents got beyond their depth. It was all right for him to lie low, since otherwise he would have been headed for a fall, but from the strength of the adverse bidding he should have been warned to apply the rule of eight.

The rule states that in any deal the count of honor tricks varies from eight to nine, and is generally about eight and one-half. South had made an opening bid showing two and one-half or three honor tricks; West had three and one-half, and North's two no trump response showed at least two and one-half. This left exactly nothing for East to hold, and before doubling West should have considered carefully what tricks he was going to win with an absolute bust in his partner's hand.

West opened the king of clubs and dummy won with the ace. The double warned declarer against a trump finesse, and so he considered ways and means of getting West into a trump end-play.

The king and ace of diamonds were cashed and a round of diamonds ruffed. This sequence of plays was followed by two high hearts and a heart ruff. Then the last diamond was led from dummy. When East showed out South was confident that he would make the hand. He ruffed and led a club. West won and led a third round of clubs and, since East had discarded a club on the last diamond, he was able to ruff this and lead a trump. But South merely ducked and West was obliged to win and lead away from his king of trumps to give declarer his contract.

Popular "Sunburst" Quilt



BY NANCY CABOT.

The "Sunburst" quilt pattern was a favorite in grandmother's day and still rates as successfully today. It is universally admired because of the ease and simplicity with which it is patched. The quilt includes pieced and plain blocks set together in an alternate arrangement. The pattern contains exact pattern pieces, diagram for assembling, a layout block and suggested color schemes.

For the pattern of the "Sunburst" quilt, No. X-447, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Front Views and Profiles

When the telephone at a neighborhood theater rang, a woman on the wire wanted to know what that evening's attraction was.

"The first feature is So-and-So, the second feature is Thus-and Thus, and the third feature is . . ." said the attendant.

"I know all that," interrupted the woman, "but what dish are you giving away?"

"Remembrance of Things Past."

We share with you another of Chicagoan Sam Steward's charming descriptions of days in France in the company of Gertrude Stein:

"The day, for instance, all blue, and gold, and white, when we left in the morning to drive to Geneva to see the Spanish pictures from the Prado. And on a hill just outside the city we drove up a charming little lane with poplars lining the sides and stopped to eat our lunch in a field. The dogs got out—the shy new poodle, Basket II. (the first swallowed a thermometer and died) and the little lecherous Mexican Chihuahua, Pepe—and barked wildly. Then, sitting on the grass, we ate our lunch; ripe yellow tomatoes from Gertrude's own garden, which she had hoed and tended herself, and rice with a special oil sauce on it and a plump young chicken which Alice had steamed over white wine—really Theocritan and idyllic (they like to eat well and live simply). And so on to town and one of the most exciting of all afternoons among the El Grecos and the other treasures sent there from Spain, and Gertrude talking excitedly about them.

"One day we drove to Vieu to see an old Roman column standing lonely in a field overlooking a broad valley. Gertrude posed beside it, solid and substantial. And then we drove further and finally came to Artémare, where there is a restaurant known all over the valley of the Rhone. It was late when we stopped; night had come and the stars were blazing as they do in Ain. We drove in and parked the car under some trees, and rather wearily climbed to the porch to sit at a table under a roof of trees and smell honeysuckle in the quiet air. No one said anything for a moment; then Alice, with obviously an effort, drew herself together and spoke. "We are just like a French family tonight," she said. "We are full of fatigue and our minds are empty. We come in and sit down at the table and sigh once in a while. Then the food comes in. We take one bite—and scream thru the rest of the meal!" And so we did, for Mme. la Veuve Chabert had prepared her best dishes for her grande amie Américaine—a special paté de la maison, small scarlet crayfish with a piquant sauce, tomatoes in oil, partridge, thin wisps of fried potatoes, and a bottle of superb vin blanc, and finished with wild raspberries her son had picked upon the hills that afternoon, and baked apples, and sponge cake—a fine provincial French meal."

Overheard.

(Apropos of "the game.")

"If any one had ever told me I would be acting out 'Hell,' said the duchess, "in front of Philip Merivale and Clifton Webb . . ."

Roses Bloom at Navy Pier's Garden Show

BY BETTY BROWNING.

The 14th annual Flower show opens at 2 o'clock today at Navy pier. It is everybody's show. The brilliant pictorial effects of other years are there, but more significant are the dozens of small gardens which might offer suggestions to almost any suburban garden lover. There are flower arrangements galore to interest both city and country dwellers and the tables for all occasions are back again by popular demand.

"We wanted it to be a show with something for every one," explained Mrs. George Plamondon of Wheaton, president of the Garden Club of Illinois, which annually sponsors the show.

A visit to the pier yesterday revealed how well the women have succeeded. Garden club members dressed in overalls and ski pants, galoshes, and bandannas were clipping hedges, digging, planting, spreading gravel, washing bricks, then muddying them to achieve realism.

This year the show is southern colonial in feeling, but no attempt has been made to adhere to rigid period lines. Only the Georgian house, thru whose triple arches one enters the show, is pure in design. The half dozen other houses and gardens all are practical adaptions suitable for the average home.

The perfection of detail which has distinguished more exotic exhibits in other years is just as noteworthy in these simpler gardens. For example, the Winnetka Garden club sent back almost an entire planting for its kitchen garden at the last moment because it was not quite right, and Mrs. Ezra Taylor's strawberry barrel was planted weeks ahead to produce berries on the plants for the show.

There are more exhibits than ever this year. Ninety clubs, the largest number yet to enter a show, are represented.

And as Earle Blair, landscape architect for the show, pointed out, the exhibits harmonize better than ever before. As many as 11 clubs have coöperated on a single house and garden, each doing a section, yet they have managed to coördinate their efforts into a wellnigh perfect whole.

For all its practical side the show has its glamor. Millions of azalea and rhododendron blossoms blazing under overhanging Spanish moss line the approach to the Georgian entrance. The cost of this exhibit to the Chicago park district in materials alone was more than $50,000.

At the other end of the mile of exhibits the Allied Florists' Association of Illinois has a display that Laurent C. Clody, secretary, estimated will cost the exhibitors at least $150,000. Here "Thornless Beauty," the first rose to have no thorns, will make its Chicago debut along with several other roses, carnations, azaleas, and a yellowish white "Creole" lily never before seen in Chicago.

Good news to hostesses planning dinners before the show is the new closing hour, 10:30 p. m. Beginning tomorrow until its closing Sunday, April 7, the show will be open daily from 10:30 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. A restaurant will be open continuously, and programs of interest to garden lovers will be presented daily.

For the first time camera fans are being invited to use their cameras freely during the morning hours. The Allied Florists are offering prizes of $25, $15, and $10 for the best photographs taken in their display.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Jeanette MacDonald, whose flashing smile and soprano voice are known wherever there are movie screens to project them, faced her first Chicago recital audience last night. Instead of the flowery bowers which west coast studios are wont to supply, she had for background only Orchestra hall's autere walls. Instead of a Nelson Eddy to whisper love's secrets to she had for support only her businesslike looking accompanist, Giuseppe Bamboschek.

But with or without props Jeanette MacDonald is Jeanette MacDonald, and a packed house greeted her breathlessly and wore out its palms with applause. The soprano's liquid eyes looked her thanks, and she rewarded her audience with several extra songs and dozens of winsome smiles.

Capably she made her way thru a program which included folk music, operatic airs, and a miscellany of lyric songs. She got down as far as "Little Gray Home in the West," up as high as Schumann's "Du Bist wie eine Blume."

To all of this music Miss MacDonald brought the conscientious aliveness which is one of her most important endowments. She climbed right into her songs and tried to live them, becoming for the moment the "I" of their words. It was she, and not the poet, who seemed to yearn for the little gray home in the west or, at another time, for her old Kentucky home.

In cases where a mere identification of the song with the singer might conceivably not suffice Miss MacDonald stood ready with every device of showmanship at her command. There were vivid voice colorings, arresting pieces of phrasing.

Miss MacDonald displayed last evening a fair basic voice quality, a highly skilled method of production, and great vocal agility. Her sense of style, considering the variety of music with which she dealt, was certainly very creditable. She quite surprised the doubters by the authority of her performance of the "Jewel Song" from "Faust."

There are old fogies, of course, who would like to hear folk songs and other such unassuming music done with utter simplicity and without a hint of supersalesmanship. But what the heck! This is the 20th century! Yippee!

Not a day to get excited about so stick to routine and attend to little duties.

Those born on the 3d, 12th, 21st or 30th are considered fortunate, for three is the number of personality and expression. Their work should bring them before the public. This year is not their most fortunate year, however, and they may find it difficult to mark time after a splendid start last year. They should be patient, for next year will bring greater opportunity to make a wider appeal, and the response to their efforts will be much more enthusiastic.

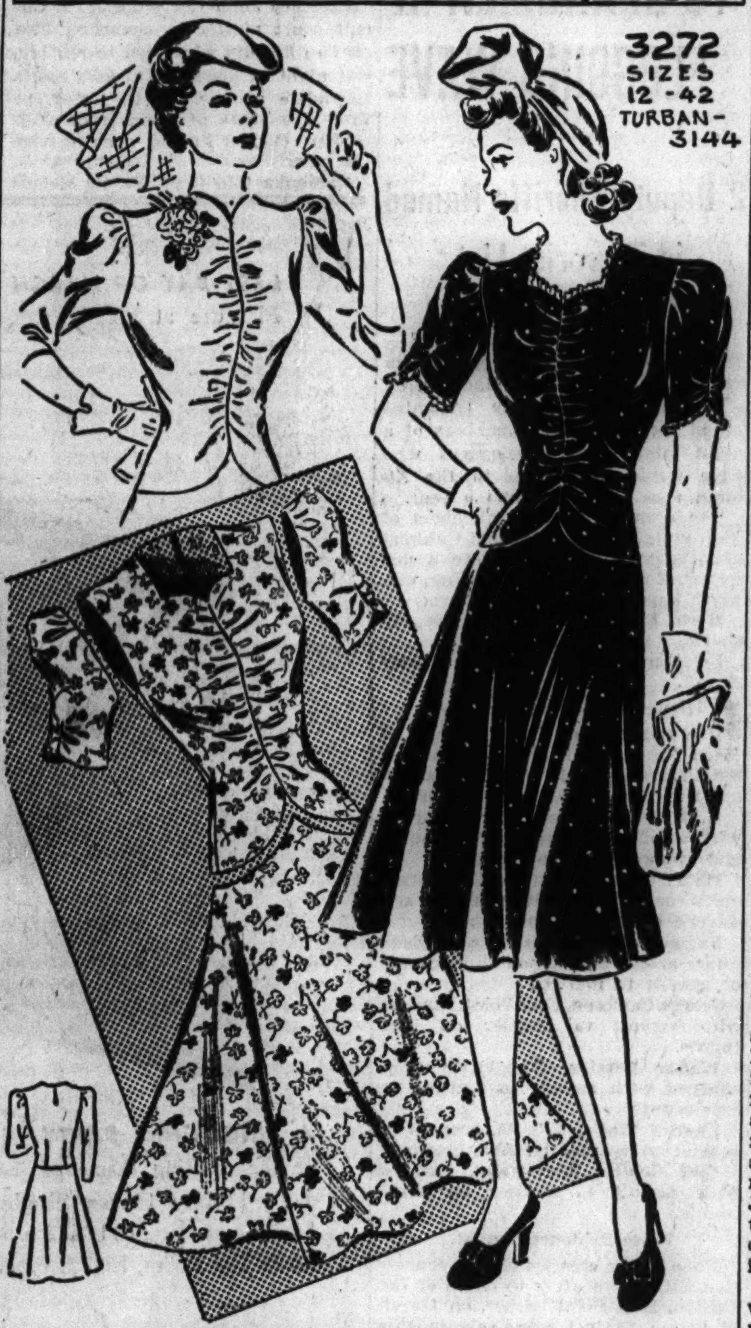
Soft and Feminine Styling



WOMAN'S AND MISS' SPRING FROCK.

Deft shirrings lend softness and femininity to this spring frock. More of the fullness gives grace to the sleeves. The neckline is variously styled, for it may be heart shaped or a high V, plain, or trimming with plaiting, lace, or ruffling. The waistline is low and dips in peplum effect. Below it the skirt is widely flared.

You probably will want a soft turban to keep this dress company. It may be of the print or plain color fabric which makes the dress, but it also may contrast. The pattern for it is No. 3144, available for 10 cents extra.

Style No. 3272 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material for short sleeved dress, with 1½ yards of lace edging.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Good Morning!

Booth Tarkington's delightfully understanding story of adolescents has been made into a delightful picture. "But DEF-i-nitely!"—as Miss Lola Pratt, the supersophisticated 16 year old visitor from New York, who turns Willie Baxter, the contented woman hater, into a romanticist who is just plain problem boy to his parents, would say.

The story, backgrounded by a small Indiana town inhabited by good roast-beef-medium Americans, unreels casually and amusingly, retaining the warmly sympathetic atmosphere of the original opus.

Jackie Cooper was a happy choice as the 17 year old hero whose commonplace existence is made to do such surprising somersaults by the advent of the urban and dreamy orbed Pratt minx. Betty Field is very, very clever as Lola. Do you know, she looks enough like lovely Marguerite Snow of the "silents" to BE "Pretty Peggy" as the fans once called Miss Snow.

Lola s ijust too-too herself and everything to her is just too-too. "Too-TOO divine. TOO-too marvelous. . . ." Her expert eyework, delicious eccentricities of speech, and woman of the world air fairly slay the callow youths of the town, who make themselves and their parents miserable in their hectic efforts to do the right thing by Miss Pratt and her itty bitty doggie, Floppet. . . . Willie, as chosen cavalier, suffers most. . . .

Normal Nelson is an intriguing chit as the hero's observant and callous kid sister. . . . Ann Shoemaker and Otto Kruger portray the elder Baxters pleasingly. . . . Direction was apt and settings and photography are excellent.

There's a gros grain ribbon head band that makes them fit and there's no law against sliding a long feather thru the wide meshes for additional individuality.

New lingerie hats are made, or can be made of eyelet embroidery, yards and yards of the crisp white stuff, gathered like many ruffles to make these spanking white top knots. A pair of clever hands can almost make them in a few hours. Wear them with an airy mist of colored veiling and anchor them with white linen tape to complete the lingerie gesture.

You can buy white posies in bunches that will glimmer in the dark. They're painted with a phosphorescent mixture that makes them luminous. These can be made into flowered hats, if you wish, or you may wear them as is, tucked casually in your front curls. Ideal extras for summer nights without a moon.

Chest lapel covers for coat or suit or coat dress are made of white piqué or of sheer organdies with wide hems of piqé or the stunning eyelet embroidery in small, precise, or effective outsize cutout designs. Some new arrivals have colored pipings and a piqué flower attached to one of the lapels; the flower also edged with the same color. Red, blue, and black edgings are available.

The best white jacket-blouse top find of the week is a swanky affair of fine waffle weave piqué. The turnover lapel and hip pockets are eye catchers . . . because they're made of open or cutout sections of the pique in quarter size circles.

BROWDER APPEAL IS ATTACKED BY U. S. PROSECUTOR

Red Leader Still Free on $7,500 Bail.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—A brief attacking the appeal of Earl Browder, general secretary of the communist party in the United States, from his conviction for passport fraud was filed today with the United States Circuit Court of Appeals by United States Attorney John T. Cahill.

Browder's contention in his appeal was that he engaged in no wilful fraud.

"This court," the prosecutor said in opposing the appeal, "is asked to set aside the verdict of a jury and attribute honest intent to a man who had, at the same time, two passports—the one in the name of Albert Henry Richards, born in Oshkosh, Wis.; the other in the name of Earl Russell Browder, born in Wichita, Kas., each bearing appellant's picture."

Concedes Part of Argument.

Cahill partly conceded the communist leader's argument that he gained nothing by posing as Richards because, as an American citizen, he could not have been excluded or deported on his return to the United States from trips abroad in 1937 and 1938.

"But that fact," said Cahill, "does not render him immune from prosecution if he seeks to reënter by means of fraudulent documents."

No date has yet been set by the court for hearing on Browder's appeal motion.

Browder was found guilty on Jan. 22 of using a passport obtained by fraudulent statements. He immediately was sentenced to four years in prison and fined $2,000 by Federal Judge Alfred C. Coxe. He since has remained free on bail of $7,500, and filed notice of appeal the day after his conviction.

Cite Red for Contempt.

Washington, D. C., March 29 (AP).—The house directed today that James H. Dolsen, Pittsburgh communist leader, be cited for contempt of the house for refusal to answer questions of the Dies committee on un-American activities.

One of the questions Dolsen declined to answer at a committee hearing last Monday regarded the identity of the person responsible for the issuance of a communist party card bearing the name "Franklin D. Roosevelt." A card inscribed with that name was found in Dolsen's possession when a subpena was served on him by a committee investiagtor.

The resolution said that in view of the wilful and deliberate refusal of Dolsen to answer specified questions, the committee had been deprived of important information. It asked that the speaker refer the matter to the federal district attorney here so that Dolsen may be proceeded against according to law.

Another Red Defies Dies.

Albert E. Blumberg, a communist party official of Baltimore, Md., who appeared before the Dies committee in response to a subpena issued by Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.], today steadfastly refused to answer a series of questions about records seized in a raid on the party's office. Dies said he would submit the matter to the committee for action. He said he favored a contempt citation.

Blumberg refused to answer committee questions about the records on the ground that the seizure was "unlawful and unconstitutional." He also refused to answer questions about the party affiliation or activity of any individual, contending such questions were designed to provide a "black list" for purposes of "intimidation." Neither would he answer directly a question as to whether he would support America if it became involved in a war against Russia.

Earlier Blumberg's wife, Dorothy, testified that she had joined the communist party in December, 1939, and that her husband had been secretary of the Maryland branch since that year. She denied any knowledge of the material in the seized records.

The District of Columbia grand jury refused today to take any action on charges that David Mayne forged the "Pelley letters" which linked Chairman Dies with the Silver Shirt legion.

HEADHUNTERS JUST SAY HELLO, TALK NO PEACE

PANTABANGAN, P. I., March 29 (AP).—Pagan headhunters extended a cordial hand to provincial and constabulary officials today, then scuttled the peace conference to which they had been coaxed from primitive haunts by promises of food and gifts. Suspicion of their Christian brothers, it was believed, proved stronger than the lure of food and trinkets.

GEORGIA INDICTS 10 KLANSMEN IN FLOGGING WAVE

2 Deputy Sheriffs Named in Terrorist List.

Atlanta, Ga., March 29 [Special].—Ten Ku Klux Klansmen, two of whom are deputy sheriffs, were indicted by a special Fulton county [Atlanta] grand jury tonight as members of a night-riding band of floggers who have terrorized persons in the Atlanta area for more than a year.

The accused men are members of klan units in East Point and Oakland City, Atlanta suburbs, where a majority of some thirty whipping outrages have occurred. They are:

Deputy's Nephew Included.

H. J. Cauthon, East Point, charged with assault to murder on 15 counts and kidnaping on one count.

W. T. Walton, East Point, accused on 10 counts of assault to murder and on one count of kidnaping.

More Evidence Sought.

None of the charges was in connection with the beating to death of Ike Gaston, East Point barber, on March 2. Action against principals in this case, as in others with which Solicitor General John A. Boykin, his assistant, Daniel Duke, and the grand jury had toiled for weeks, was deferred until further evidence could be assembled.

A party given on the night of Gaston's death by one of those indicted was carefully sifted as having been planned as an alibi for the participants.

Bail of $10,000 was required for those accused in multiple instances, and of $5,000 for lesser alleged offenders.

LIGGETT WIDOW ASKS RECEIVER FOR RED PAPER

New York, March 29 [Special].—Mrs. Edith Liggett, widow of Walter K. Liggett, former editor of the Northwest American of Minneapolis, today asked Supreme court Justice Peter M. Daly of Brooklyn to appoint a receiver for the Daily Worker, communist newspaper, against which she has a libel judgment for $2,672. Justice Daly reserved decision.

Mrs. Liggett accused Earl Browder and other communist party leaders of conspiring to defraud her of her judgment. She obtained the judgment in Supreme court, Brooklyn, last May 23, and filed a judgment creditors' action in that court last August. The Daily Worker has not yet paid anything to Mrs. Liggett. Browder is now at liberty pending an appeal from his conviction for passport frauds.

Mrs. Liggett asked the court to restrain the defendants from disposing of any of the paper's assets, requested a bond of $10,000 be posted, and demanded $5,000 in fees for her attorney, Morris D. Forkosch.

JOHN CERVENKA, CHANCERY AID, ROUTS 2 BANDITS

Attorney John Cervenka Jr., a Circuit court master in chancery, beat off two bandits who tried to rob him last night in his home at 2438 South Lawndale avenue. As they fled, he fired five shots at them from a .32 caliber revolver he had wrested from the pair.

Cervenka told Capt. Frank Malone of the Lawndale police that he was alone at home about 9 o'clock when the phone rang. "I'm a friend of Sonny's," said a voice. "I want to see you." Believing "Sonny" referred to Ald. Henry Sonnenschein [22d], Cervenka told the caller to come over.

Answering the door bell Cervenka was confronted by two men, one with the pistol. Instead of retreating into the house as ordered, he grappled with them and wrestled them down the porch steps to the sidewalk where he got the gun. One robber fled in an automobile and the other on foot.

THREE SUSPECTS HELD FOR QUIZ IN BAKERY ROBBERY

Three men were being held by Pekin police last night for questioning in connection with the robbery Wednesday night of the National Baking company, 325 East 26th street. Two robbers held up James Glyman, the owner, and took $750 in cash and $500 in checks.

The prisoners are Paul Labriola, also known as Paul Mangano, 23 years old, 710 North Ridgeway avenue; Martin Ochs, 27, of 5921 Irving Park road, and Anthony Lavrino, 35, of 4651 Adams street. Police said Glyman identified Ochs.

According to police, Labriola is the son of Paul A. Labriola, old 19th ward political leader, who was assassinated in 1921. His mother, Lucille, later became the wife of Lawrence [Dago] Mangano, former Capone lieutenant. She sued Mangano for divorce in 1935. Young Labriola, Ochs, and Lavrino said they were clerks.

SPORTS IDEALS CITED AS WAY TO EUROPEAN PEACE

SWEDISH EDITOR LAUDS ROLE OF GOLDEN GLOVES

Soderlund Praises Chicago Bouts.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD THE VULCANIA, March 29.—Oscar Soderlund, veteran Swedish editor, sports writer and war correspondent, believes that the peace which Europe seeks will be found only by applying the principles underlying athletic competition such as international Golden Gloves matches.

Soderlund, who is also president of the International Boxing federation, is acompanying Europe's champions to Chicago, where they will meet that city's Golden Gloves team on April 10. He made the above statement this afternoon during a discussion of the influence of athletics on the political, military, and cultural lives of nations.

An Example: Finns vs. Russians.

When war comes despite attempts to apply the principles of sportsmanship, a nation with highly developed athletics has a better chance to take care of itself, Soderlund believes. In support of this statement he offered the example of the Finns in their struggle against the Russians.

He is convinced that it is the duty of the peaceful nations to carry on as the last strongholds of these principles, preserving them until better days arrive.

Soderlund brings many years of experience and observation to his study of present day world affairs. He was a war correspondent on the western front in 1916 and when Russia launched its invasion of Finland he returned to that field of work.

Entirely a Matter of Principle.

"The answer to the peace every one seeks is to be found only in the principles underlying athletic competition such as international Golden Gloves matches," he said. "We neutrals are thankful that there are enough of us left to preserve this competition and the things for which it stands. We are deeply indebted to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for giving us the opportunity to assist in their preservation. Winning or losing matches is immaterial. Our participation is solely a matter of principle. I would have urged the federation to accept THE TRIBUNE's invitation if we had been able to send only eight bright novices. Fortunately, we have a better team than last year and have an excellent chance of winning.

"Victory's only importance will be that more European attention will be attracted to our trip, thereby widening the influence of this event."

Pioneer of Boxing in Sweden.

Soderlund was one of the pioneers of Swedish boxing. In 1919 he founded the Swedish Amateur Boxing association and since then he has judged matches in 16 countries. When he was a boy, he took an active part in athletics and he never has allowed his interest in sports to lag despite the exacting nature of much of his newspaper activities.

Most of his work in the world war was with the British and French troops, but he was with the Italians when the armistice was signed. During the Finnish war he was north of Lake Ladoga and at Viipuri and Riihimaki. He was present during a Russian air raid in which he counted 57 planes.

Hockert Is Outstanding.

"The Finnish war provided most convincing evidence of the benefit of athletics," he said. "What the Finns did was amazing. Their athletics had given them rare qualities of leadership and endurance. Personal qualities constituted the main difference between the Finns and the Russians. The Russians had all the arms and machines but the Finns had the stamina and the leadership and the spirit characteristic of champions.

"Gunning Hocket, 5,000 meter champion in the last Olympics, was one of the many examples. He was one of the outstanding soldiers before he was killed."

Winter furs, tingling ear,

Snow and hail, wind and sleet,
Silk clad feet peeking thru
Little windows in toeless shoe;
Gliding skaters in endless troop,
Most of them with monkey stoop;

As tho plucked in woodland bower;
I dod a gold in by ed,
Ef you doe wad I zeü,
Iceberg air piercing lung—
Can it be that spring has sprung?

KREEVICH SHOWS SOX HOW TO BEAT CUBS (7-6 IN 10TH)

Hits Two Homers, Triple; Drives In Five Runs.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tucson, Ariz., March 29.—The activities of Mike Kreevich, by his own admission a miserable spring hitter, today came to the rescue of the White Sox, who were beginning to feel more than slightly peeved over the fashion in which the Cubs have been kicking them around. Mike's bat piled up a big lead which the Cubs melted into a tie in the ninth, so the little outfielder went back to work in the tenth and scored a run that gave the American leaguers a 7 to 6 decision in the seventh battle of the pre-season series. The Cubs now lead by 4 to 3.

Kreevich arranged for what looked like an easy victory by blasting both Claude Passeau and Julio Bonetti. Against the former he tripled in the first inning, this being one of three hits yielded by Passeau in five innings. Later on Kreevich tuned in with two homers off Bonetti, one of them with two on in the eighth to give the Sox a 6 to 2 edge. But a homer also was responsible for the loss of the big lead. Rip Russell hit it off Pete Appleton in the ninth with two out for the second pair of a cluster of four runs.

Kreevich Finishes the Job.

Tying the score apparently was such a surprise to the Cubs that they fell apart in the tenth. Rookie Clare Bertram was pitching by this time and the first to face him in the concluding inning was Kreevich. Mike singled past Bill Rogell. Julius Solters popped out, so Kreevich decided to break for second, a move which so surprised Rogell and Bobby Mattick that Clyde McCullough's throw got away, Kreevich going to third. He scored the winning run when Jimmy Webb singled past Stan Hack.

The Cubs had a lot of fun collecting base hits, but until the ninth gave positive signs of their old failing—not getting 'em when runs were

Another Short Evening's Work for Louis

RICE AND COACH LEAVE FOR MAKI RACE IN NEW YORK

Rice holds the world indoor two and three mile records, while Maki has turned in world record performances at both distances outdoors. It is predicted that Rice's recent world mark of 13:55.9 for three miles will be lowered.

Both of Maki's outdoor times are better than Rice's indoor records, but the former Irish star finished both of his record races with 60 second final quarters, indicating he can run a faster pace than he ran in establishing either mark.

HUTCHINS TELLS HARVARD CHIEF ABOUT GALAHAD

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, had a two sentence reply yesterday for William J. Bingham, Harvard athletic director who Thursday night criticized Chicago for dropping football and said "since he [Hutchins] has the physique of a Sir Galahad, he is convinced he speaks with authority."

"Sir Galahad was not particularly notable for his physique," Dr. Hutchins said in a formal statement. "His strength was as the strength of ten because his heart was pure."

Santa Fe Wins for 2d Time in Prep Meet

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

The citizens of old Santa Fe, N. M., this morning will tell their desert neighbors about the success of the St. Michael's team sent to Chicago to compete in the National Catholic basketball prep tournament. Late last night Santa Fe received reports of St. Michael's advance to the quarter-finals round by defeating St. Joseph of Denver, Colo., 41 to 22, in Loyola university gymnasium.

Two weeks ago the residents of Santa Fe decided to take up a collection to finance St. Michael's trip to Chicago. The supporters of the fast stepping quintet, which had won the New Mexico state championship, began to feed quarters, dimes and nickels into the kitty. The team also was given a huge gold trophy by the Coronado Cuarto Centennial commission and the players were to act as good will ambassadors for the celebration in the southwest.

Hiller Keeps It Up.

St. Michael's first accomplishment was to hand St. Francis of Owensboro, Ky., a 49 to 16 defeat on Thursday night. Buster Hiller, born in Kentucky, was the leader in St. Michael's victory with 24 points. Hiller, who paced St. Michael to 25 victories over Catholic and public schools in New Mexico, last night again broke loose against the Denver representatives, scoring three baskets and six free throws.

St. Michael's outstanding foes in the path toward the national title now include St. Philip and Leo of Chicago; Central Catholic of Fort Wayne, Ind., defending champion, and the St. Francis Indian team of South Dakota. St. Philip routed one Indian squad, Immaculate Conception of St. Stephen Mission, S. D., yesterday, 50 to 22. Fort Wayne, which meets St. Philip today, turned in a 42 to 30 triumph over Messmer High of Milwaukee, Wis.

Put on Two Thrillers.

Leo and the St. Francis Indians furnished two thrillers for the afternoon and evening crowds. Leo won in the final minute against Central Catholic of Pittsburgh, Pa., 27 to 25, in the afternoon, while St. Francis kept the evening spectators on edge with its last minute triumph over Campion academy of Prairie du Chien, Wis., 40 to 39.

Leo's opponent in the quarter finals will be Cretin High of St. Paul,

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—Johnny Paycheck, the tenth man to challenge the reign of Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, was knocked out tonight in 44 seconds of the second round of a scheduled 15 round battle.

That Paycheck lasted until the second round was due primarily to Louis' cautious attack. Even so, the challenger was floored three times in the first round. Each time Johnny took a nine-second count, and after the third knockdown, the bell saved him as he was holding on helplessly.

The attendance was 11,620 and the receipts of $62,481, a portion of which will be given to the Finnish relief fund, set a record low for a performance by Louis since he came east five years ago to meet Primo Carnera.

Only Two Stay the Limit.

Paycheck is the eighth knockout victim for the champion in 10 fights, only Tommy Farr, in 1937, and Arturo Godoy, last month, having stayed the championship course of 15 rounds with Joe. But tonight, despite the quick victory over Paycheck, there was slight excuse for cheering Louis, and Johnny scarcely deserved a loser's condolence.

Hundreds agreed that the men were mismatched. Even before the end of the first round a torrent of boos expressed the crowd's disapproval. And after Paycheck was knocked out by a short right to the jaw which dropped him unconscious flat on his back in a neutral corner, the throng booed him.

It Was a Clean Knockout.

In the first round Paycheck still had possession of his faculties after being knocked down. But the final lightning punch felled the challenger as if he had been struck with an ax. He landed on his back, his head thumping the floor.

Referee Arthur Donovan did not trouble to complete the count. He stooped over the fallen fighter, glanced once toward the timekeeper, and then waved to Paycheck's seconds to come into the ring.

The story of the first round was all Louis. Paychek struck only one blow in the entire fight, a short right landing solidly alongside the champion's jaw as Louis forced his opponent toward the ropes. The challenger's defense, if it can be called that, was a circling jittery dance just out of reach of Louis' light left leads. Paycheck jabbed as he danced but he was so far out of range that his maneuver was pitiably ineffective.

Joe Takes No Chances.

Louis fought calmly. He must have realized that Paycheck anticipated the worst, but the champion was as careful as if he himself were the challenger. He shuffled forward, pressing Paycheck toward the ropes, tapping him on the nose with light lefts. Then the champion suddenly crossed his right. The blow landed too high on Paycheck's head to end the fight, but Johnny went spinning to the floor sideways. At four he was on his knees and he listened carefully to the count, getting up at nine.

Louis backed away and seconds later broke thru John's guard with a crashing left hook that flopped the challenger on the seat of his pants. Again at nine he came to his feet.

For a third time the champion moved in. A flurry of gloves, the last a solid right hand punch, and Paycheck stumbled to his knees against the ropes. Johnny came up instinctively at nine, grabbed Louis, and held on. Joe waited for the referee to come between them and the delay sent the fight into the second round.

Then Came the Finish.

As the second opened the champion stalked Paycheck carefully, waiting for an opening. Finally, in a neutral corner, he stepped in for the kill, his right hand flashing to John's jaw.

In his dressing room after the fight Paycheck said he didn't recall anything after the first knockdown. Louis was completely unconcerned and only was willing to discuss the Detroit Tigers' baseball team. Louis wondered if Hank Greenberg will make good as an outfielder.

VACATION'S OVER; GOLDEN GLOVERS RETURN TO WORK

Start Boxing Drill Today for Europeans.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicagoland's Golden Gloves fighters gathered yesterday in the Illinois Athletic club to prepare for the last big battle of their campaign—the international matches with the champions of Europe, which will be held in the Stadium, April 10.

It was a confident and determined crew which reported to Coach Johnny Behr. Savior Canadeo, Cornelius Young, James Richie, Anthony Jones, and the others who won their recent intercity bouts faced their new task with a mixture of assurance and respect for their opponents.

Harold Dade, Roy Brown and the other boys who lost hairline decisions in New York, returned with a grim resolve to make things go differently this time. Tony Ancona, who was stopped by Ray Robinson in the intercity bouts, feels he learned a lot in his encounter with the best amateur lightweight to come up in recent years. Even though he was beaten, Tony showed a great fighting spirit.

Real Works Begins Today.

Fighters and coaches took the attitude that there is no time to waste in the preparation to stand off so powerful an invasion as Europe's champions are expected to launch. Accordingly gymnasium work began yesterday afternoon. The boys were taken to the Tony Zale-Ben Brown bout in the Stadium last night. They will be on the road early this morning, tuning up their wind with a jog around Grant Park. The first sparring sessions are scheduled this afternoon and there will be no letup in the intensive drills during the next week.

A brilliant rally to earn an 8 to 8 tie in the Intercity matches in New York demonstrated that this squad has plenty of fight. The boys showed they are capable of the task of getting America on top again in the international series. Since the make-up of the invading team was put on an all-European basis in 1937, each side has won once, the other meeting ending in a tie. Europe was the winner last year.

Europe's Team Seasoned.

The job will be particularly tough because several of the members of the European squad are veterans of international competition. The Chicago team's coaches have seen them in action before and have a good idea of what to expect. So there's no danger that the Chicagoans will be affected with overconfidence.

4 p. m.—Welker Cochran vs. Otto Reiselt.
8 p. m.—Joe Chamaco vs. Allen Hall.
9:30 p. m.—Jake Schaefer vs. Johnny Layton.

Willie Hoppe, the one-man show in the 11 man field in the world's three cushion billiards tournament, needs only two more victories to clinch the championship. His stooge in the Bensinger South Wabash avenue rooms last night was Tiff Denton of Kansas City, who lost, 50 to 45.

It was the New Yorker's 14th consecutive triumph and moved him a full five games ahead of Johnny Layton, in second place with 10 victories and six defeats. Layton can do no better than tie Hoppe by winning his four remaining matches while Willie loses his next six. Jay Bozeman, in third place with eight victories and five defeats, has a slightly better chance than Layton, if it could be called a chance. Hoppe does not play today.

Denton led Hoppe, 40 to 38, after 29 innings, but Hoppe ran six in his next stand, and added six more in his next five turns. Meantime Denton could get only five.

If the Bruins win, the deciding battle in the seven game series will be played in Boston Sunday.

Michigan and Yale Lead in N. C. A. A. Swim

New Haven, Conn., March 29 (AP).—Wayne university of Detroit, Mich., displaying a couple of big time swimmers in Guy Lumsden and Andy Clark, stole the show tonight as the two day national collegiate meet opened in Yale's natatorium.

Favored Michigan, defending champion, and Yale, each with 23 points, were tied for team honors at the end of the first day's program. Ohio State trailed by three points.

Three New Champions Crowned.

Three new champions were crowned, Lumsden, 50 yard sprint; Howard Johnson of Yale, 220 yard free style, and Michigan's 300 yard medley relay team, consisting of Francis Heydt and the brothers Sharmet, John and Gus. Successfully defending their titles were Hal Stanhope of Ohio State, 1500 meter; Al Vande Weghe, Princeton's brilliant 150 yard back-stroker and Al Patnik, Ohio State's low board diver.

Four records were shattered, with Stanhope accounting for three, intercollegiate meet and pool—in the long distance pull, and Lumsden in the 50.

Barker Is Beaten.

Lumsden captured the 50 yard free style title in a blanket finish, beating out Frank Scofield of the Army and Charley Barker of Michigan, the 1939 champion, and setting a new pool mark.

Johnson, finishing in 2:13.1, was two feet in front of Clark.

POINT SCORE: Yale, 23; Michigan, 23; Ohio State, 20; Princeton, 14; Wayne, 13; Army, 4; Southern California, 4; Harvard, 3; Kenyon, 2; North Central, 2; Brown, 1; Franklin and Marshall, 1.

Black Horse Squadron to Give Exhibition Tonight

The Chicago Black Horse squadron, which made its appearance in dress uniforms in 1929, will hold its 10th annual military exhibition and gymkhana in the new Artillery-Cavalry armory, East Chicago avenue at Seneca street, tonight. A feature will be a polo game between the Black Horse Troop and Culver Military academy, their ninth annual skirmish.

ZALE KNOCKS OUT BROWN IN THIRD; DAVEY DAY WINS

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Tony Zale, Golden Gloves graduate, lived up to his position as No. 3 middleweight contender by knocking out Ben Brown of Atlanta, Ga., in the third round of a scheduled 10 round bout in Chicago Stadium last night. Brown, fourth leading challenger, was Zale's 10th consecutive victim.

The echo of the bell starting the third round had not yet quieted down when Zale landed a left hook to the chin. Brown went down for a nine count, and appeared none the worse for his experience. He wasn't on his feet long, however, until Tony feinted a left jab and then hooked the same hand to the jaw. Brown again came up at the nine count. Zale then drove both hands to the head and again Brown dropped to the canvas where he remained while Referee Frank McAdams completed his count at 2 minutes 20 seconds of the round.

Zale weighed 159½ pounds and Brown 159¼. A crowd of 4,301 contributed a gross gate of $8,758.80. Net receipts were $7,299, a sum $3,201 less than Promoter Bill Rand needed to break even.

The spectators booed when Day was introduced as the No. 1 lightweight, but the hooting changed to cheers when Announcer William Kerwin gave Davey's weight at 134¼ pounds. It was the first time the Chicagoan has been under the division limit in two years.

HOOSIER MARCH MADNESS BOILS TO CLIMAX TODAY

Nearly 15,000 Will See Prep Basket Finals.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., March 29.—The Kentucky Derby? It's a form of headgear to Hammond Tech's basketball team. The world series? Little Lapel's quintet thinks it's a peace conference. The Army-Navy game? It's something you see in the news reels to Fort Wayne's South Side boys, and the citizens of Mitchell, Ind., regard the National open as part of a poker game.

Those are the immediate reactions tonight of the players and followers of the four teams who tomorrow will engage in the 29th annual Indiana High school basketball tournament, a show which once was defined as Hoosier hysterics or March madness. And a good handle it is, for the 14,883 pews in Butler university's fieldhouse have been sold for many a week.

The only expressions of regret heard in this city lately were those of the Indiana university five which went thru here en route to their N. C. A. A. final against the University of Kansas team in Kansas City. A lot of those Hoosiers got their start in this best of all prep basketball productions, and they're irked because they couldn't stay here to see the three battles which will be waged tomorrow.

North Trying Again.

First of those struggles in tomorrow afternoon's round would have been a surprise to the late Dr. James Naismith. Certainly the inventor of basketball never would have hung up that historic peach basket in the Springfield, Mass., Y. M. C. A. gym if he had known that he would produce such a contest as that between Hammond Tech and Lapel.

Hammond Tech is seeking to do something that no other five from the northeast corner of Indiana ever has done—win the state title. The northernmost former winner is Fort Wayne's South Side, victor in 1938, and one of the foursome of contenders in tomorrow's argument.

Hammond Tech has fought its way up to the big show from a boiler room gymnasium, beating Logansport, one of the state favorites, on its own floor in the all important semi-finals. Tomorrow afternoon in the second game, the Techs meet the Lapel Bulldogs, the little team from the little town, population 1,140, in Madison county.

Lapel Is Giant Killer.

Lapel is the giant killer of the final foursome, having won five of its final six games by one point. Hammond is reported to be sending down 2,000 of its citizenry for tomorrow's game, but they probably won't be able to match the Lapel contingent, for the Bulldogs have been made the people's choice in this final.

The second game tomorrow afternoon will decide the other team in tomorrow night's final. It will match Fort Wayne's South Side five against Mitchell. Mitchell, first candidate for a southern winner since 1933, when Martinsville scored, has a population of 3,226. Its Blue Jackets are the true dark horses of the tournament. They meet Fort Wayne's Archers, winners in 1938 and the favorites to score in tomorrow's games, if you listen to the basket-wise citizens of Indianapolis.

Kreevich Goes to Work.

The Sox really were violent for a few minutes in the first inning when they slipped the two run lambasting to Passeau. Kolloway opened the game with a fly to Nicholson and Kuhel opened the scoring business with a whistling single into left. Kreevich sent a liner into center and Galan couldn't head off the ball, so it rolled for a triple, Kuhel scoring. Then Solters bounced a double off the left field wall to score Kreevich.

Not having made a hit off Passeau since the first inning, the Sox naturally weren't displeased when he didn't show up in the sixth. But they were ready for Bonetti. The Coast league rookie got one batter out of the way whereupon Kreevich whacked his first homer over the left field fence.

Hack pried open the seventh with a single to center and it was this item that developed into the Cubs' second run. After Rogell had flied out Cavarretta walked, but was forced by Nicholson. Gleeson then caromed a single off Kuhel's glove and Hack scored.

The action with which the Sox enlivened the eighth began with Kolloway's double down the third base line. Kuhel bounced a single off Russell's chest. A moment later Kreevich blasted his second homer over the fence. This made the score 6 to 2.

All that Appleton had to do to avoid overtime was to retire one man in the ninth. He wasn't equal to the job. Hack led off with a single and was forced by Rogell. Cavarretta singled, Nicholson popped out, and Gleeson tripled, Rogell and Cavarretta scoring. Then Russell made amends for his three strikeouts by hammering the ball over the left field wall, tying the score.

Dog Fanciers (Who Is Not?) Await Show

BY BOB BECKER.

Purebred dogs representing the pick of scores of American kennels and valued at from $250,000 to $500,000, take the spotlight in Chicago as the International Kennel club show opens this morning in the International amphitheater at 11 o'clock. The show continues thru tomorrow evening with the judging of breeds, children's handling classes, obedience trials sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and performances by trained dogs providing a full program.

With 1,401 dogs of 80 breeds moving into the amphitheater this morning to compete for cash prizes, championship points, and trophies, this year's bench classic has brought together the largest number of outstanding show dogs Chicagoans have had an opportunity to see for many years. There are 128 champions in this year's show. Not only are the popular breeds heavily represented with 97 cocker spaniels, 71 Boston terriers, 65 dachshunde, and 59 Dobermann-Pinschers, but show visitors also will see some of the rarest breeds including the big white Great Pyrenees, diminutive Lhassa terriers, and the Hungarian Puli.

Tests Set New Record.

The obedience trials, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, have broken all American records for entries. This fact has been confirmed by the American Kennel club. Seventy trained dogs will compete in the trials, five more than previous record for a single show. Twelve breeds are entered in the novice A class, including some that rarely have been seen in Chicago obedience work. In this class a greyhound, a Sealyham terrier, and a Shetland sheepdog will be competing against Dobermanns, springers, and other larger breeds.

In the novice B class, to be judged tomorrow, spectators will see a little Pomeranian going thru the obedience routine against Boxers, Irish setters, and other breeds. Willy Necker is judging the novice A and open A obedience classes starting at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Chicago Stars Are Plentiful.

Chicago dogs which have been winning in recent shows are strongly represented in the show. Prominent among this city's exhibitors are C. J. Casselman and Thomas M. Halpin, whose collies, headed by Champion Hertzville Headstudy, have taken high honors; Harold M. Florsheim with airedales, Welsh terriers, and pointers; Mr. and Mrs. Orrin H. Baker, Kerry Blue terriers; Mrs. Janet Henneberry, springer spaniels; Paul Moser who has a big entry of American and English cocker spaniel champions, and Hulburd Johnston of Lake Forest, dachshunde.

Also listed from Chicagoland are chows to be shown by John Sweeney of Midlothian; airedales by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Peet of Glenview; German shepherds by Mrs. Michael Nickl; schipperkes by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Yates; Boston terriers by Charles P. Squire, P. J. Shannon, and Mrs. Edward Schultz; Irish terriers by T. B. Maginnis; Norwegian elkhounds by Robert P. Koenig, and boxers by Ruard Vanderploeg of Wayne. John P. Wagner of Milwaukee, owner of Utz, the boxer which was judged the best working dog at the Westminster show in New York, has entered this winner.

Betty Smith, 16, of 6246 Blackstone avenue, a student at Hyde Park High school, won the amateur judging contest, in which 25 boys and girls competed yesterday as an unofficial curtain raiser of the show. Her rewards were the C. Groverman Ellis trophy and a $30 cash prize. Betty will exhibit two chihuahuas at the show today.

ST. PAUL GIVEN 1941 A. B. C.; NEW DOUBLES LEADER

Detroit, Mich., March 29 (AP).—The American Bowling Congress tonight revised the prize list for the current and future tournaments and deferred until next year action on installation of electric eye foul detectors.

Delegates approved boosts making titles worth $1,500 in the five-man event and $600 in the doubles so that all championships, except in the all-events, would realize $300 for winners. First prize in the singles and all-events remained at $300 and $200, respectively. Heretofore the team title had been worth $1,000 and the doubles crown $500.

The only change in tournament standings saw Andy Varipapa, Brooklyn, trick shot artist, and Dave Burger of Detroit take over first place in the doubles with 1,274. Varipapa had a 719 series, second highest of the tournament, with games of 229, 267, and 233. Burger shot 195, 203, and 157.

A move to create a jackpot for the all-events was defeated. Neil C. King, Indianapolis, succeeded Frank J. Fitzpatrick, Oakland, Cal., as A. B. C. president.

Bonura's Debut Gives Giants a 1 to 0 Victory

Orlando, Fla., March 29 [Special].—Zeke Bonura figures so lightly in Manager Bill Terry's plans for the Giants this year that the club has not provided a uniform for him, but he went into action today against the Washington Senators, wearing a suit he borrowed from Johnny McCarthy. Zeke entered the game in the sixth inning and hammered in the run that gave the Giants their fourth straight victory and their second straight shutout. The score was 1 to 0.

Harry Danning's triple opened the seventh, and, when Bonura stepped to the plate for the first time in 1940, he singled to send Danning home.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Tucson, Ariz., March 29.—Larry French and Vance Page are scheduled to pitch for the Cubs in Phoenix tomorrow. Thornton Lee and Bill Dietrich have the White Sox assignment.

The Sox and Cubs will play to capacity crowds in Phoenix tomorrow and Sunday. Phoenix is Hank Leiber's home town.

Dizzy Dean attracts less and less attention with each passing day. The poor fellow is even turning hand springs in a desperate attempt to gain notice.

The suntan glamor boys, of whom there are many in the Cub-Sox caravan, lost much of their golden allure during a cloudy week in Los Angeles. They started basking the minute they got in to Tucson's matchless beams this morning.

Monday the teams will be in Bisbee, picturesque copper town a mile above sea level. The town is full of pranksters and they are expected to run riot Monday inasmuch as it will be All Fools' day.

IOWANS BETTER RECORD TO WIN IN RIFLE MEET

Iowa's rifle team ended Minnesota's seven year domination of midwestern intercollegiate marksmanship yesterday, winning the college division title in the University of Chicago's fifth annual midwest rifle meet in the Midway fieldhouse.

The Hawkeyes' winning total of 1,403 points bettered the National Rifle association's intercollegiate indoor record of 1,401 set in 1936 by the United States Naval academy. Teams in three other sectional competitions, however, had a chance to improve on Iowa's mark.

Firing in the three day open division of the Chicago meet will be resumed at 8 o'clock this morning. More than 700 marksmen, including most of the outstanding small-bore rifle shooters in the central states, began competition Thursday night.

Iowa's winners in the collegiate event were led by Robert Hadgihn, who hit 285 out of his 300 shots from 50 feet. Virgil Pettit scored 284; Ralph Bohlin, 282; Conrad Schadt, 278, and George W. Brown, 274. Best score in the team firing was 286 by John Becker of Minnesota. Team leaders:

Iowa, 1,403; Ohio State, 1,383; Minnesota, 1,372; Indiana, 1,313; Wisconsin, 1,312; Illinois, 1,302; Washington U. of St. Louis, 1,290; Lawrence Tech of Detroit, 1,214; Chicago, 1,174.

Virgil Pettit of Iowa won the championship in the individual collegiate event, beating Bob Hadgihn of Iowa in a shootoff after both had tied for first place at 284. In the shoot-off Pettit repeated with 284 and Hadgihn scored 279. Other leaders in the individual events: Clayton Rumsey, Ohio State, and Ralph Bohlin, Iowa, each 283; Walter Fellows, Ohio State, 282.

COUNCIL EASES DEMANDS IN NEW FRANCHISE PLAN

Modernization, Fares and Pay to City Affected.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The city council's special traction subcommittee yesterday submitted to the transit companies the city's latest proposals for unification of the surface, elevated, and bus lines under one franchise.

The proposal includes concessions from the city's previous stand on fares and on compensation to the city for use of streets and the city owned subway.

The proposal was presented in the form of an ordinance to the lines' negotiators at a joint meeting of the two groups. It was the first time since franchise negotiations began last May that the city has presented a complete unification proposal, altho they have announced their previous stand on many controversial points.

The Committee's Proposals.

1. RATES OF FARE. The unified company should maintain rates of fare now charged until Jan. 1, 1942, after which time the company would have the right to ask for an increase in fares. Previously the city had demanded that the company agree to keep present fares for an experimental period of three years after adoption of the unified franchise.

Yesterday's proposal also asked that the new company grant universal transfers during the experimental period to Jan. 1, 1942. There are no surface lines-bus company transfers in effect now.

Asks 3 Per Cent of Revenues.

2. COMPENSATION. The new company should pay to the city for use of streets and the subway 3 per cent of its gross revenues, but this would be reduced to 1.5 per cent until Jan. 1, 1943. Previously the city had asked that the rate be 3 per cent for the first three years, with 1.5 per cent deferred as a future obligation.

The subcommittee also proposed that the new company be relieved of paying $600,000 a year now paid the city for elevated car licenses and snow removal. The city would take the necessary funds for these services out of the compensation fund.

After the city had gotten the $600,000 the remainder of the compensation would go into the traction fund to be used chiefly for subway extensions. Based on revenue estimates the new company would pay about $400,000 a year into the traction fund until Jan. 1, 1943, and $1,400,000 a year thereafter. The city proposes that all compensation be paid prior to interest payments on the new company's first mortgage bonds.

3. MODERNIZATION. The new company would spend 60 million dollars in the next three years and an additional $42,000,000 in the following five years for new equipment and extensions.

The city's proposals were little changed from previous demands on questions of pensions, equipment of subways, and paving of street car rights of way. The subcommittee asked that the new company agree with its employés on a pension plan to be written into the ordinance.

It proposed that the merged system pay the $9,000,000 estimated cost of equipping the subway with track and station equipment, and that it pay for maintenance of paving on street car rights of way and repaving of streets where tracks are torn up for substitution of buses.

The subcommittee asked the lines' representatives to reply Wednesday to the ordinance proposal and make counterproposals on points of controversy. Walter A. Shaw, chairman of the lines' board, will report to the federal court today on progress of the franchise negotiations.

Day by Day on the Farm

By BOB BECKER

It's Bird Banding Time.

March 29, 1940.

EACH spring, when it seems logical to assume that the final blasts of winter are over, we take the bird banding traps out of storage, look around the farm for the best possible trapping locations, get our aluminum banding rings in order, and start one of the farm projects which always is interesting because it tells us about the comings and goings of migratory birds.

Next week the bird traps will be set out in the thickets and along the edges of farm wood lots and supplied with bird seed and fruit. Unless we pick poor trapping sites we should have a number of bird visitors before the end of the week. Each bird trapped will have a small aluminum band placed on its leg and then it will be released. The bands are numbered, and a record is kept of each bird trapped—its species, sex, and number. Many of the birds released never are heard from again, but some return to the traps later in the season, and some are caught by other banders.

Juncos First Last Year.

Last spring we started trapping on April 4, and our first visitors were juncos, followed on April 5 by a pair of chickadees and several song sparrows. Juncos and song sparrows continued to monopolize most of the traps until April 26, when the white throated sparrows started their invasion of Chicagoland woods. It is probable that the same types of migrants will find their way to our traps again this spring, and we're hoping that some of the birds we banded last season will be back to complete a yearly cycle and enable us to compare their 1939 and 1940 arrival dates.

So far the sheep and lambs on the Du Page county farm have been kept inside the big barn near the barnyard. But as soon as real spring conditions definitely arrive the flockmaster will let the flock out to graze. Because of the cool weather and numerous snows this spring, the grass isn't in prime condition, but within a week or ten days the men expect to be able to let the ewes and their fat lambs spend their days in the grassy fields.

Ewes Get Impatient.

The ewes are a bit impatient with the weather man because of the way he has forced them to stay in their winter quarters so long. We walked into the barnyard to chat with the flockmaster the other afternoon and the ewes were so disturbed about the lack of feed that we almost had to shout to be heard above their constant baaing. It was 4:10 o'clock by our watch, and the flockmaster explained that he was 10 minutes late with their evening feed. The ewes evidently have natural watches which tell them when their evening meal is due.

One of the men on the farm was mentioning this week that he is keeping his eyes open for roving dogs in the fields because the stray dog menace always is greatest during the first warm days of spring. In a week or so, depending on the weather, thousands of farmers in the middle west will be releasing their sheep and lambs from winter barns to grazing lots, and a pack of stray dogs in a field of sheep spells trouble.

HARDING ESTATE SET AT $1,643,501 IN COURT REPORT

Potential Value Put at 3 Millions.

An inventory of the estate of the late George F. Harding, Republican leader, listing assets with a present value of $1,643,501, was filed yesterday with Clerk Frank Lyman in the Probate court. It is expected, however, that when some of the securities in the estate mature and are liquidated, the assets will be worth nearly $3,000,000.

The largest item in the inventory is the listing of 3,100 bonds of the Chicago elevated and surface lines. These have a present market value of $330 each, a total of $1,023,000. Added to this are 152 parcels of real estate on the south side, valued at $500,000; cash in various banks totaling $104,678, and personal effects in Harding's home at 4853 Lake Park avenue, estimated at $15,823, giving the present aggregate figure of $1,643,501.

$750 Is Face Value of Bonds.

The elevated and street car bonds will ultimately be worth $750 each, however, inasmuch as that is their face value. This will give each one an increase of $420 over present listed value, and, since there are 3,100 of them, they will yield a total of $1,302,000 above the inventory figures.

The inventory was prepared by Attorney Arthur J. Murphy, counsel for Miss Jessie Katz, Harding's confidential secretary and executrix of the estate.

Harding, who was Republican committeeman for Illinois and a power in G. O. P. state and city politics for many years, died last April 2. His will left his fortune in trust—$12,000 a year to be paid to his daughter, Mrs. Mary Harding Thompson of Barrington township, and the rest to be used for maintenance of the $5,000,000 art gallery he incorporated as a free public museum in 1930.

Daughter Brings Suit.

Last January Mrs. Thompson brought suit in Circuit court to set aside the will.

Miss Addie Clark Harding, 1511 East 54th street, a grandniece of Harding, filed a claim for $73,315 against the estate yesterday. She asserted this amount is due her on two notes which Harding owed her grandfather, the late Abner Clark Harding, who was a brother of George Harding.

TRADE TREATY CHANGE LOSES IN SENATE VOTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—The New Deal's controversial trade program was saved by a 3 vote margin today when the senate defeated the amendment by Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.] to require senate ratification, by a two-thirds vote, of all future treaties. The Pittman amendment was rejected by a vote of 44 to 41.

Defeat of the Pittman amendment left opponents of the trade treaty program with little hope of attaching any restrictions to the pending resolution extending for three years, from June 12, the President's authority to rewrite the tariff laws by negotiating and proclaiming treaties with foreign nations.

The extension resolution, approved without change by the house, is expected to be passed by the senate early next week. Various amendments, however, remain to be acted upon.

Plan Another Attack.

The opposition forces now are concentrating their strength behind the amendment of Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] to require approval of the trade treaties by a majority vote of both the senate and the house to put them into effect. Such an amendment would enable a majority of either house to kill any treaty.

Administration leaders contended that the Pittman amendment would wreck the whole trade treaty program, and few of its supporters denied that such was their purpose.

The administration's victory was made possible by the 11th hour conversion of Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.], on whom the opposition leaders had relied to support the Pittman amendment, and two previously uncommitted New Deal yes-men—Lewis B. Schwellenbach [D., Wash.] and Harry H. Schwartz [D., Wyo.].

Appeals to Party Loyalty.

Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.] converted Donahey with a stirring appeal to his party loyalty. The solid opposition of the Republicans, Byrnes argued, had created a political issue and the fate of the Democratic party was at stake. Altho all 23 Republicans in the senate voted or were paired for the Pittman amendment, some of them said their party's position in the campaign this year would be improved with the New Deal's

Smaller Banks Increase Loans and Discounts

Many outlying and smaller downtown Chicago banks increased their loans and discounts in the first three months of 1940, the latest statements of condition disclosed. In most cases the gains were narrow, but they contrasted with a small decline in the combined total for all Chicago banks.

Total deposits, cash resources, and savings deposits of the outlying and smaller downtown banks held mainly to the downward trend reported for all banks. The statements covered the banks' condition as of March 26, 1940, compared with Dec. 30, 1939.

Total Deposits Down.

Merchandise National Bank of Chicago's loans and discounts increased $431,000 in the three months to $7,247,000. Total deposits were down $678,000 to $22,445,000, and cash resources were $1,764,000 lower at $12,071,000. Savings deposits showed a small increase.

Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank reported an increase of $148,000 in loans and discounts, which totaled $2,122,000. Total deposits declined $175,000 to $9,362,000, and cash resources shrank $298,000 to $3,582,000. Savings deposits were smaller.

Loans and discounts amounted to $1,470,000, and deposits totaled $6,835,000. Cash resources declined $948,000 to $3,589,000. Savings deposits made a small gain.

Lake Shore Loans Mount.

Mercantile National Bank of Chicago reported $4,344,000 of loans and discounts, an increase of $3,000, and total deposits of $17,621,000, a decrease of $1,100,000. Cash resources were $7,015,000, representing a drop of $1,483,000. Savings deposits declined about $1,000.

Banks Increase United States Bond Holdings

Chicago banks which increased their holdings of United States government bonds between Dec. 30, 1939, and March 26, 1940, outnumbered those which reduced such holdings, the bank calls of the latest date revealed.

Eighteen of the 30 national banks reported they now hold more government bonds than three months ago. Eleven national banks each reduced their holdings, and one, First National Bank of Englewood, made no change.

Total Holdings Down.

The total amount of government bonds held by all the 30 national institutions was $1,192,040,000, compared with $1,085,361,000 on Dec. 30.

Of 24 state banks in Chicago, 12 reported larger holdings of government bonds, 10 reduced the amounts held, one reported no change and another showed no such bonds on either bank call date. Sears-Community State bank was the one which made no change. Personal Loan and Savings bank listed no holdings of federal issues.

Altogether, the state banks reported a total of $216,053,000 of government bonds as of March 26, compared with $202,910,000 at the end of last year.

Combined Holdings Up.

State and national banks had combined government bond holdings of $1,408,093,000 on March 26, against $1,288,271,000 on Dec. 30.

Several banks made large changes. Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company reported $592,785,000 of federal bonds at the latest call date, compared with $607,936,000 three months earlier.

RULES EMPLOYE MAY SUE BOSS ON PAY DUE HIM UNDER WAGE ACT

Philadelphia, Pa., March 29 [Special].—In a precedent setting decision, Federal Judge Guy K. Bard ruled here today that a worker may sue his employer in the federal courts for wages due him under the wage and hour law. Moreover, the court held, the worker has the right to inspect his employer's books to ascertain how much is due him.

To prevent "fishing expeditions" on behalf of fellow workers, however, Judge Bard ruled that the examination of records must be limited to the plaintiffs themselves, and not to determine whether money is owed any other worker.

The ruling was made in a test suit filed by Morris Fishman, an agent of the International Ladies' Garment Workers union, on behalf of eight girls employed by Sophie Marcouse, operator of a button works here. The girls complained they were not paid the amounts due them under the wages and hours law. A special master is to supervise an examination of the button works records as affecting only these eight girls.

TAXES ON UTILITY EQUAL $1,476 FOR EACH EMPLOYE

New York, March 29 [Special].—Operating taxes paid by the Consolidated Edison Company of New York system in 1939 amounted to $1,476 for each average employé, according to the utility's annual report to employés, released today by Floyd L. Carlisle, chairman of the board. Ten years ago, the report states, operating taxes equaled 67.6 per cent of the amount paid to all employés as wages and pensions, compared with only 29.2 per cent in 1929.

The average weekly pay of employés was $37.13 during 1939. The total annual pay roll amounted to $80,289,000, while, the report stated, the salaries of all officers amounted to one-half of 1 per cent of total revenues, which amounted to $251,672,000.

A feature of the report is the breakdown of the average dollar of revenue received by the Consolidated Edison system in 1939. It shows the largest share, 27.6 cents, going to labor, with the second largest share, 21.7 cents, going to tax collectors. Coal and other supplies took 18.5 cents and depreciation, 10 cents. Interest requirements took 7.7 cents, leaving 4.3 cents for dividends on preferred stock, 9.2 cents for dividends on common stock, and 1 cent for surplus.

ACME STEEL CO. NET EARNINGS GAIN FIVEFOLD

Horder's Reports Increased Profits.

Acme Steel company, Chicago, earned five times as much in 1939 as in 1938, R. H. Norton, president, announced yesterday in his annual report. He said the company reduced its bank loans and pushed forward with a $1,500,000 expansion program which will be completed next autumn.

R. H. Norton.

Profit rose to $1,908,609, equal to $5.82 a share, from $368,167, or $1.12 a share, in 1938. Net sales last year increased to $17,400,061, from $11,029,173 in 1938, and gross profit before depreciation amounted to $6,306,459, compared with $3,521,052.

Bank Loans Reduced.

"A substantial reduction in bank loans was made," Norton wrote. "Of the $450,000 shown as current notes payable, $250,000 has been paid prior to the date of this letter, and $200,000 will be paid in November. This will leave only one long term obligation, $200,000 due in November, 1941."

Norton said development of some of the company's specialty lines necessitated the expansion in buildings and machinery. "The undistributed profits tax law having been allowed to expire," he continued, "a larger proportion of this plant increase can be taken care of without additional borrowing."

Comments on High Taxes.

Commenting on taxes and the business outlook, Norton said:

"In common with business enterprise generally, the company is still paying high taxes, due to the unusual expense of government in recent years. Relief from some of this burden would without doubt stimulate business and reduce unemployment.

"It is difficult to predict the course of business for the current year. The European war and the domestic political situation are elements which might bring rapid changes. The starting of new business enterprise is not likely to be of significant proportions until investors have more confidence that they can risk their money profitably."

Horder's Sales Increase.

Horder's, Inc., another Chicago company, which sells office supplies at wholesale and also operates several retail stores in Chicago, reported increased sales and profits for the year ended Jan. 31, 1940.

E. Y. Horder, president of the company, issued a report to stockholders showing consolidated profits of $201,594, equal to $1.61 a share, compared with $140,825, or $1.13 a share, in the preceding year. Sales increased 12 per cent to $3,666,053.

Diamond T Motor Car company had a profit of $301,394, equal to 7⅓ cents a share, C. A. Tilt, president of the company, said in his annual report. In 1938 Diamond T, a Chicago company, had net income of $1,154. It is currently showing earnings, the report said.

Tilt said sales last year numbered 8,684 trucks, compared with 7,777 in 1938, an increase of 11.6 per cent. The dollar volume of business increased 20.3 per cent to $10,340,677.

"This greater increase in dollar volume as compared with unit volume reflects the company's higher price level as against an industry trend that was generally downward," Tilt said.

Business in Chicago Shows Substantial Gain Over 1939

Business in Chicago during February showed substantial gains over February, 1939, and in numerous lines was better than in January, 1940, the monthly business survey of the Chicago Association of Commerce disclosed yesterday. There were two less days in February than in January, which accounted for a part of the decline in some activities, such as street railway passengers carried.

Practically all the major indices showed substantial February gains over 1939. The retailers' occupation tax collection totaled $4,156,223 for the month, against $3,485,243 a year ago. In January, 1940, the total was $5,516,713—a sum which included payments made on the substantial Christmas season buying.

More Telephones in Use.

Passengers carried on the surface lines totaled 56,933,227, against 53,391,495 in February a year ago. Telephones in use on Feb. 29 totaled 1,004,278, against 969,495 a year ago.

Both the manufacuring industries employé and pay roll indices showed substantial gains over last year and only slight declines from January of this year. The department store sales index, another good business barometer, also was substantially higher than in 1939.

Pig Iron Output Up.

Pig iron production was far greater than in 1940, altho the volume for the month of 649,656 tons reflected the current decline in steel production. The number of live stock slaughtered also was well ahead of last year.

British pound sterling went into another slump in the New York open market yesterday, closing 7 cents lower at $3.53. The drop erased most of the 10¾ cent gain made Thursday in a temporary rally from the long decline that has carried the pound down from $3.93¼ at the beginning of March.

The French franc eased in sympathy with sterling, closing 0.04 cent lower at 2 cents. The Canadian dollar was unchanged at 81.75 cents in terms of the American dollar.

BIG BROKERAGE FIRM PLANS TO ORGANIZE UNDERWRITING UNIT

New York, March 29 (AP).—One of the nation's largest brokerage houses, Fenner and Beane, has applied to the New York Stock exchange for the right to form an affiliated underwriting corporation, it was learned today.

It made the application yesterday, less than 24 hours after the governors of the exchange had voted such corporations permissible. The Fenner and Beane application was the first received. It will be acted on next week.

Under the governors' ruling, the exchange's committee on member firms may allow a brokerage firm [a partnership with unlimited liability] to establish an affiliated corporation [with limited liability] to handle underwriting activities.

Newark Threatens to Close Airport for Lack of Funds

Newark, N. J., March 29 [Special].—Mayor Meyer C. Ellenstein today informed a group of officials representing major air lines that unless the air line companies could provide a revenue of $135,000 for Newark airport for the current year, Newark "must of necessity close the airport." The mayor explained that curtailed schedules out of Newark had resulted in a sharp drop in revenue as a result of competition from New York City's new airport, built largely with federal funds.

HARVESTER CO. EMPLOYES GET BENEFIT SETUP

Firm Plans Profit Sharing System.

International Harvester company yesterday announced details of a twofold employé benefit plan designed to reduce the hazards of unemployment and old age thru savings and profit sharing.

Sydney G. McAllister explains employé benefit plan.

The plan, effective May 1, will apply to approximately 50,000 employés and will cost the company in excess of $1,000,000 a year on the savings feature alone.

Employés savings matched to varying degrees by the company, employé participation in earnings of the company when the profit is in excess of $3 per share of common stock in any year, and a program of income augmentation in case of layoffs are among the many features of the plan.

Explains Reasons for Plan.

Commenting on the general setup of the plan and the reasons for its adoption, Sydney G. McAllister, president of the company, said:

"The very nature of our company's business is such that it involves large fluctuations in sales.

"Consequently, unemployment is a problem of paramount interest to employés and has been a concern of the management for many years. Of like importance to employé and management is the problem of old age security.

"The main objective of this plan, therefore," he continued, "is to assist employés in providing retirement and unemployment income."

Main Provisions of Plan.

1. An individual account will be created for every employé who participates.

2. The employé voluntarily may save up to 10 per cent of salary or wages, matched by the company up to a maximum of 2½ per cent of his income. The company will pay interest on the total.

3. All employés eligible, whether participating in the savings feature

Firm Will Start Savings, Profit Sharing Plan.

or not, will receive a share of 25 per cent of all earnings of the company in excess of $3 per share of common stock in any year. The employés share of the earnings will be based on his salary or wages.

May Withdraw on Income.

4. When an employé's earnings in any week fall below 60 per cent of his normal full time earnings, he may withdraw funds from his account to bring his income for that week to the 60 per cent mark.

5. When an employé retires he receives the entire amount standing to his credit, usually in the form of annuities.

In nine years out of the last 15, the company's earnings have exceeded the $3 per share limit and employés would have participated in the earnings. Earnings in 1939 were equal to $1.71 a share and in 1938, $3 per share. However, the company officials have predicted increased profits this year.

For the years 1937, 1936, and 1935 a total of approximately $6,750,940 would have been made available for the employés under the plan. Based on the maximum of 50,000 employés participating, this would be equal to an average of $135 per employé for the three years. The amount each individual received would vary with his earnings.

80 Per Cent Affected.

The plan is effective for all employés with three or more years of service with the company. This group constitutes more than 80 per cent of International Harvester employés.

Under a limited benefit provision employés with less than three years' service and more than one year may utilize the savings feature. The company will pay interest on such deposits.

Withdrawal rules of the plan were designed to afford the greatest possible protection for the employés. The rules are, briefly:

1. If the employés withdraw savings which have been matched by the company for any reason other than unemployment or retirement, the amount deposited by the company is forfeited.

2. Half the extra profit sharing may be withdrawn at any time for any reason. The other half may not be withdrawn except for unemployment, retirement, or termination of service with the company.

Sum Payable on Death.

3. In the event of death before retirement, the entire amount of the account is payable to the estate.

4. Money forfeited by any employé reverts into a general fund for the benefit of participating employés.

International Harvester, in addition to the above plan, also has featured a pension system which was in effect until 1937, a vacation plan, and an Employés' Benefit association with provisions for sickness, accident, and death benefits and hospitalization.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Despite the small Friday run of hogs at the stockyards the market failed to hold the previous day's advances. Prices were mostly 5 to 10 cents below the average of Thursday and closed only slightly above the six year lows established in midweek. Both the top and average were off 5 cents, at $5.30 and $5.00, respectively.

It was cleanup day in the cattle alleys. The 500 head made too small a supply to put prices to a test. Practically all classes of steers, yearlings, beef cows, heifers, canners, cutters, and calves were steady.

Hogs.

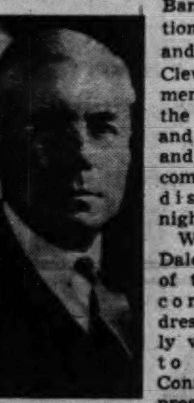
BANKING HOUSE AND I. B. A. CLASH OVER SEC RULES

Competitive Bidding Plan Cause of Fight.

Sharp differences of opinion between executives of the Investment Bankers Association of America and Otis & Co., Cleveland investment house, over the securities acts and the Securities and Exchange commission were disclosed last night.



Emmett F. Connely.

William R. Daley, president of the Cleveland company, addressed a strongly worded letter to Emmett F. Connely, Detroit, president of the Investment Bankers association, in which he charged that Connely's recent criticism of the arms' length bargaining [competitive bidding] rules of the SEC was merely a defense of the Morgan Stanley & Co. stake in the Consumers Power and Dayton Power and Light cases.

Connely Replies to Daley.

Connely, who was in Chicago to address a meeting of the central states group of the Investment Bankers of the Palmer House, immediately replied to the Daley charge. At the same time the 300 bankers attending the conference unanimously approved a resolution which endorsed the position of the association.

The Connely criticism of the SEC was contained in his reply on March 18 to a questionnaire of the SEC. At that time he declared the SEC's rules on securities bargaining were illegal.

"Far from being an expression of interest of most of the 700 I. B. A. members, the reply is actually a brief in defense of Morgan Stanley & Co. stake in the Consumers Power and Dayton Power and Light cases," Daley declared. Indeed, a careful comparison of the I. B. A. reply with the previous Morgan Stanley pamphlet on competitive bidding reveals not only a remarkable parallel of ideas thruout, but also a striking similarity of language."

No Solution, Says Daley.

Daley asserted that the association "by using its reply to the SEC's civil request for suggestions on a highly technical question as a pretext to lay on the commission's doorstep the blame for the stagnation of the investment market, does not offer any constructive solution of this fundamental problem."

He concluded by declaring that "if the I.B.A. continues to lend itself to the purposes of those under whose auspices the New York Stock exchange fell into its present plight, the investment banking industry may find itself likewise led to the slaughter."

"There is nothing new about the position of Otis & Co. on compulsory bidding," Connely's statement said. "Nor should there be any question at this late date regarding our association's position.

Oppose Compulsory Bidding.

"As far back as Jan. 12 at the regular winter meeting of the board of governors, weeks before the SEC issued its letter on this subject, the board unanimously adopted a resolution opposing compulsory competitive bidding. This action was subsequently ratified and endorsed unanimously by all 17 group executive committees of the association which represent the geographical distribution of the membership thruout the United States.

"To date Mr. Daley's objection has been the only one raised by any member of the association. Since the association's reply to the SEC has been made public, its stand has not only been enthusiastically endorsed by its own members but by nonmembers and dealers.

"The activity of Otis & Co., and Mr. Daley, who is reported to be the spokesman for Cyrus Eaton, to force compulsory competitive bidding is too well known to require elaboration.

[Cyrus Eaton is a widely known Cleveland financier, who at one time had a big interest in steel, rubber, and utility companies. He lost a large part of his financial control during the depression. Eaton's heavy buying of stock of enterprises of the late Samuel Insull has been credited with being one of the reasons for the Insull collapse, as the Chicago financier sought to prevent Eaton from gaining control.]

Resolution of Association.

"Resolved that the position of the Investment Bankers association as stated in a letter to President Emmett F. Connely to Chairman Jerome N. Frank of the SEC, dated March 18, 1940, which embodied a report of a special committee answering a request of the SEC, has the unqualified support and approval of this meeting."

Earlier Connely told the meeting that immediate revision of the two securities acts is essential to the prosperity of the nation. Revision is the only way in which the flow of capital can be started and men put back to work again, he said.

NEW YORK ADOPTS PLAN TO SPEED SLUM CLEARANCE PROJECTS

Albany, N. Y., March 29 [Special].—Both houses of the legislature joined today in sending to Gov. H. H. Lehman the Mitchell-Nunan housing bill designed to speed slum clearance projects thru the aid of private capital. Since the bill was prepared by leading civic groups and legislation of this type was urged by the governor in his annual message, his prompt signing of the bill, making it law, was expected.

The bill permits New York City planning commission to approve privately financed slum clearance in an area designated by it as a slum area, after approval of all plans and details, by the commission and the city housing authority.

Private development corporations also would be given the right of condemnation, upon proof that they had already acquired title to at least 60 per cent of the area affected. The corporations would be limited dividend concerns operating on a maximum 5 per cent return on their investment.

AMERICAN FIRMS GET INJUNCTIONS IN MEXICAN GRAB

Washington, D. C., March 29 (AP).—State department dispatches from Mexico City said today that the Mexican federal court had granted an injunction in the case of two American chicle producing companies in Campeche, suspending execution of a decree depriving them of title to their properties. The companies are La Laguna company and the Mexican Gulf Land and Lumber company.

A third American firm involved in the decree—the Pennsylvania Campeche Land and Lumber company—has decided not to seek an injunction now. The three companies own approximately 1,500,000 acres of land.

ILLINOIS JOBLESS PAID 28 MILLIONS IN LAST 9 MONTHS

256,571 Receive Benefits from State Fund.

Nearly 28 million dollars in unemployment compensation benefits has been paid to unemployed Illinois workers since the payments began last July 1. This was indicated yesterday—at the beginning of a new "benefit year"—in figures released by Peter T. Swanish, commissioner of the state division of placement and unemployment compensation.

The figures covered only the first eight months of benefit payments since data for March will not be complete for another 10 days. Total payments from July 1 to March 1 were $24,122,327. With payments averaging about $3,500,000 monthly, the total to date was estimated at nearly 28 millions.

Swanish said 2,057,819 checks were issued during the first eight months of the payments. The average check was for $11.72, and 256,571 persons received checks.

Aug.	264,247	3,233,017	12.23	60,430
Sept.	334,670	3,924,128	11.73	31,412
Oct.	268,781	3,120,826	11.56	23,248
Nov.	264,612	3,024,365	11.43	26,201
Dec.	272,404	3,122,492	11.46	28,103
Jan.	327,042	3,817,143	11.67	33,475
Feb.	297,775	3,508,126	11.78	25,414
Total	2,057,819	$24,122,327	$11.72	256,571

Explains July Figure.

Swanish said the unusually large average checks for July and August were caused by the demands of partially employed workers for total compensation. These ceased, he added, when it became more generally known that a partially employed worker can take only partial benefits.

From July 1, 1937, when the unemployment compensation fund began to accumulate, until March 1, this year, a total of $200,997,241 was paid into the Illinois fund. This included a contribution of about $20,000,000 made in 1937 by the federal government under a provision for aiding states who established unemployment compensation laws. That portion of the fund not paid out and not used for administrative expenses is kept in a reserve required by law.

Sues Beverly State Bank Stockholders for $45,000

A suit to collect about $45,000 under the stockholders' liability law from 85 stockholders of the Beverly State bank, which closed seven years ago, was filed in Circuit court yesterday by Victor H. Munnecke, receiver of the stockholders' liability.

SELLING CAUSED BY RAINS PUSHES WHEAT LOWER

Dry weather and crop damage reports from the southwestern winter wheat belt lost their effect as a price making influence yesterday. Official returns showing that the greater part of the spring grain area had good rain and snow overnight following liberal precipitation earlier in the week started a selling movement in futures which carried prices off about 1 cent from Thursday's finish to the lowest level in more than a week.

The decline was helped along by selling attributed to northwestern interests and weakness in Winnipeg. Short covering developed late in the session and a rally followed. Closing sales on the Chicago Board of Trade were at losses of ⅛ to ⅝ cent.

Elevator and export interests were moderate buyers of corn futures, and the market showed considerable resistance to the early decline in wheat. The close was ⅛ to ⅜ cents lower.

$8,500,000 ISSUE OF KRESGE TRUST NOTES OFFERED

Offering was made yesterday of $8,500,000 in 10-year 3 per cent collateral trust notes of the Kresge foundation by a banking group consisting of Lehman Brothers, the First Boston corporation, Goldman, Sachs & Co., and Watling, Lerchen & Co. The notes are convertible after May 1, 1941, into common stock of S. S. Kresge company at 102 per cent and accrued interest.

Lehman Brothers are also selling privately $3,000,000 serial collateral trust notes of the Kresge foundation, which carry varying interest rates from ¼ per cent per annum for the series maturing Sept. 15, 1940, to 2¼ per cent for that maturing March 15, 1945.

Both issues, dated March 15, 1940, will be secured initially by pledge with National Bank of Detroit, as trustee, of 1,150,000 shares of common stock of S. S. Kresge company.

IT'S THE MAN WHO PAYS (FOURFOLD) FOR HIS WIFE'S UPKEEP

French Lick, Ind., March 29 (AP).—Two may be able to live as cheaply as one, but it is more probable that the upkeep will increase fourfold, Rajean M. Godish, Hoboken, N. J., textile authority, told the Indiana Home Economics association today.

"A wife is an expensive article because her clothing actually wears out each season," she warned leap year wary bachelors, "for women demand the sheerest fabrics in their undergarments, dresses and hose and the thinnest, most perishable leather in their shoes."

UPTOWN STATE BANK BECOMES NATIONAL UNIT

Conversion of the Uptown State bank into a national bank effective at the close of business today was announced yesterday by H. F. Wuehrmann, president. The new name will be Uptown National Bank of Chicago.

H. F. Wuehrmann.

Wuehrmann said there will be no change in management or policies of the bank under it national status.

The bank is at Broadway and Lawrence avenue. It has one of the largest and best equipped banking quarters outside the loop and serves a large area on the north side for which it provides the only banking facilities.

Uptown was organized by a group of Chicagoans associated with the First National Bank of Chicago on Dec. 23, 1929, thru the First-Chicago corporation, affiliated with the downtown bank. The First-Chicago corporation still retains its interest in the north side bank whose home originally was in the old Wilson Theater building on Wilson avenue. The Uptown bank moved to its present quarters on Jan. 1, 1937.

Its growth has been rapid. Deposits exceed $10,000,000 and loans and discounts approximate $2,230,000. It had 21,653 customers on Dec. 31.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, March 29 (AP).—The stock market kept its balance today with the aid of steels, utilities, and specialties.

Gains ran to a point or so for favorites at the best, but closing prices were under the tops in many cases. Also numerous leaders finished unchanged to a shade under water.

McKesson & Robbins shares made a triumphant return to the exchange. More than 10 per cent of the trading in the first hour occurred in the readmitted common—second most active stock on the list for the day—and a better price was paid for it than when it was stricken from the list Dec. 6, 1938. Opening at 6⅞, compared with its stock exchange quotation of 7½ before suspension, the shares ran up to 8 and closed at 7¾. The readmitted preferred opened at 28¾ and rose to 31¼, before easing to finish at 28¾. The last quotation on the senior issue before its suspension was 36½.

Loft sprinted to a new high with a gain of 1⅜. Dow Chemical was up 4½ on light volume. Moderate advances were retained by United States Steel, Bethlehem, Consolidated Edison, United corporation, Electric Power and Light, American Water Works, Crown Cork, Spicer Manufacturing, Cluett Peabody, Lockheed, Mid-Continent Petroleum, Great Northern, Westinghouse, and du Pont.

New York Bonds.

New York, March 29 (AP).—Selected utility and industrial liens pushed out in front of a narrow bond market today. Gainers included both low yield and second grade ratings. The latter, traders said, were responsive to the brighter business sentiment growing out of United States Steel corporation's unexpected $1 common stock dividend declaration Tuesday.

United States government loans averaged gains of about ⅛ point. Foreign loans were mixed.

Trading in McKesson & Robbins 5½s, which were removed from the list date in 1938 just before the F. Donald Coster-Musica scandal broke, was resumed today. The bonds were traded in substantial volume and closed at 96¼, down 7⅜ from the last recorded December price.

Chicago Stocks.

Elgin National Watch and Leath common stock closed at 28⅝ and 4½, respectively, on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, both up ¼ and establishing new 1940 highs. A total of 27,000 shares was traded in an uneven market. Volume leaders included Commonwealth Edison, which closed at 32⅛, unchanged; Chicago corporation, 1⅝, down ⅛, and Central and Southwest Utilities, ¼, unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

Five Chicago bank stocks gained ½ to 5 points yesterday, but American National and Harris Trust dipped 2 points each. Northern Trust advanced 5 points. City National, First National, and Chicago Title gained 1 point each. Continental Illinois rose half a point.

8 CLOSED BANKS PAY $284,483.53 TO DEPOSITORS

Checks Are Mailed to 35,200 Customers.

Checks have been given out for authorized payment of $284,483.53 to 35,200 depositors of eight closed state banks in Chicago, Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, disclosed yesterday.

The eight banks are the Halsted Street State bank, Morgan Park Trust and Savings bank, Novak and Steiskal State bank, Ridge State bank, Southwest Trust and Savings bank, Stockmen's Trust and Savings bank, Universal State bank, and the West Highland State bank.

Payments Total 84 Per Cent.

Largest distribution took place for the Southwest Trust and Savings bank, where about 8,000 depositors received a 4 per cent payment of $65,328.32. The eighth since the bank closed, this payment brought the total to 84 per cent. In addition to this, $340,500 has been paid on bills payable and $771,865.43 to preferred creditors. The payment was from ordinary liquidation.

Halsted Street State bank disbursed 5 per cent, or $42,079.70, to about 5,000 depositors, bringing the total paid up to 60 per cent. Ordinary liquidation provided the funds for this fourth output. In addition, $118,791.78 has been paid on bills payable and $239,447.08 to preferred creditors.

From the Morgan Park Trust and Savings bank a 5 per cent payment of $28,149.30 was disbursed to 4,000 depositors, raising the total paid to 57½ per cent. Of this fourth distribution 2½ per cent represented funds acquired in the ordinary course of liquidation and 2½ per cent was funds from the receiver of the stockholders' liability suit. Other disbursements which have been made are $99,275 on bills payable and $7,265.62 to preferred creditors.

2,700 Depositors Benefit.

About 2,700 depositors of the Novak and Steiskal State bank received $28,640 from the 5 per cent payment, the sixth, which raised the total since the bank closed to 45 per cent. Funds from the ordinary course of liquidation provided 1½ per cent of this and funds from the receiver of the stockholders' liability suit furnished the other 3½ per cent. In addition $160,000 has been paid on bills payable and $17,079.71 to preferred creditors.

From ordinary liquidation the Ridge State bank disbursed 5 per cent, or $9,541.71, to approximately 2,000 depositors, lifting the total paid since the bank closed to 25 per cent. Preferred creditors have received $33,827.92 and $20,000 also has been paid on bills payable.

For the sixth distribution which increased the total paid since closing to 45 per cent, the Stockmen's Trust and Savings bank disbursed 5 per cent, amounting to $31,868.95, to about 3,500 depositors. The payment was from ordinary liquidation. Other disbursements which have been made are $402,237.50 on bills payable and $44,053.54 to preferred creditors.

The Universal State bank paid $36,479.10 to approximately 3,500 depositors, boosting the total since the doors closed by 5 per cent to 42½ per cent. This fifth payment was from ordinary liquidation. In addition, $176,283.43 has been paid on bills payable and $64,712.99 to preferred creditors.

The West Highland State bank made its third distribution, a 5 per cent output of $42,396.45 to approximately 6,500 depositors. This payment from ordinary liquidation raised the total paid since closing to 15 per cent. Preferred creditors have been given $173,078.88 and $109,000 has been paid on bills payable.

URGES LICORICE, ANISE PLANTING FOR IDLE LANDS

Plan Is Called an Aid to Farm Problem.

Cultivation of coriander, caraway, anise, and licorice in this country would result in better products and assist in solving the agricultural problem, Paul J. Kilachov, director of research for the Joseph E. Seagram and Sons, Inc., told the sixth annual chemurgic conference of agriculture, industry, and science which closed yesterday in the Stevens hotel.

"Under the present administration," he said, "the elimination of certain crops in the crop control program has left and will leave many fields idle. Sowing seeds of plants for essential oil production on this unused land would not only aid the farmers and produce a domestic market, but also would promote the production of uniform, definitely specified materials thru operation of control methods."

Conditions in the United States are satisfactory for production, he added, and there is a need for it.

Huge Licorice Imports.

"According to government records from the department of commerce," Kolachov said, "licorice root sale to this country for 1937 and 1938 was over one and a quarter million dollars a year; in quantity, 70 million pounds a year.

"Essential oil from anise seed importation during this same period amounted to one million pounds, costing us approximately one million dollars."

Oil of coriander seed, he explained, is used for flavoring foods; caraway, in the making of bread, cheese, salads, and other foods; anise oil, in pastries, candies, and canned goods, and licorice, in the manufacture of candies, chewing gums, laxatives, and cough mixtures.

Describes Only Big Plant.

Calling cigaret paper a perfect illustration of farm chemurgy possibilities, Harry H. Straus, president of the Ecusta Paper company, North Carolina, described the establishment of the only large American plant for the manufacture of cigaret papers from flax fiber.

Until the advent of this plant paper Straus said, practically all cigaret paper consumed in the United States was imported from France. The first acceptable sheet of paper from the new factory was turned out on Sept. 3, 1939—the day the European war was declared.

Senator Schwartz, in revealing his postion, introduced into the record a letter to R. R. Rose, Wyoming Democratic chairman, in which he denied that the trade treaties had injured the live stock industry.

Schwellenbach, who has been hearing from back home that the treaties are extremely unpopular in Washington, has been expecting for weeks an appointment as a federal district judge. His vote today should not impair his prospects, in the opinion of his colleagues.

Only one member of the senate, Charles O. Andrews [D., Fla.], was absent and unpaired, and his position was not revealed. In Florida the trade treaty program is unpopular because of the Cuban competition with the fruit and vegetable industry.

The defeat of the senate ratification amendment was regarded as a personal triumph for Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who is favored by many senate Democrats for the presidential nomination. Such intended victims of President Roosevelt's ill-fated 1938 purge adventure as Senators Walter F. George of Georgia, Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, and Ellison D. [Cotton Ed] Smith of South Carolina voted against the Pittman amendment, largely, it was believed, because of Hull's influence.

Senator Carter Glass [D., Va.] is a low tariff Democrat and a great admirer of Hull, but he voted for the senate ratification amendment because he believed the act itself illegal.

EXPORTS OF PORK REACH TEN YEAR FEBRUARY PEAK

But Sales Fall Slightly Below January.

Altho exports of pork from the United States during February fell slightly short of the January volume, they were the heaviest for February in ten years, the department of commerce reported yesterday. The total for the month was 27,682,121 pounds, including large shipments to Canada before that country enforced a "peace time" quota, compared with 28,587,458 pounds in January and 8,243,210 pounds a year ago.

Pork exports for the first two months also were the largest since 1930. The total, 56,269,579 pounds, compared with 16,688,581 pounds a year ago, 13,097,614 two years ago, and an all-time low January and February total of 8,163,554 pounds in 1937. At that time meat in the United States was scarce and high in price as a result of the two drouth years, 1934 and 1936, and the efforts of the government to hold down production.

Current Sales Smaller.

Current sales to other countries are said to be running substantially smaller than in January and February, altho no official figures on the volume are available. A fairly large share of the shipments during the first two months of the year went to Canada. However, pork came into that country so fast because of the big difference in the price level between Canadian and United States markets that the Canadian government limited monthly purchases from the United States. The quota was placed at 1,600,000 pounds monthly.

Lard exports during February totaled 25,132,915 pounds, the largest for February since 1934. The total was 27,588,373 pounds in January, and 24,483,399 pounds a year ago. During the first two months of 1940 sales of lard to other countries totaled 52,721,288 pounds, against 53,003,876 pounds a year earlier.

Beef and Veal Efforts.

February beef and veal exports, at 1,767,063 pounds, were heaviest for February since 1931, and compared with 1,324,517 pounds in January and 841,065 a year ago. The total for the two months, 3,091,580 pounds, compared with 1,946,518 last year.

Pork imports during February totaled only 524,566 pounds, the smallest for any month since April, 1935. They compared with 677,682 pounds in January, and 4,126,389 pounds a year ago. The invasion of Poland by Germany eliminated the heaviest foreign seller of pork in the United States, and the danger of shipping and current low prices have cut supplies from other countries. During the first two months of the year pork imports totaled only 1,202,248 pounds, compared with 8,206,713 a year ago and an all-time high of 11,961,785 pounds in 1937 when almost every important country in the world found the United States a profitable market for meat.

GELLMAN MFG.

I am interested in the stock of the Gellman Manufacturing company, listed on the Chicago Board of Trade. I would like to know what its earnings were in recent years and what dividends were paid on the stock.—F. W.

Answer: Gellman Manufacturing company makes bread slicing and bread wrapping and sealing machinery sold under the trade names of Speed Giant and Producer. The firm was incorporated in 1922 as the Gellman Wrench corporation, and the present name was taken in 1924.

Operations of the company in 1939 showed a marked improvement over those of 1938 and resulted in a net profit for the first time since 1936. Net sales of $422,793 last year were the highest on record and compared with $149,264 in 1938. The following table compares net income, earnings per share, and dividends per share in recent years:

1936	22,476	0.14	$0.15
1937	*20,020	*0.06	0.20
1938	*62,488	*0.19	....

*Loss.

The company's balance sheet at the end of 1939 indicated total assets of $562,782, of which current assets were $315,747. Current liabilities were $39,872.

EARTH MOVERS.

What is the business of Le Tourneau, Inc.? Please give me a report on the company.—J. E.

Answer: R. G. Le Tourneau, Inc., manufactures earth moving equipment and two-wheeled tractors for earth scraping. The firm sells and rents its machinery, and until 1931 also operated the equipment in the construction of highways, dams, railroads, and airports. The company's plants are in Peoria, Ill., and Stockton, Cal.

There are outstanding 450,000 shares of the company's $1 par common stock, which alone constitutes its capitalization. The Le Tourneau Foundation, a nonprofit religious organization, holds 303,800 shares.

1935	$ 586,000	$2.61	$4.00
1936	1,364,000	3.03	6.00
1937	1,263,000	2.81	2.50
1938	1,412,000	3.14	1.25
1939	1,816,000	4.04	1.00

Net income in the first two months of 1940 rose to $218,606 from $142,184 in the same period of 1939.

NEAR NORTH SIDE
Cheer up—the sun's gonna shine some more. And when it does it's good for you to get out in it and walk to your office instead of spending so much time commuting. You can do that down here and do so many things you like to do and still get a good night's sleep. It's a little unusual to have a living room 2 stories high or one 37 feet long, or a little 2 story house [3 rooms and kitchenette] in a group of six, clustered about a little slate-paved court [heated and serviced like an apt.] We try to have things unusual and delightful, and we like that sort of a tenant, too—the kind that likes fireplaces and such things and wants to live in an adorable place. We'd like to help you make it so. A few furnished and some marvelous layouts for combining your home and business.
